

THE CORVALLIS GAZETTE.

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 8, 1901.

To cover the cost of setting and distributing the type in such matters, a charge of fifty cents will be made for each "Card of Thanks," and five cents per line for each set of "Resolutions of Conclaves" appearing in these columns.

LOCAL NEWS.

W. S. Gardner, Photographer.
T. W. Dilley made a business trip to Albany Wednesday.

B. Cady, of Kings Valley, was in Corvallis during the week, attending some matters of business.

Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Mitchell are making preparations to leave for Texas, where they expect to reside permanently.

Harvey Sargent has opened a shooting gallery on Main street, one door north of Cameron's hardware shop.

Another effort is being made in Albany to provide the city with an opera house. One thousand dollars of the stock has been subscribed.

The foundation of S. N. Wilson's new building at the corner of Third and Madison streets, is completed, and work is being pushed rapidly.

For fine table linens, napkins, towels, lace curtains, rugs, lounge covers, white and colored blankets, mosaics, quilts, etc. Nolan & Callahan.

Ivan Daniel, who is a member of the Weidemann Company's band and orchestra, was last heard from at Roseburg, Oregon, en route south.

During the past week Mrs. Ewing, of Hubbard, and Mr. and Mrs. Robnett, of Halsey, have been visiting in this city, the guest of Dr. and Mrs. B. A. Cathey.

Perry A. Raymond, deputy postmaster of the Salem office, is visiting in Corvallis while enjoying a short vacation. He was postmaster in Albany a number of years ago.

The Pacific university and OAC events are scheduled to meet on the local gridiron, Saturday, November 16th. It is possible that a game will be played there by the same teams, Thanksgiving Day, the 28th.

A W Thornton, formerly of this city, where he went by the illustrious cognomen of "Horace Greeley," is now editor of the Cheney, Wash., Sentinel, a neatly printed and progressive-appearing publication.

Requests for copies of the GAZETTE continue to come in from all sections of the country. C. Wold, of Lincoln, Nebraska, and Mrs. John Charles, Tower City, North Dakota, asked for them this week.

D. C. Ecker, of Norman, Oklahoma, whose request for copies of this paper, we have noted, writes to a friend in this city that he intends moving to Benton county with his family next spring.

There does not seem to be a very heavy demand for prunes at present. The price generally offered for a first-class article is about three cents per pound. However, local prune men are holding their fruit and appear to be confident that prices will look up.

The Corvallis Flouring Mills are only running during the day-time now. They are not using steam as a motive power, there being sufficient water in the race to operate the mill when there is no grain being cleaned or elevators in operation.

In a recent letter to relatives in this city, Henry Allen states that he is "putting in double time." His work in the census department occupies the early evening hours. He sleeps until seven or eight o'clock in the morning, and works during the day in a drug store. He makes this extra work pay for his expenses and his regular salary is clear.

The case of G. F. Luckey, administrator, vs Lincoln county was tried in the circuit court in Lane county Tuesday. The Guard says: This is a case that originated in Lincoln county wherein G. F. Luckey and family in 1900, while crossing a county bridge, in said county, the wagon was driven upon a 30 foot span when the bridge fell a distance of 30 feet into the Yaquna river precipitating Mrs Luckey therein, and she was instantly killed. She was aged about 64 years. Therefore the administrator sued for $5,000 damages for her life. It was tried first in Lane county where a non-suit was granted the county and then a new suit was brought and it was sent to Lane county for trial. The following jury was drawn in the case Tuesday morning: Frank M. Stafford, George Fisher, John L. Fink, W. F. Smith, I. T. Martin, Robert Griffin, L. B. Rossman, M. Lindley, Ross Houfton, Amos Dimaker, S. T. Mitchell and J. T. Wooten. The attorneys for plaintiff are, W. S. McFadden, H. C. Watson, and A. C. Woodcock; for defendant, J. K. Weatherford, J. Wyatt and B. F. Jones. The case went to the jury Wednesday. It was hotly contested.

W. A. Sanders, Jeweler.
Kline's $10.00 Suits are good ones.

New goods all the time at Nolan & Callahan.

Attorney J. N. McFadden made business visit to Siletz this week.

Don't miss Nolan & Callahan's surprise sale. See their new d.

John Roland has purchased the Hunter property in this city from Marshall Miller. The farm purchased by W. G. Davis from Mr. Rowland is north of Corvallis. The deed had been transferred in neither instance.

The partnership heretofore existing between F. P. Morgan and G. A. Robinson has been dissolved. Mr. Morgan has opened an office one door north of the Commission store, and will continue in the real estate business.

Edgar A. Milner, formerly school superintendent of Benton county, and known to every old resident of this section, was made principal of one of the three night schools recently opened in Portland. A fair half-tone of Professor Milner appeared in Tuesday's Oregonian.

A reception is to be given this evening at Cauthorn hall, by the gentlemen of that institution, to the members of the Sorosis and Fermin societies. A program has been prepared, which will be followed by a season of games and other amusements.

S. H. Jones, student at the OAC a few years ago, is now a resident of Port Adelaide, South Australia. He has mailed to this office a copy of "The Leader," a 44-page weekly journal of news, politics, agriculture, sport, mining, science and literature, published at Melbourne. It is three pence a copy.

Commissioners' court began its regular monthly session, Wednesday. An important matter which received the attention of the court, was the changing of the boundary lines of numerous voting precincts. An act of the last legislature provides that no precinct shall contain more than 250 voters. In the last election one Philomath precinct polled as many as 280 votes.

