Solves the Problem.

In the new law, prescribing the duties of county surveyors in establishing boundary lines, passed by the last legislature, there is a provision which offers a solution for the disputed boundary of Benton and Lane.

Section 11 of the new law provides that "In any survey affecting a county line, the surveyor who may be called on to make the survey shall serve notice upon the county [surveyor of the adjoining county and they shall agree upon a time; and they shall each serve notice upon the land owners of their respective counties who are interested in such survey." * * * "and shall make such survey in the same manner as other surveys, and each surveyor shall file a copy of the plat and field notes of such survey in the county surveyor's office."

Appeals from said survey may be made; provided, that such appeal shall be taken to the circuit court of the county wherever the proceeding is initiated. The corners and boundaries so established and recorded in each county shall be held to be permanent, and shall never be changed.

Since the matter was first brought to the attention of the commissioner court, the members of that body have used their best endeavors to solve the problem. It was suggested to the court that the surveyor general was the proper person to establish said boundary line, but it was determined that that official was an employe of the government and had power only to make government surveys and this matter was entirely outside of his jurisdiction.

Judge Woodward finally determined upon a plan which was almost directly in line with that adopted by the legislature. He wrote to Judge Kincaid, of Lane county, suggesting that the court of each county interested appoint persons to survey, jointly, a boundary line between the two counties; that they place monuments upon the line determined by them, and that the next legislature be asked to designate this as the permanent boundary line.

This proposal met with the approval of the commissioners of Lane county, and the move was about to be put into effect, when copies of the new laws were received offering the solution above described.

THE COUNTY SURVEYOR.

A Law That Makes His Office One of the Best in the County.

If we interpret the matter aright, the last legislature passed an act which transforms the county surveyor's office from a position offering little employment and meager remuneration, to one affording affluence, influence and plenty to do.

Under this law the county surveyor is entitled to an office in the county court house. He shall fill this office up as becomes his position, and procure the materials and requisites—instruments, etc.—for carrying into effect the provisions of this act, "and the county shall pay for the same and all expenses incurred therein out of the general fund of the county," and no questions asked. He shall receive fees, for his services the sum of $5 per day for each and every day employed in the performance of his duties, and ten cents per mile for each mile actually traveled in going from the county seat to and from the place of survey.

The duties enumerated in the act will increase materially the number of days' employment now enjoyed by the surveyor. He is authorized to administer oaths necessary to the legal establishment of roads and other surveys and to take evidence to prove any point necessary to such survey.

Upon the establishment of any road he shall enter the plat and field notes upon the official records of the county. He shall make out a complete description of all or any part of the real estate of his county, to be made out and entered on proper rolls furnished by the clerk. He shall make complete surveys, plans, specifications and estimates for all bridges, culverts, roads, ditches or other public works to be constructed under the authority of the county court. The court may employ a civil engineer or architect to act in conjunction with the surveyor.

Nearly Finished Johnson.

Lionel A. Johnson, who graduated from the O. A. C. some two or three years ago, and is now editor of the Malheur Gazette, published at Vale, Or., was very nearly drowned at the Natatorium recently, says the Boise Statesman. It seems that, while in bathing with two young lady friends, they all got beyond their depth. Mr. Johnson had indeed the young ladies to go beyond the rope, and they all trespassed and went under. This scared the ladies, and they began scrambling to get into shallower water. In some manner Mr. Johnson was again pushed under and both ladies stepped on him. The attendants at the Natatorium were active when they saw the trouble, but knowing that Mr. Johnson could swim, paid but little attention to him. The ladies were taken to places of safety as soon as possible, but they had in some manner unintentionally kept Mr. Johnson under water till he was nearly drowned. As soon as they had caught their breath they called attention to the absence of the gentleman of the party, and attendants instantly hurried to his rescue. He had sunk to the bottom of the pool.

After much trouble he was taken out of the water, and the work of resuscitation hastened. He was unconscious and witnesses thought he was dead. It took some minutes to restore perfect respiration. Happily there were no serious results from the mishap, Mr. Johnson being able to return to his home shortly after.

The case of Lee Dan vs. City of Corvallis, which was an appeal from the decision rendered in the police court of the city a few months ago, wherein Lee Dan was convicted and fined $20 for keeping a vicious dog, came before Judge Burnett Saturday morning and was denied. The law requires that a fine to exceed $20 shall be imposed before an appeal can be made, and Lee Dan's fine was not in excess of $20. Chief Flett called on Lee Saturday afternoon, and as that gentleman preferred to serve his fine out rather than pay it, he now languishes in the city jail.

