When the party had the opportunity its work destroyed all houest faith in tariff reform through the agency of the democratic party. In the democratic view tariff reform is iconoclastic. Protection is assumed to be a republican idol and this is sufficient reason for destroying it. This is the meaning and whole scope of democratic tariff reform. "The production of the country so far exceeds it power of consumption that our foreign markets are a prime condition of its continued prosperity" is a condition set forth as a reason why protection should be destroyed.

If supplying our foreign markets is a prime condition of our continued prosperity and protection enables us to sell in these markets it would be most unwise to destroy protection. The democratic and free trade press make no end of demanding the withdrawal of protection because our manufacturers are selling in for-