Agent E. F. Thayer, of the O. R. & N. company, who with Mrs. Thayer arrived from Salem this week to again take up their residence in Corvallis, informs us that negotiations are now pending whereby it is quite likely a daily boat service will be supplied this winter between this city and Portland. His company will operate the Ruth, and arrangements may be perfected to have the Oregon City Transportation company place their steamer, Pomona, on this run.

Service at Wells on the second and fourth Sundays of every month at 2 p. m. G MacLean, Ph. Rector.

The Oregon Hop Growers' Association met in the office of Secretary J. Winstanley in Salem at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning for the purpose of completing the hop pool for shipment to London, and to elect some grower to accompany W. H. Durst, the Association's agent, on the trip to London, and there look after the interest of the growers. A committee was also elected to take charge of the matters connected with the pool, and thereby centralize the business and take much of the work off the individual growers.

The next morning the two captives appeared in the Police Court and entered a plea of guilty and the Judge assessed them each $10 and costs for their fun. The boys were over to Albany the other night and it cost them several boxes of candy and all kinds of trinkets to quell the good natured disturbance.

The Webfeet Were In It.

Homer Angell, of The Dailies, and Dick Smith, another Oregon graduate, went to Columbia University, New York, to study law, says a recent issue of the Telegram. Although greatly interested in football work, the two Webfeet decided not to participate in the sport, but confine their energies to Blackstone. However, they wandered with the press and pulpits, as a scholarly and eloquent speaker. Song service begins promptly at 7:30 each evening.

Ruthyn Turney, violinist, Miss Mable Cronise, vocalist and Mordant Goodnough, pianist, will appear at the college chapel tomorrow evening. A splendid program will be given.

Evangelist B. B. Burton, of Portland, will begin a series of gospel meetings at the Christian church tonight. Mr. Burton comes to Corvallis endorsed by the press and pulpits, as a scholarly and eloquent speaker. Song service begins promptly at 7:30 each evening.

The University of Oregon and the University of Idaho met on the gridiron at Moscow, Wednesday and neither side scored. McBride and Murphy of the Eugene team were forced to retire early in the contest, owing to slight injuries.

The Portland Telegram copies our little item concerning Clarence Starr's experience with the slow train on his way home from Seaside, and makes this unparable: "Clarence forgot to add that he stopped over in Portland to witness West's minstrel show, and that the story of the slow train was the same as related by Billy Van, in one of his famous monologues." In justice to Mr. Starr we wish to state that he and Mr. Van were fellow passengers on that train.

Open Here Monday Night.

The Fischer-Van Cleve Company closed their week's engagement at the armory last night with "East Lynne." Every seat in the house was sold before the box office opened and people bought second-class standing room with a rush. It was a mighty jam, but the crowd was satisfied with the splendid presentation of this old-time piece.

Babe Fischer as Lady Isabel, was at her best, and won hearty applause for her perfect interpretation of the character. Bert P. Van Cleve as Sir Francis Levinson and Mrs. Van Cleve as Miss Carlyle were good. Lord Severn was well taken care of by J. B. McCowell.

The other characters were well sustained. The company have played to packed houses every night and when they play their return engagement a month hence they will be greeted in the same manner.

They go to Eugene today for a week at the Parker and we cheerfully recommend them to the Eugene people. Miss Babe Fischer, especially, who has a bright future before her. The members are young but they put life and work into the plays and labor to please. So "An Revoir, but not Goodbye." Albany Herald, Sunday, Oct. 27.

Had Considerable Fun.

Corvallis boys had considerable fun on haloween night, at least to judge from the reports coming from our neighbor town. One party made up of prominent young men, well known in Albany, made a raid on a chicken house and just about the time they emerged from the hen roost with an armful of fancy Plymouth Rocks, a special officer appeared on the scene and escorted two of the boys to the calaboose. The rest of the crowd suddenly made themselves scarce.

The next morning the two captives appeared in the Police Court and entered a plea of guilty and the Judge assessed them each $10 and costs for their fun. The boys were over to Albany the other night and it cost them several boxes of candy and all kinds of trinkets to quell the good natured disturbance.

Tuesday evening, says the Albany Herald, Court Unity, No. 28, of Corvallis, amalgamated with Court Liberty, order of Foresters, and about 20 members were admitted from the neighbor town. A fine banquet is spread the first Tuesday of every month and a gull time had. Last evening a glass of cold water was the refreshment provided, and considerable merriment resulted from this departure.

Next Tuesday evening another visit to Albany is to be made by a delegation from the Corvallis Court. The case went to the jury Wednesday. It was hotly contested.

A Sad Case.

Sheriff Burnett, in company with James Horning, took J. E. Martin, of this city, to the asylum, Monday. Mr. Martin, who is an epileptic, is a good hardworking man, and seems perfectly sane except when suffering from attacks of epilepsy, when he is considered dangerous.

Dr. Altman, as-isted by Deputy Prosecuting Attorney Bryan, conducted his examination before Judge Woodward, Monday. The patient's answers were all very rational, but he admitted that he had at times contemplated self destruction, and said that he was willing to go to the penitentiary, but would rather die than go to the asylum. He said he had made violent threats against certain children in the neighborhood, but had never intended putting them into execution; that when these fits came upon him, children annoyed him beyond all endurance.

His case is a sad one, but it is believed that it is best for all concerned that he is in the asylum. He was a patient in that institution for a period of two years, some seven years ago.
