Mr. Strong reports large advance orders for various items in hardwood, consisting of wagon felloes, plow beams, etc.

Boring for oil in Oregon is getting to be quite a fad. It is not yet reported that anybody has found oil, but one man who smelled of the point of the augur, says that he detected strong evidences of petroleum. Perhaps this is enough foundation upon which to build a stock company. Many a stock company has come into existence on less provocation than a strong smell.—Oregon City Enterprise.

A regular meeting of the citizens league was held at the court house last Saturday night. A committee was appointed to secure the release of the bicycle tax paid under the old law. The desire is to use this money, amounting to about $200, for road improvement or some other good purpose. The circuit court room was selected as the permanent place of meeting.

The annual intercollegiate field meet which used to be the leading athletic event of the Pacific Northwest has dwindled to this little measure. "Arrangements have been completed for a field meet to be held at the state fair grounds in Salem, June 1, in which the competing teams will be from Williamette University, of Salem, and Pacific University, of Forest Grove."

Prof. V. K. Chestnut is authority for the statement that loon weeds seem to produce no immediate evil results. After feeding on the weed for a few weeks the animals seem to become addicted to the use of it, not unlike a man becomes addicted to the use of tobacco. Horses are most affected. They become nervous, will shy at objects in the road, and cannot be depended upon in an emergency. As a rule they are not seriously affected for work horses. Such horses are said to be looned. No satisfactory remedy has yet been found.

John Alberts, a farmer living near Philomath, came to Corvallis, Saturday, to do some trading. On his arrival he hitched his team just across the street north of the Occidental hotel, and left his outfit there while he attended some business. In the course of time he went to his wagon after a basket of eggs that he had brought to town. He was dismayed to find the eggs gone. Investigation proved that while he had been absent a boy had appropriated his eggs and taken them to the Occidental, where he sold them.

Prof. J. B. Hornar, of the O. A. C., was in the city recently. The Professor, who has charge of the Summer Normal School at Newport, is greatly encouraged with the prospect and sees indications of an excellent attendance. Newport is an ideal place for such a school, the finest advantages go, on the coast, and those who go there will find all the conveniences they need for the enjoyment of life. There will be some of the best educators in the state to assist in the work of the school.—Albany Democrat.

E. B. McElroy Dies Suddenly.

A dispatch to this city Saturday morning announced the sudden death of Hon. E. B. McElroy at Eugene, early that morning. Mr. McElroy retired Friday night in his usual good health. About 12:15 he aroused the members of his family. When they reached his bedside he was suffering with an intense pain about the heart, and expired in a few moments.

Ebenezer Burton McElroy, A. M., Ph. D., was a native of Pennsylvania, where he was born September 17, 1842, being the youngest of a family of 12 children. His early life was spent on a farm. After completing his education, which he acquired in his native state, he began teaching, at which he was engaged in 1851, when the war broke out. His patriotic spirit took possession of him, and he enlisted as a private in Company B, First West Virginia Volunteers. He served in that regiment until 1863, when he was mustered out and re-enlisted in the One Hundredth Pennsylvania Volunteer Infantry, and served until July, 1865, when he was again mustered out.

After the war he spent two years more pursuing his studies in college, and again took up the work of teaching.

Professor McElroy was married in 1869, to Miss Agnes McFadden, sister of W. S. McFadden, of this city. Together they came to Oregon in 1874, and settled in Corvallis, where he taught one year in the old lower district school. The following year he was given a chair in the State Agricultural College, which he filled until he was elected state superintendent of public instruction in 1880, in which office he served until 1892.

He was then appointed to a chair in the University of Oregon, which he filled until a year ago, when he resigned. Since that time he has devoted his attention to his large farm and orchard near Monroe.

The body was brought to Corvallis for burial on a special train Sunday afternoon. It was accompanied by large delegations of Masons from Salem, Eugene and Albany, Mr. McElroy having been a member of this order. The Masonic order of this city was at the depot to meet the funeral party, and the procession moved immediately to Odd Fellow's cemetery, where the exercises were conducted by Eugene lodge, Col. Yorran reading the burial service.

A wife and five children survive the deceased.—Willis E., of Chicago; Lucian G., Coleridge, Alicia and Lillian.

