As mobair is not quite as high as it was last year, some of the beginners are uneasy about the business, says Geo. Honck in the Homestead. I feel assured that the goat is here to stay, as I am in receipt of a constant stream of letters from states as far east as Maine enquiring for goats in car lots, it strikes me that the business is just beginning. They are rarely the only animal that will reclaim the brushy wastes of our arid land, and may well be called the pioneers of the creamery business, as after they have swept the brush and weeds from the pasture grasses will grow more abundant, and more grass means more cream, more wealth, more families.

DR. JAMES R. BAYLEY.

His Death Occurred May 24th. He was a Prominent Mason, and had Served in Territorial Council and Legislature.

Last Friday morning at 1 o'clock, after a long life of unusual activity which led to social and political prominence, Dr. James R. Bayley passed peacefully away at his home near Newport. Some months ago the aged physician suffered a stroke of paralysis, and the vital spark has grown constantly dimmer, and finally went out.

James R. Bayley was born in Clark county, Ohio, October 6th, 1820. Having completed his academic education at Springfield, he began the study of medicine in 1841, and was graduated from the Ohio medical college three years later. He practiced his profession at Springfield until 1848, when he moved to Cincinnati, where he resided for seven years. In 1852, he married Miss Lizzie Harpole, of Green county, Ohio. This devoted helpmate died May 5, 1899. With his family, Dr. Bayley came to Oregon in 1855, and located in Polk county. He served in the territorial council of Oregon from 1856 to 1857, when he represented Yamhill and Clatsop counties. In the latter year he moved to Corvallis, where he opened a drug store and began the practice of his profession.

His superior ability and scholarly attainments made him a power in the community and he was elected to represent Benton county in the state senate for the term of 1866-68. He was county judge of Benton for two terms, and served as supervisor of internal revenue from 1869 to 1873.

Dr. Bayley was one of the most prominent Masons in the state, having taken the Scottish Rites, or thirty-second, degree. For nine years he served as high priest of the Oregon Grand Chapter of Royal Arch Masons, and one term as grand master of the grand lodge of Oregon.

About fifteen years ago, with his family, Dr. Bayley moved from Corvallis to Newport. The remains were brought from that city on Saturday morning's C. & E. They were taken in charge by the Masonic fraternity and escorted to the temple of that order where they laid in state until Sunday morning at 10:30 o'clock.

Peculiarly impressive among the different ceremonies were those which were held at the Masonic Temple, Saturday at midnight by the Knights of the Temple, conducted by the members of Scottish Right degrees A. F. & A. M.

As the clock chimed 12 the procession marched in from the outer apartment, headed by the eminent commander, followed by other members of the order, each bearing a lighted candle, marching twice around the casket at the altar where lay the body of the deceased brother in state. The procession formed a circle around the casket, and were caused to halt by the sound of gong, struck by the commander. Reveille was sounded by the pianist, which in the gloom of the room, there being no lights but burning tapers at foot and head of the casket, made the scene weird and impressive. The beautiful service was then pronounced, by the commander, with responses from the Knights, when hands were laid upon the dead, the green wreath removed from his brow, as a token that he parted with all that was earthly; the bands which bound his hands were cut and removed as typical of releasing the dead from all ties which bound him to earth, when at the sound of the gong at the hands of the commander all knights knelt around the casket in silent prayer. Arising the commander took from the altar a goblet of water, passing it around the circle of knights who each in turn, sprinkled water upon the face of the dead, with the words "Our brother has gone from earth, but is now with his Lord," at the same time extinguishing his taper.

Music was then rendered at the piano representing "taps" of the bugle, and the procession marched out of the temple carrying their candles extinguished. The ceremony lasted about 30 minutes, and was participated in by Eminent Commander F. A. Moore, judge supreme court; Judge Geo. H. Burnett, Dr. Gillis, George G. Bingham, Frank Lovell, Dr. Royland and others. The ceremony throughout was most solemn and impressive, and having been witnessed was one not to be forgotten. H. B. Thielson grand master of the Grand Lodge A. F. & A. M. of Oregon, under whose auspices the funeral was conducted, led in the services held Sunday morning. A special train from Albany brought about 20 or 30 members of the order, who assisted in these ceremonies. The procession moved to Crystal Lake cemetery, the Knights Templar acting as an escort, and the last honors were shown the dead.

