

PUBLIC SPIRIT.

It goes without saying that the growth and prosperity of any community are in a large measure the product of that communal purpose which we dominate public spirit. Were this lacking, or at most manifested only by a few, development and steady, healthful prosperity come tardily and often painfully.

The climatic conditions in Oregon and the marvelous fertility of our soil make subsistence and ultimate competence so easy and certain that it would appear as if many of our people were content to look to these alone for prosperity, to the neglect of a wisely directed, active and energetic manifestation of public spirit.

This has produced a marked absence of such a spirit and made it possible for a few selfish avaricious men to dominate, until in many communities public spirit has ceased to be a factor in promoting prosperity and the term "moss back" is no misnomer for no small number of our people.

Through the influence of such men many have been induced to expect prosperity to come mainly through "the unearned increment" produced by immigration and the investment of capital by others.

These men are content to parcel out their real estate holdings, which have often been originally a donation, and to lend their money at rates onerous and frequently ruinous to the borrower.

Oregon's metropolis presents numbers of such men and nearly every community furnishes examples of them.

The selfish man cannot be public spirited, for his selfishness determines him to do nothing which might directly or indirectly presently or remotely benefit his fellows.

As long as he can avoid it he will not improve his own lest he might enhance the value of his neighbors' property. He always opposes any measure of improvement which embraces him.

His utter selfishness precludes his seeing that the objects of a righteous selfishness are more certainly attained through an alert and active public spirit than otherwise.

Public spirit, like charity, should begin at home. Our citizens must determine to make Corvallis what its situation, its environment and its established reputation render easily possible.

Corvallis may readily become the cleanest, tidest, most healthful, most prosperous and altogether most desirable place for residence and for many business pursuits.

It is to the interest of every one who has a stake in the city to evince an earnest public spirit. Let each one determine that his shall be the best conditioned premises in the vicinity.

Let him then take an interest in public improvements, as of streets, sewers, lighting, water supply, fire protection, schools and the establishment of industrial enterprises.

Each one must determine that he will, to the extent of his ability, give all material and moral aid necessary to promote any project of lasting benefit to the city.

There will then be no serious difficulty in retaining a carriage factory here, nor of establishing any possible and desirable undertaking.

That was wise and reasonable advice which Jupiter gave to the carman who besought his assistance; "put thine own shoulder to the cart." A community having this spirit will readily find the ways and means which bring success.

Where a right public spirit prevails mere speculation, extravagant expenditures and onerous obligations are avoided and no step taken will be regretted nor need to be retraced.

"The Benton County Citizens' League" is working to arouse outside interest in the material, social and moral conditions which already exist here.

Its membership should embrace every citizen. Its purposes and influences should be such as will impel our citizens to make Corvallis "a living epistle" of what the League so widely publishes.

We do not owe this alone to ourselves but as well to the hundreds of young men and young women, the choice youth of Oregon who are being educated here.

Let the moral and material excellence of Corvallis be high advanced, and many happy, cultured homes will be added to those already established here and our beneficent influence shall be felt in every community in the state.

The work is our own and we must do it.

Saturday's Picnic.

Amid rain and sunshine, the union school picnic of sixteen school districts, adjacent to Philomath and Corvallis, was held last Saturday. The program began with a procession of about 200 children from the aforesaid districts with their flags and badges, led by the Philomath cornet band.

The program was full of excellent selections that added life, enthusiasm and mirth to the occasion. Every district furnished numbers that were a credit to the district and to the pupil.

The literary exercises consisted of songs, recitations, dialogues, drills, concert recitations, dancing drills. The song by Gretta and Myrtle Harrington and Jessie Bnoy, and the dancing drill by Charley and Frankie Stovall, seemed to meet with the demands of the occasion for each were called back for another selection.

As to the other features deserving mention, each district did so well that it would be hard to draw the line. The address by Hon. E. H. Belknap, was well received. It gleamed with excellent thoughts, and ideas. Mr. Belknap gave excellent reason for better support, better cooperation and better unity of action on the part of the patron toward his school.

His remarks were practical, and every patron would have been benefitted by having heard the same.

The contests were: Apple eating contest, won by Charles Armstrong; flour eating contest, won by Charles Armstrong; smiling contest, won by Hattie Norman; drinking contest, won by Nellie Witham, the ugly face contest, won by Charles Armstrong; the wheel barrow race, prize given to Huff; the prize for the prettiest baby at the picnic was won by Mr. Marion Wood's baby, the prize for the prettiest lady present, won by Miss Star; the prize for the boldest man was given by universal consent to Sup't Denman.

The Maccabee excursion to the sea beach last Tuesday was one of the largest ever made over the Corvallis & Eastern R. R., there being 520 persons on the train.

While on the way some heavy rain showers prevailed, but at Yaquina the sun was shining brightly and the day was as perfect as if ordered for the occasion.

The lecture by Prof. Arnold Lindsey, of Portland, was a brilliant effort, being a straight fraternal talk from the shoulder. At 3 p. m. the Lady Maccabees appeared in uniform and for 30 minutes exhibited one of the most beautiful drills ever given before the public, at the close of which the Knights of the Maccabees, in glittering armor, gave their magnificent system of drill.

Old "Ned," the Maccabee goat, also appeared on the scene, conducted by Master Alex Hayes who was neatly festooned in red, white and black, and furnished amusement for all. The goat seemed to enjoy it all, until he was brought face to face with the huge ocean, in which he appeared to take but little stock.

This grand performance was witnessed by almost 2,000 people. There was in attendance many Maccabees from over the state, among them being August Huckenstein, state representative for Oregon, who is to start shortly for the supreme review to be held at Port Huron, Mich., in July, 1901.

The well known Albany band was in attendance and furnished excellent music throughout the day. And while it is to be regretted that the bake was a failure, it can be truly said that each and every other feature was a decided success.

Question Answered. Yes, August Flower still has the largest sale of any medicine in the civilized world.

Your mother and grandmothers never thought of using anything else for indigestion or biliousness. Doctors were scarce and they seldom heard of appendicitis, nervous prostration or heart failure, etc.

You used August Flower to cleanse out the system and stop fermentation of undigested food, regulate the action of the liver, stimulate the nervous and organic action of the system, and that is all they took when feeling dull and bad with headaches and other aches.

You only need a few doses of Green's August Flower, in liquid form, to make you satisfied there is nothing serious the matter with you. Get Green's Prize Almanac.—Graham & Wortham.
