

A NARROW-SIGHTED POLICY.

Mr. C. H. McIsaac, of the Manufacturers' Association of Portland, speaks different views in regard to establishing manufacturing plants in Portland than ever before advanced by Portland people.

Mr. McIsaac is correct, but the great mouth-piece, speaking for Portland, takes an opposite view and has always worked to drag everything from the interior towns to Portland.

Representative Tongue has been having some lively times with the other members from the West, recently. Mr. Tongue is chairman of the arid lands and irrigation committee, and members from the arid states believe that he is their chief obstacle in securing irrigation legislation.

True in fact, but false in spirit and in truth. For at the time the Alaska trade sprang up, taking all the steamers at larger rates than any local trade could justify paying, the ware houses at Yaquina bay and all the freight cars along the side-tracks of the railroad company were filled and remained so for some months, awaiting shipment through Yaquina bay.

The populist state central committee of Oregon held an inquest over the remains of their party at Salem, Friday. The occasion was a sweetly solemn one; not a drum was heard, not a funeral note. Will R. King, of Malheur, chairman; J. A. Jeffery and G. W. Weeks, of Salem; Ernest Kroner, of Portland; F. Williams, of Ashland; Silas B. Smith, of Astoria, and William Hammer, of Albany, performed the last sad rites.

From the Nation's Capital.

EDITOR CORVALLIS GAZETTE:—A special session of congress seems certain. It is almost certain that such special session will be an advantage to the democratic party in the next campaign.

Since the Cuban constitution convention has delayed action and has taken its time in promulgating the constitution, republicans in both houses of congress declare that Cuba can wait until next winter's session to have its proposed constitution considered.

The principal reports of the twelfth census are required by law to be published by the first of July, 1902. There is little reason to doubt that the work will be completed on time.

Oregonians in Washington are watching with a decided interest the course of the legislature in electing, or rather in not electing, the United States senator.

Three Questions.

Before purchasing a piano or organ there are a few questions it is well to consider. First: Is the instrument made to use or simply to sell? Second: Is the tone, action and finish first class? Third: Is the price reasonable? Cheap instruments are expensive at any price.

Something New.
