ORDINANCE NO. 29.

It is time that the city authorities look into the matter of city ordinance No. 29 which for many years has been a city law and which fordids all persons staking or grazing animals around the premises of others without the latter's permission.

Any person violating this ordinance is subject to a fine in the police court. It is also made the special duty of the police force of the city to take up and impound animals so found where this ordinance is violated and yet this ordinance has been treated as a dead letter for years, encouraging disrespect for the laws of the city. There are plenty of people who do not stake their own stock around their own premises in order to preserve the grounds in better shape, and yet while such owners of property are asleep in their homes those disregarding the rights of neighbors and the law, call around at night time or early morning and stake the animals despoiling the premises. It seems time that the city authorities should carefully read over the ordinance and insist upon an observance of the same. The ordinance in question provides in effect that parties may tie or hold their cows around the premises of others after first obtaining permission of the owner of the property, but there is not one instance in fifty where a party wishing to trespass about another's property ever asks permission, but simply helps himself without leave. It is time that more severe measures should be taken for violations of this ordinance if it can not be observed by persuasion. The present ordinance was passed for the purpose of nullifying the action of a large majority of the citizens some years ago when it was voted that cattle should not run at large in the city. The question was strongly opposed by some and after they were beaten by a large vote a fair ordinance was passed carrying out the will of the voters, but soon the opponents set their wits to nullify the ordinance which resulted in passing the present ordinance to prevent cattle and other stock running at large but permitted persons to stake them around their own premises, and also the premises of those from whom they had first obtained permission. But permission was never asked to any extent and the custom has now become so prevalent that no one asks permission, but those who wish, stake cattle without permit and in violation of the city ordinance, while the city authorities permit these matters to go along without attention.

It is every ones duty to obey the laws under which we live. Disregard for the law in small offenses soon encourages a more general disrespect for law and order.

Premises can be kept neat and better during the summer season where the surrounding grasses can be evenly mowed, but when cattle tramp it all down making the ground uneven and the grass during the summer mashed down it cannot be mowed and when it becomes dry furnishes dangerous opportunities for fire to spread. It is hoped that these few hints will be sufficient without further comment.

This lengthy notice of this matter would not be given at this time, but for the reason that the will of the voters on this subject as stated has been so long disregarded that many people living here may not understand that we have such an ordinance or the steps leading up to it. The society recently formed for improving the appearance of the town cannot hope to accomplish anything where surrounding premises are tramped down and despoiled by animals.

Horse Thieves In Linn.

A rumor reached Corvallis several days ago to the effect that there had been a shooting scrape in Linn county last Thursday evening. The following dispatch which was sent to the Telegram from Albany shows that horse thieves are a specie of man still in existence:

Deputy Sheriff McHargue has arrived in this city with Frank Shaw, whom he arrested on a charge of horsestealing.

Four horses were stolen near Sweet Home Monday night, and warrants were issued for the arrest of Thurston Pettijohn and Frank Shaw, who were suspected of the theft. Deputy Frank McHargue and Jerry Keeney went to make the arrest and found the men hiding in the hills between Holly and Sweet Home. At the sight of the officers both men started to run, Shaw attempting to draw a revolver. Keeney fired and wounded Shaw slightly on the head, but did not stop him. After an exciting search the officers captured Shaw, but Pettyjohn escaped and is still at liberty.

Pettijohn has been a notorious character in that neighborhood for many years. Shaw lately came from Idaho, but has been associating with a notorious crowd of men. The case has aroused great excitement at Sweet Home and Keeney and McHargue are receiving much praise for the capture.

William Hurndon.

Another Oregon pioneer, William Hurndon, departed this life April 12, 1901, the cause of his death being a severe attack of pneumonia. He suffered only a few days when death came to his relief.

The deceased was born in Indiana, April 4, 1825, being at the time of his death 76 years and 8 days old. He was united in marriage with Miss Francinous Miller, September 8, 1846. This union was blessed with eight children. Three girls and two boys survive him. A. C. Hurndon of Fossil, Oregon, W. T. Hurndon of Dayton, Wash., Mrs. Lizzie Gibson of Pendleton, Mrs. Jos. Emrick of Linn county, Mrs. Scott King, of Benton county.

Mr. Hurndon crossed the plains in 1852 and settled in Linn county near Halsey, where he lived until 1859. He then moved to Benton county where he purchased the saw mill known as the Harris mill. He lived here for ten years and then he moved to Tum Tum, where kept house with his children, his wife having passed to the spirit land March 11, 1867. After his children were married he has resided at different places, yet Benton county has been his home since 1859. Until recently he has been residing in Linn county with his son-in-law, Joseph Emrick, where he was at the time of his death.

The deceased has a wide circle of friends and was well respected by all who knew him. It is but fitting to say that much honor and reverence is due to the pioneers who moved westward in the '50s and endured the trials and hardships of early pioneer life and planted the banner of civilization on this coast, then inhabited by the merciless Indian savages. The one just departed was familiarly known as Uncle Billy.

His mortal remains was placed by the side of his wife in the Wren cemetery, on the 14th. Funeral services at the grave conducted by Rev. S. M. Wood of Corvallis.

Think it Over.

Which is better, to buy your pianos and organs of an agent who represents the factories where they are made, or of one who only represents San Francisco and Portland jobbing houses? Is it worth while to pay an additional profit to city middlemen for the sake of getting goods which have passed through their hands, with double freight charges added to other needless costs? Would not the best plan be to have all your money count on the value of the instrument itself? We think so, and for this reason import all pianos and organs direct from the factory, depend on quick sales and small profits and thus give you a high grade instrument at a moderate price. All kinds of small instruments such as guitars, violins, mandolins, etc. Call at office and residence one block west of court house.

M. A. GOODNOUGH.