A few years ago W. E. Yates, of this city, was retained as attorney for a gentleman by the name of Frank Belcher. Mr. Belcher was a mining man and joined the stampede to the Klondike gold fields. He died in Dawson a short time ago—supposed to have been murdered. A couple of days ago Attorney Yates received a letter from S. C. Whitmore, of Jermyn, Pa., enclosing an inventory of some stock pertaining to a Santiam mine, in which Mr. Belcher was interested. Mr. Yates is now employed in straightening out this matter.

Judge George H. Burnett opened an adjourned term of circuit court Friday afternoon and closed it at 11 a. m. Saturday, in place of Judge Hamilton, who is unable to be here on account of his wife's illness. The regular term of the circuit court should have opened yesterday morning, but as Judge Hamilton cannot preside, and Judge Burnett is holding court at Tillamook this week, Judge Cleland came up on the West Side train from Portland, yesterday. He opened court and adjourned it until next Monday, April 16th. So brief was the last adjourned term that Judge Cleland was enabled to return to Portland on the same train that brought him up. At the regular term next week Judge Burnett will preside.

Think it Over.

Which is better, to buy your pianos and organs of an agent who represents the factories where they are made, or of one who only represents San Francisco and Portland jobbing houses? Is it worth while to pay an additional profit to city middlemen for the sake of getting goods which have passed through their hands, with double freight charges added to other needless costs? Would not the best plan be to have 'all your money count on the value of the instrument itself? We think so, and for this reason import all pianos and organs direct from the factory, depend on quick sales and small profits and thus give you a high grade instrument at a moderate price. All kinds of small instruments such as guitars, violins, mandolins, etc. Call at office and residence one block west of court house.

Laid Up For Repairs.

EDITOR GAZETTE:—As I am laid up for repairs will try and give you a few items. After leaving Corvallis, I stopped a few days in Portland. From there I passed over the Northern Pacific route to Elma, Wash., where I called on the Howell boys. Henry is operating a donkey engine in a logging camp at a wage of $3 per day. Frank is an assistant on another engine. Found them both well. They stated that they enjoyed their work; the beard was good and they were employed under an excellent foreman. After spending Sunday and Monday with them I came on to this place.

Aberdeen is a loud town and has a population of 4,000. This place has eighteen saloons and nine churches. Business houses are abundant and are carrying heavy stocks. What interests me most is the fact that the whole town is built on piling, and at extreme high tides, where the lots are not filled in, they have all the water they want. There are six large sawmills here and the sawdust from the mills is used for filling in the streets. It makes a good filling, and after it has settled they plank it over with 3x12 timbers. In this manner they keep a fine system of streets.

Hoquiam is about three and a half miles from here and there is a fine plank walk all the way. The walk runs through a number of fine groves, making it a perfect "Lovers' Paradise."

This is a great shipping point and there are from fifteen to eighteen ships in the harbor all the time loading for different parts of the globe. The sawmill company that I am working for have from four to five ships at their wharf all the time. There is about 150 men employed in this mill and the output per day is 110,000 feet. All of the employes pay $1.00 each per month insurance, and if a man is injured he is on half pay until he is able to work, and if he is badly hurt he is sent to the hospital free of charge.

I am off duty at present. Wednesday, while moving a large timber, I slipped and caught my right foot dislocating the ankle. The result is that at present my ankle is about four times as large as it ought to be. The doctor says that it will be a month before I can go to work again. The company pays the bill, but I bear the pain.

With best regards for my Benton county friends, I remain, Yours truly, H. L. MARTIN, Aberdeen, Wash., April 4, 1901.

It's a Short Road from a cough to consumption. Don't neglect a cough—take Shiloh's Consumption Cure when your cold appears. The "ounce of prevention" is better than years of illness.

Question Answered. Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mother and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to cleanse out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac.—Graham & Wortham.

You will waste time if you undertake to cure indigestion or dyspepsia by starving yourself. That only makes it worse when you do eat heartily. You always need plenty of good food properly digested. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure is the result of years of scientific research for something that would digest not only some elements of food but every kind, and it is the one remedy that will do it.—Graham & Wells.
