W. S. Gardner, Photographer. Kline's $10.00 Suits are good ones.

Polk county appears to be doing her part by the O. A. C. There are twenty-two students attending college from Polk county.

Burnett's hall was the scene of a nice social dance Friday evening. Those who attended this dance report an enjoyable time.

The dance given Friday evening by the firemen was a delightful affair. There was a good crowd, the music was satisfactory and every thing went as merry as a marriage bell.

George A. Houck, of Eugene, arrived in Corvallis last Friday evening en route to Lincoln county. Mr. Houck was taking some horses over to the Silez Agency. He took over a team of draft horses and a saddle horse.

Ellsworth Cameron and little daughter arrived in this city, Friday morning, from their home in Pataluma, Calif. It is several years since Mr. Cameron has paid his old home a visit and relatives and friends will make him welcome during his sojourn.

There is no road supervisor in the Wells district and there is complaint that the roads and bridges of that section are getting in a bad condition. The report may possibly be a little strong, but even if not something should be done in the matter. Road Supervisor Banks, of that district recently tendered his resignation.

The citizens of Alsea deserve great credit for the energy they have displayed in the way of road work. For some time they have been engaged at the task of corduroying the road on the west side of Alsea mountain and have accomplished wonders. If the weather will permit they expect to complete their task this week.

In his bulletin on "Prunes and Prune Culture in Western Europe" issued by Prof. E. B. Lake, of the O. A. C. this city, he says: It is safe to say, however, that the market for the evaporated prunes will steadily increase if it can be supplied with a high quality of fruit, neatly and cleanly packed, which can be sold at a reasonable price.

You should take a walk out through the college campus some of these fine evenings, and you will find the tennis court full of players, and many more ready to play. You will find boys on the track training the muscles and a little further on and you will come to the pig skin kickers hard at it. Oh yes! the boys are alive and up and coming.

In the last issue of the Homestead appears an article from the pen of Dr. James Withycombe, of this city, on "Why Linsseed Oil is Valuable as a Food for Dairy Cows." The article is very full of information on the subject and contains many receipts which, undoubtedly, will be found of great benefit and value by farmers who profit by what the article teaches.

F. M. Pomeroy, who resided in this city for several years, was married in Albany last Wednesday, Oct. 23rd, to Mrs. Agnes Pearson, of that city. The Albany Herald contributed the following: The groom has been a resident of this city for a number of years and is in business near the depot. The bride is a popular lady and they have many friends who extend congratulations and wish them a long and happy life. They will reside in their home, corner of Third and Montgomery streets.

Readers of the GAZETTE will remember seeing the account of a sensational suit that had been filed in the circuit court of Linn County, wherein one A. W. Blackburn had sued G. L. Rees for the sum of $10,000 for the alienation of his wife's affections which resulted in separation and divorce. The matter was compromised a few days ago. Under the agreement the plaintiff is to receive $250 and is permitted to have charge of a son now with Mrs. Blackburn. As a result of the matter, divorces have been granted in both families, which are now completely separated.

Last Saturday marked the fiftieth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Miller of this city. In honor of the occasion Mrs. Miller gave an afternoon tea to quite a number of lady friends. A delightful time was experienced by all and the hostess was the recipient of many nice presents. Fifteen years ago Mr. and Mrs. Miller were wedded in Gilmore City, Iowa. Their Crystal wedding was celebrated in this city last Saturday, and, beyond doubt, they think enough of this section to celebrate their diamond wedding here as well. It is hoped they may Prof. L. W. Orrin, of the Haskins school, visited in Corvallis the last of the week.

Next Friday bicycle riders may again use the sidewalks of the City of Corvallis. However, they must not ride on the walks of Main street or the street leading to the college.

Miss Jessie McGee, of this city, received a very nice present a short time ago. It was an organ and was sent to her from Albany by her grandfather. She is justly proud of the gift.

Ben Brattain arrived in Corvallis, Friday, from Lobster. He brought some produce out with him and on his return took a wagon load of various necessities which he intends to sell on commission.

Eugene Dodele of Wells was in Corvallis, Saturday, for the first time in four months. His daughter, a young lady has had pneumonia ever since July 16th, and her sickness has kept Mr. Dodele at home all this time to wait on her.

Capt. J. T. Apperson was in Corvallis Saturday on business connected with the college. He is an enthusiastic worker for the institution, and has been a member of the Board of Regents for about 15 years, a part of the time president of the board.

Supt. Denman arrived home, Thursday evening, from a visit to the schools of Alsea valley. At present there are but two schools running in Alsea, and the superintendent reports that they are both getting along nicely in every way and that the pupils are doing nice work.