Has a Good Future.

A correspondent of the Homestead has the following words of praise to offer as the result of a cruise through Lincoln county:

While going up one of the little valleys the gentleman accompanying me, in passing a farm, said that five years ago the farm was purchased for $1,200, the purchaser paying $200 down and giving his note for the balance. The purchaser got some cows, a few pens of Black Leghorn chickens and went to work.

Every Saturday he goes to Toledo, where he disposes of his butter and eggs—and his egg basket is full of nice, fresh, clean eggs. The mortgage is now paid off and the proprietor is the happy possessor of a good farm which he can call his own.

These valleys are very rich and there are many of them in Lincoln county. One party said he sowed an acre of clover in the spring and cut two tons of hay that fall. He claims that by actual test the sugar beets raised in that county are richer in sugar than those raised in Eastern Oregon. He claims that the tide land when dyked is rich enough to raise almost anything. This county is rapidly developing and is destined to be one of the richest in the state, especially will this be true when the dairy and the timber industries are fully developed. There are many orchards, most of them being small, but the trees look healthy and seem to be less subject to disease than in some other parts of the state.

A Fir Tree.

That there were vast forests centuries ago, that were in various manners destroyed is not for a moment doubted by people who are versed on questions of this nature. Everything indicates long before the present forests sprang from earth there were trees of large growth in Oregon, which, through some violent and sudden change, or by the slow process of time have been buried many feet under ground. The Albany Herald relates the following which proves that such is the case:

The sinking of a shaft to the depth of about thirty feet for a hydraulic elevator in the store of S. E. Young & Son has brought to the surface some remarkable specimens of the strange things down in the earth. At the depth of 26 feet a well preserved log was encountered. It seemed to have been from a fir tree and resembled peat more than wood. On boring through the log a substance was found that looked very much like mineral paint. Yesterday a quantity of this substance which was a beautiful blue color, was taken out. Then a strata of black sand was reached which gave evidence of being gold bearing. To cap the climax, at the lowest depth reached, the water which came out had a decidedly oily appearance, indicating that a genuine gusher might be tapped by boring deep enough. An energetic miner with any sort of an imagination could have been kept busy during the past few days prospecting the possible values of the product of the shaft.

The finding of a log at the depth of nearly 30 feet would indicate that the foundation upon which Albany stands was at one time the old river bed, and that the process of coal making is going on.

E. R. BAYSON.

Think It Over.

Which is better, to buy your pianos and organs of an agent who represents the factories where they are made, or of one who only represents San Francisco and Portland jobbing houses? Is it worth while to pay an additional profit to city middlemen for the sake of getting goods which have passed through their hands, with double freight charges added to other needless costs? Would not the best plan be to have all your money count on the value of the instrument itself? We think so, and for this reason import all pianos and organs direct from the factory, depend on quick sales and small profits and thus give you a high grade instrument at a moderate price. All kinds of small instruments such as guitars, violins, mandolins, etc. Call at office and residence one block west of court house.

County Court.

The county court convened last Wednesday, May 1st, and besides allowing the usual grist of bills, transacted the following business:

The matter of fixing bonds of road supervisors, as per the session laws of 1901 provided, the court saw fit to fix the bonds of the various road supervisors at $500, with proper sureties, to be approved by Judge Woodward. Said supervisors are expected to honestly report all money received and expended by them, or any balance remaining in their hands.

In the matter of the petition of the Independence and Fall City Lumber and Improvement company, and the Luckiamute River and Improvement association asking the court to declare the Luckiamute river an unnavigable highway for the floating of logs and timber and provide for the improvement and use of the same, and granting to said parties certain rights thereon. The court heard the objections of H. L. Bush et al. After hearing the petitions, objections and arguments of both sides the court saw fit to deny all privileges prayed for by the petitioners.

In the matter of establishing the Philomath and Loyd-Settlement road, said report, plat and survey be recorded and the road granted.

In the matter of collecting taxes from the Oregon Development company it was ordered that said sum of $348.16, less said sum of $69.63, be received in full satisfaction of all taxes levied or assessed upon the lands of the Oregon Development company in said Benton county prior to this date.

Question Answered.

Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mother and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to cleanse out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac.—Graham & Wortham.
