S. N. Wilkins has decided to build on the lots recently purchased by him from Virgil E. Watters. He has some material now on the ground and workmen are at the task of preparing the foundation for the building.

Next Tuesday evening the second lecture of the course to begin here during the winter will be given in the Opera House. Jay Wm. Hudson will lecture on "The Heroes of the Golden Age." No person can afford to miss this opportunity.

By accident the little baby of Mr. and Mrs. Charley Chipman fell to the floor, Wednesday afternoon. It struck on its head and was rendered unconscious for a time and for a few moments it was feared that it was dead. In fact, such was the report about town. The child soon recovered and is getting along nicely.

The reception tendered by the Baptist church to students of the O. A. C., Tuesday evening, was a delightful affair. The church was well filled with visitors. There were songs, conversation, games, and selections furnished by the gramophone of W. A. Sander. Delicious refreshments were served at the conclusion of an evening well spent.

H. N. Miller, now an employee at the Tacoma, Wash., smelter, surprised his friends in this city, Monday, by paying them an unexpected visit. It is unnecessary to say that the surprise was a pleasant one. Mr. Miller says that many Oregon horses are in use in Tacoma and they are the best in the city. A team purchased last spring from Norm Lilly are now considered the best work horses in Tacoma.

The authorities at the college farm concluded to fill all five of their new silos with corn. Some of the silos were salted to certain degrees and one or two were not salted at all. This was done by way of experiment. Each silo has a pipe run through it and every day the temperature will be taken by Prof. Pernot. A record will be kept and the result of the experiment will be very interesting to the farmers of Oregon who desire to make use of silos in the future.

At the Episcopal church, on Friday the 11th, at 7:30 p. m. Litany service. Immediately after this service a meeting of the Vestry. On Saturday the 12th, at 7:30 choir rehearsal. The young people are especially invited to this service. On Sunday the 13th, at 10 a. m. Sunday school; at 11 a. m. Morning Prayer and Sermon, and at 7 p. m. Church League. This last is especially fitted for such as wish to become familiar with the services of the Episcopal Church, and who wish to study Holy Scripture. C. MacLean, Ph. D., Rector.

W. A. Sanders, Jeweler.

There will be services at the Congregational church next Sunday at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m., conducted by Rev. P. C. Hetzler. All are cordially invited to attend.

Charley Norton, a young man employed with a crew in cutting wood with a steam saw, was quite severely hurt one day this week. A stick of wood struck him on the top of the head, cutting an ugly wound.

There will be no preaching service at the United Evangelical church next sabbath, on account of the absence of the Pastor, but Sunday school will be held as usual at 10 a. m. and Christian Endeavor at 6:30 p. m.

The fifteenth local teachers' institute for Benton county will be held in the church at Dusty, October 18th and 19th. An excellent program has been prepared and the event is certain to be one of pleasure and profit.

The University of California track team will go East next spring to meet the teams of the big universities of the Atlantic coast. It is altogether probable that Roy Heater, the phenomenal Oregon athlete, will enter the pole vault and hurdles.

Miss Lettie Wicks, who has been visiting friends in Ashland for a number of weeks, is dangerously ill with typhoid fever in that city. A letter from Mrs. Wicks, who is at her daughters bedside, states that the patient's temperature was 103, Tuesday, but hopes were entertained for her recovery.

A San Francisco dispatch, dated October 8th, contains this bit of interesting information: "President Wheeler, of the State University, has recommended to the board of regents the appointment of George W. Shaw, Ph. D., as assistant professor of agricultural chemistry in charge of the beet sugar industry. Dr. Shaw has occupied the chair of chemistry in educational institutions in Washington and Oregon, and is now chemist and agricultural expert for a sugar company at Junction, Colo. Professor Shaw was station chemist at the O. A. C. for several years."

The residence of E. R. Case, the barber, in Albany, was burned Friday evening about 11 o'clock. Mr. Case's father, now over 80 years of age, accidentally tipped over a lamp, which exploded, and the flames spread rapidly. The furniture in the front part of the house was saved, but that in the rear and some books belonging to the senior Case were burned. The fire department responded promptly and the scarred frame of the building remains. The building was insured in the Merchants, of Newark, for $400. Mrs. Case was in Monroe visiting friends at the time of the fire.

Mr. E. D. Alexander, recently editor of The Reporter, Fayette, Iowa, arrived in Corvallis with his family this week. He is an old friend and fellow townsman of J. E. Fowells, who took up his residence in this city a few weeks ago. Mr. Alexander has purchased the Stayton Mail, and left for that place yesterday to assume charge of the paper. He is well pleased with Oregon, and thinks the reports concerning the great amount of rain in this state are without foundation in fact. The record shows that the total rainfall in Oregon each season is the same as that at Davenport, Iowa.

On the 23rd of last February the legislature passed a law requiring the commissioners' courts of the various counties to convene on the first Wednesday of the month. According to the same act the probate court shall convene on the first Monday of the month. Probate court is now in session and this is the first month since the passage of this law that probate court has followed the convention of the commissioners' court in this county. There is nothing of particular interest up before this session of the probate court. The will of William Bohanon, deceased, was admitted to probate. The deceased willed all of his property, amounting to about $7,500, to his wife, Mahala K. Bohanon. At her death the property is to be equally divided between their three children.

Selections from Roman History

A Literal Translation from Entropius by C. MacLean, Ph. D. War With Pyrrhus.