Miss Anna Knisley, who for the past six months has been visiting in this city, the guest of her brother, Prof. A. L. Knisley, left Friday, for Denver, Colorado. She was accompanied as far as Portland by her brother. It is Miss Knisley's intention to remain indefinitely in Denver.

Jay William Hudson was heard in the third lecture of the star course, now being given in this city, at the Opera House last Thursday evening. "Rambles in the Land of Shakespeare," was his subject and it contained much to interest and instruct. Students of Shakespeare would have appreciated a little more time devoted to the devine bard and a little less to Hudson, but a popular audience is not so selfish about such things, and is willing to devide honors evenly.

A gentleman who resides in the central part of the city has been troubled somewhat of late over the mysterious disappearance of his stove wood. One night, about a week ago, he was awakened by a sort of a "scratchy" sound that convinced him that his wood was in danger. He sprang out of bed, and seizing a small derringer, raised the window and fired in the direction of his unbidden guest. When the smoke rolled aside the man behind the gun beheld what appeared as a shadow rapidly moving south. The shadow did not even stop for enough wood for kindling.

According to the weather forecast of L. R. Hicks for the month of November it may be assumed that the month will not be a very severe one. The only thing that will tend to disturb the natural placidity of the weather will be the Venus period of disturbance, which is central on the 20th of the month. Its perturbing influence will extend well toward the 1st of December. According to Mr. Hicks, the greatest storms will occur in the North Atlantic and Lake regions during the latter part of November. The North Pacific ocean will not wholly escape severe boreal storms at this period.

Fred Stump, whose home is at Suver, had quite an experience last week while crossing the Willamette on the ferry boat at this place. He was traveling on his bicycle and took it onto the boat and leaned it against the side of the boat railing. On the boat were some cattle that were being taken across the river. The cattle became quite unruly and one of the animals made a pass at Fred, who took to the water without ceremony. Luckily, he was not hurt in any way, aside from getting a good ducking, but his wheel was knocked down and tramped on by the cattle to such an extent that it was taken to "The Fixer."

The exact date of the next lecture of the Star Course Entertainment is not at present known. Nor is it known which of the two speakers, Radir or Gaston, will appear next. The party who is handling the course in this city has not been able to get any information from J. J. Wagner, the advance man who arranged to have the course of lectures given here, on account of Mr. Wagner's sudden departure for California, whether he was called by sickness in his family. There are two lectures of the course yet to be given one, in November, if not both of them. There will be an effort made by Supt. Denman to have one of the lectures occur on the date of a local teachers' institute which will be held in Corvallis before long.

SHOT BY PEARL COOPER

In a Fight after a Dance Near Summit, John Post was Shot in the Arm.

A dance at the home of James Post, at Summit, last Friday night, terminated in a shooting scrape, in which Pearl Cooper, of Independence, handed the gun and John Post was the victim.

Cooper, with three companions, Wm. Baldwin and "Dutch" Hartman, of Independence, and Dick Westcott, of Salem, were on a hunting trip and were camped at Summit. They attended the dance at Post's and participated in the festivities. It is said they were in a belligerent mood all evening and that several minor engagements were narrowly averted through the pacifying efforts of John Post. Baldwin became involved in a heated controversy with Roy Norton, but they had about settled the matter amicably, when Cooper deliberately struck Norton who is quite a small man. The matter was dropped for the time, but after the dance was over, about 3 o'clock in the morning, an elder brother of Roy's, talking the matter over with Cooper, said that no white man would strike another when he was in conversation with some one else. William Baldwin overheard the remark, and said that he could whip the man who said that Cooper wasn't a white man. Norton said that he had made that remark, and Baldwin knocked him down. As Norton fell, Baldwin whirled and struck John Post. These two were engaged in a lively give-and-take, when Cooper drew his revolver, ran around behind Post, and fired. The ball entered Post's right forearm passing through the fleshy portion and doing little damage.

Cooper and his companions left the dance hall. Two of them left shortly after for Independence in a buggy, while Cooper and another made a detour through the brush, and struck the road in Kings Valley. Here they were seen by a young girl, who informed Deputy Sheriff Willard Price and they were shortly after overhauled by this officer who brought Cooper to Corvallis that afternoon. Cooper's father, who is an Independence saloon keeper, came to this city Saturday and furnished bail for his son, and they left immediately for Independence. The preliminary hearing will occur this afternoon at one o'clock in Justice Holgate's court.

Post came out on Saturday's train to see a physician and have his arm dressed, and returned to Summit by private conveyance in the afternoon.

Next Friday night there will be a basket social given in the grange hall in Alsea. A literary program will tend to make the occasion memorable. Supt. Denman expects to go over to Alsea for the purpose of attending this entertainment. The proceeds are to be applied toward a public library.