Surviving relatives are: Mr. Lester Bayley, Mrs. Cora Ritchey, Hillsboro; Mrs. Eva Wiley, Corvallis; Mark, Lizzie and Mamie Bayley, Newport.

Open Session of Grange.

Counter attractions and magnificent feasts for farm operations worked against the attendance at the meeting of Corvallis Grange last Saturday; nevertheless, a fair-sized audience of farmers, their wives, and members of the grange had assembled at the appointed hour.

Prof. A. L. Knisely, by a large number of striking experiments, illustrated and explained the properties of the two gases, hydrogen and oxygen, which when chemically combined, change to a liquid state and form pure water. A feature of the experiments was the harmless but noisy, explosion of a mechanical mixture of the two gases when ignited. This Prof. Knisely explained, was due to the chemical union of the gases whereby they were changed from a gaseous to a liquid form, thus producing water and occupying only a small fraction of the space occupied in the gaseous form. Oxidation, or commonly speaking, the rusting of metals was illustrated by placing a watch spring in a jar of pure oxygen, the spring being changed to iron oxide or iron rust in a few seconds of time.

Prof. Geo. Cootie discussed Small Fruit Culture in his usual able manner, calling attention to the mistake often made of cultivating small fruits deeply in the spring. Such fruits should receive deep cultivation in the fall, and in the spring the cultivation shallow, not to exceed a depth of three inches. The idea is not to disturb the feeding roots of the plant which are found comparatively near the surface. In digging about the roots of any of the bush fruits a spade should not be used. Instead use a digging fork, which will not sever the roots to an injurious extent. Pruning is essential with all of our small fruits to ensure any considerable measure of success. The idea in pruning is to direct nourishment to the development of fruit and not to the growth of wood to such an extent as found in the unpruned bush. Removal of the runner constitutes the pruning of the strawberry and is quite as essential as the pruning of other fruits. Professor Cootie also discussed the growing of the tomato and celery, in reply to questions along that line.

Miss Telfer, of Alpha Hall, favored the audience with some very much appreciated instrumental music.

The party given Friday evening by the Pierian literary society to the Philadelphians, was a delightful affair. There was vocal and instrumental music, and the usual games to occupy the hours. The rooms were prettily decorated, and an elaborate banquet was served. Neat souvenirs of the occasion were presented each lady.

Today is the 18th anniversary of the organization of the Coffee Club. The picnic that was to have been held in Avery's grove, by the members, was given up on account of unfavorable weather. Instead, a meeting will be held by the ladies in their hall this afternoon, with refreshments and other special features in honor of the occasion.

Among those who started for Ridder's Grove, Saturday, to attend the picnic was F. L. Miller. His departure from this city was especially gay and joyous, but after an hour or two he came walking back leading his bicycle, the hind tire having no wind in it. His clerks are convinced that after he had got a few miles he "played out," and thought it wise to stick a pin in his bicycle tire.

Next Thursday will be Memorial Day. This is a day that is universally observed by all classes of citizens of the United States. It is right and proper to have a day observed for paying respect to our dear beloved who have departed. Be it a grave of a man, woman, or child, soldier, friend or foe, somebody should, on this occasion place a flower upon it. It is a deed of kindness and means much.

H. N. Rounds, writing to the Junction City Times, says: "About three weeks ago Charlie Bowen, by my advice and by his own consent, put himself under the care of Dr. Bennett, at Dusty, to undergo treatment for the morphia habit. It was a severe trial for himself and for his friends, yet considering his condition he stood it remarkably well. He did not have any 'dope' hidden about him. He did not lose his mind for a single moment, neither was he violent at any time. His health steadily improved after the first week and he is now, as far as the habit is concerned, convalescent." This is a slightly different account from the one received by us, but it is presumed to be correct.

The least in quantity and most in quality describes DeWitt's Little Early Risers, the famous pills for constipation and liver complaints.—Graham & Wells. Question Answered. Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world. Your mother and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc. They used August Flower to cleanse out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches. You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac.—Graham & Wortham.