At the same time war was declared against the Tarentines, who are now in Lower Italy, because they wronged the ambassadors of the Romans. They (the Tarentines), asked Pyrrhus, king of Epirus, who claimed his pedigree from the family of Achilles, for aid against the Romans. He soon came to Italy, and then, for the first time, the Romans fought with an enemy beyond the sea. Against him was sent Publius Laevius, the consul, who, having captured the scouts of Pyrrhus, ordered them to be led through the camp, to be exhibited before all the army, and then to be dismissed, in order that they might report to Pyrrhus everything that was done by the Romans. Then, having joined battle, Pyrrhus, although he was already fleeing, conquered, by the aid of his elephants, which, because they did not know them, the Romans greatly dreaded. But night put an end to the battle; nevertheless, Laevius fled by night. Pyrrhus captured eighty thousand Romans and treated them with the highest courtesy. He also buried the slain. When he saw them lying dead with stern countenances and with their wounds in front, he is said to have lifted his hands toward heaven and to have exclaimed: "If it had been my good fortune to have such soldiers, I could have been master of the whole world."

May Receive Bounty.

In certain circles it is claimed that there is an old federal law that was enacted shortly after the civil war which grants every volunteer a bounty of $192. It is declared that this law was never repealed, and, should such prove to be the case, the boys of this county, who saw service in the Philippines, will be the means of bringing a good many hundred dollars to old Benton. A recent issue of the Cincinnati Inquirer contains the following dispatch from New York:

It has been discovered by a lawyer of Brooklyn that every volunteer who enlisted during the Spanish-American War is entitled to bounties amounting to $276, provided for by a Federal and state statute, passed many years ago. The state bounty law provides for the payment of $84, and the Federal law $192 to each volunteer.

It will be seen that $84 referred to in the above paragraph is the sum of the Bounty paid by the state of New York. Should there be any truth in the claim that the volunteers of the Spanish-American war will receive a bounty of $192 each, it is estimated that the payment of the claims will cost the federal government $5,000,000. It is claimed that the discovery of the old laws was made by accident while an attorney was looking over some old federal statutes.

Miss Wolfe.

In a recent interview, Miss Wolfe, the Reader said: "Yes I enjoyed cultured Boston, immensely, and its places of interest are unlimited, but the one place where I never tired of visiting was Salem St."

You know this is where Christ Church stands and from its tower shone the light warning Paul Revere and the patriots that the British troops were to march to Lexington and Concord; further on is Faneuil Hall "The Cradle of Liberty."

However, interesting as these are they were not the cause of my frequent rambles in this vicinity—but here it is that the foreign element exists, Italian vendors, Russians, Poles and what not, and here I came to study the street urchin or gamin, as Hugo has perpetuated him in Les Miserables.

The feature that thrusts itself upon the eye of the visitor is the swarm of children; Children, children, everywhere, in the corner of some dismal wall, in the middle of the streets, playing mumble-peg, marbles, squabbling for pennies, irresponsible birds let loose and happy.

These little fellows are not Sunday school boys, for they swear like troopers, are equal to Talleyrand in repartee, know thieves and robbers and without have nothing bad in their heart.

J. Lyle Baker.

The death of J. Lyle Baker occurred at the Florence Sanatorium, Salem, last Monday. The deceased was aged 28 years. He was well known in this city, where he had held a chair in the barbershop of T. C. Case prior to his departure for Salem, and had many friends here. The Statesman contains the following:

Deceased was the eldest son of Prof. L. H. Baker, principal of the Lincoln school. He was born in Yamhill county, where he grew to manhood, and after securing a good education, learned the art of barbering, which profession he followed for a number of years—until his last sickness. About a year ago he came to this city, from Corvallis, and assumed a position in the tonsorial parlors of H. George Meyers. He soon gained a wide circle of warm and devoted friends by his gentlemanly bearing and his excellent good humor, and Mr. Meyers speaks of deceased in the highest terms, as one of the best men and most gentlemanly attendants ever employed in his place. Mr. Baker was taken down with typhoid fever about six weeks ago, and was removed to the Sanatorium, where he was cared for, and was getting along nicely until a week ago today. On that date he suffered a couple of hemorrhages, and since then they occurred several times, his strength failing rapidly; until death came as indicated above.

Lincoln County Fair.

Dr. Withycombe returned yesterday from Toledo, where he and Prof. Coote have been attending the Lincoln County Fair. He says the animal exhibits were only moderate, but the horticultural exhibits were very excellent, especially the vegetables. They included Ruta Bagas, turnips, celery, squashes, kale, beets, potatoes etc. He says they had specimens of kale 4 feet high; ruta bagas and turnips 3 feet in circumference, and the celery crisp and excellent.

There was a good attendance of citizens and considerable interest was manifested in the fair. Lincoln county has a mild climate and with the ability to raise such a prodigious quantity of green feed it certainly ought to become a profitable stock and dairy country. The GAZETTE congratulates the county on the success of its first fair.

Citizens' League Met.

A meeting of the Citizens' League was held in the parlors of the First National Bank Tuesday evening. The principal business was the matter of distribution of the newly printed souvenirs descriptive of this county. A resolution was passed instructing the secretary to send copies of the pamphlet gratuitously to all names on the lists now in the hands of the league, but, hereafter to charge 10 cents for every copy given out.

It is the intention of the league to send out broadcast small circulars containing information regarding the souvenir and giving a general idea of its contents, and to do some advertising in the Eastern press.