J. W. Balley, state food and dairy commissioner has returned from a six week's trip East, where he went as a delegate to the National Association of State Dairy and Food Departments, held at Buffalo. Mr. Balley succeeded in getting the association to meet in Portland next year, and the date fixed is July 8, 9 and 10. This association is composed of the food commissioners of each state, there being about 21 states that have them and their aim is to get a national pure food law passed by congress making the laws regulating the sale and manufacture of foods the same in every state. A bill will likely be introduced in congress this fall to that effect.—Rural Spirit.

Contract Awarded.

Bids were opened in Albany last Friday in the office of C. H. Barggraf, for the new horticultural hall.

The plans call for a building 85x25 feet, three stories high, built of Oregon stone. The bids were as follows:

A Pretty Custom.

A pretty practice which prevails in some parts of the East, and to some extent in the Northwest, is that of giving the farm a distinctive name. Besides the sentiment attached to designating the farm with some pretty cognomen, it has its useful side in giving it a definite location. Each farm, with its name is a distinct place, whereas those unnamed are merely so many tracts or acres of land. The named farm is easier to find and indicates that the owner has a pride in it—that it is his home. Then it is easier to address mail matter, and in return, the farmer may, like other business men, have a line of printed letter and bill heads, envelopes, etc., which cost but little more, if as much, as the same amount of blank paper bought in small lots. These are small things, but it is often trifles that elevate the man, make him take more pride in his surroundings, and lead him to appreciate life.—Homestead.

Chow-Chow.

I send a receipt for chow-chow, which is very excellent: One peck of green tomatoes, 1 large head of cabbage, 6 onions, 2 red peppers, to be chopped fine, 1 quart of vinegar, 1 teacup full of salt; boil 30 minutes; drain through a colander. Now take 2 quarts of vinegar, 2 pounds sugar, 1 tablespoonful each of allspice, cinnamon, cloves and ginger. Put in the ingredients and boil until tender. Mrs. A. F. Peterson.

A SPIRITLESS GAME.

Albany College Defeated the O. A. C. Eleven in a Tame Contest. Score, 6 to 0.

The Albany college football team defeated the O. A. C. eleven by a score of 6 to 0, last Saturday afternoon, in what was probably the poorest exhibition of the game ever seen on the home campus. The policy of total abstinence, made compulsory by the action of the board of regents, has not tended to make the representatives of the O. A. C. formidable in any field of athletic endeavor, and she is now practically where she was ten years ago. Love games between classes have failed to sustain interest and stimulate effort, and as a result, the sturdy eleven who lined up against the nimble boys from Albany, while possessed of excellent natural ability, were without knowledge of even the rudiments of the game, and were given faint-hearted encouragement from their supporters on the side lines.

On the other hand, the visitors came from an institution which has fostered athletics and remained loyal to its eleven through an almost unbroken series of defeats.

Albany College has been represented by a football team as long as has the O. A. C., and yet Saturday's victory was the second in her history. Notwithstanding her many defeats, her ardor has never been dampened, and her persistence has at last been rewarded. She has wrested victory from the once proud possessor of the Northwest championship. It was the first time, however, that she has ever scored against the orange, and with athletics again restored at the O. A. C., it will be the last time.

This is a reasonable deduction, for the Agricultural college has at least four times as many students to draw from.

THE GAME.

Albany won the toss and chose the east goal. She kicked off, and the ball was placed for the first scrimmage on O. A. C.'s 20 yard line. By a series of plunges through center and tackles the ball was steadily advanced to Albany's 25 yard line, where it was lost on a fumble. On the first line-up Albany tried the line for a slight gain. It was soon apparent that O. A. C. had the heavier men, and that she was more effective in hitting the line, but the visitors played a more snappy game and their team work was far superior to that of the farmers. In fact, the latter developed no interference during the game, and in defensive work it was every man for himself. A beautiful run around the end by Coates brought the pig-skin to O. A. C.'s 20 yard line, and Francis advanced it around the other end to the farmers' one yard line, where they showed what was in them by holding the visitors for the three downs. Just as they gained possession of the ball, time was called for the first half, neither side having scored.

O. A. C. kicked off in the second half. After a couple of ineffectual trials at the line Albany punted to center. The farmers pounded the line and punted. Albany sent Coates, who was easily the star performer of the afternoon, off for another pretty run, and he was downed on the farmers' ten-yard line. Twice Albany was caught for a loss, then forming for a punt, Morrison skirted the right end on a fake for the first and only touchdown. Goal was kicked. Score, Albany 6, O. A. C. 0.

Ten minutes of play remained and a series of punts, alternated with an occasional trial at the line consumed the remainder of the half.
