Mr. Ford, of Portland, has leased the Allen & Farra brick at the south end of Main street, and will put in a stock of furniture immediately. With his family he will occupy the Presbyterian parsonage.

In our Tuesday's issue we stated that Simpson and Huston had ordered a supply of the Peters Cartridges. Of course, our readers all knew we meant to say Huston & Bogue, but force of habit came near getting another editor into trouble.

According to the Yaquina Post, Capt. A. W. Rose is offering his place near Clitwood for sale. It comprises 164 acres, and there is a dwelling house, barn, farming implements, team, etc., which go with it. His reason for selling is "important business interests imperatively calling him elsewhere."

A half-tone of the Agricultural College campus and its many buildings, accompanied by a two-column write-up of the history of the institution and its present work, by Alice M. Wells, appears in Friday's Portland Telegram. It is an able and interesting article.

Mr. and Mrs. M. H. Kriebel, of North Bend, Wash., arrived Saturday for a short visit with Corvallis friends. Mr. Kriebel will enjoy a season's hunt while here. He is a true sportsman, and knows every inch of ground within miles of this city.

S. N. Wilkins has disposed of his stock of furniture to the Corvallis Furniture Co., just organized in this city. F. P. Morgan has been appointed manager and he will conduct the business in the store formerly occupied by Mr. Wilkins, just north of the Hotel Corvallis. Mr. Morgan has had experience in the furniture business, and its success is assured under his management.

In the last annual report of the Oregon Agricultural College, Prof. E. R. Lake calls attention to the interesting fact that Oregon has within her borders at least 27 native species and varieties of clover or more than on any other corresponding portion of the globe. This, he says, would seem to indicate that nature has here found the conditions just right for leguminous plants, and that native clovers should receive considerable attention.

It cost Lincoln county $900 to settle the suit brought against it for damages by G. F. Luckey. Of this amount, the plaintiff got $325. The Leader finds consolation in the fact the county got off so light when the suit called for $5000 damages, and says: "This verdict while against this county, is nevertheless a victory for it, for the reason, that the case after coming up for trial twice in this county and then carried to Linn county, was there not suited, and Lincoln county secured a judgment against Luckey for costs to the amount of $325 or $33 more than the amount awarded in the verdict."

The regular devotional meeting of the W. C. T. U. will be held Thursday afternoon at 8 o'clock at the reading room. The services will be appropriate to Thanksgiving Day.

J. H. Edwards was in from Dusty, Saturday. He says the cases of diphtheria in that neighborhood are confined to one family, and little fear is entertained that it will spread.

A concert, which was highly enjoyed by a number of our citizens, was given in front of the Occidental, Sunday afternoon by the Fischer VanCleve band. This organization contains a number of good musicians, and renders creditable selections.

At the regular meeting of the Corvallis Ministerial Association held at the home of Rev. Mr. Smith Monday November, 4th, arrangements were made for the annual Thanksgiving morning service, which will be held in the Baptist church Thanksgiving at 10:30 a. m. Rev. Smith of the M. E. church south will preach the sermon. An offering for benevolent purpose will be taken. Further notice next week.

Kola Neis, a St. em hop buyer, estimates that only 15,000 bales of Oregon hops remain unsold. T. A. Livesley, who is both a grower and a dealer, makes the same estimate. Mr. Neis says that, though some hops have sold as low as 8 cents per pound, he believes the entire Oregon product will average 10 cents per pound to the grower. The crop will amount to 65,000 bales, or 11,700,000 pounds. At 10 cents per pound, the crop will bring $1,170,000.

A long article in Saturday's Oregonian, discussing possible democratic candidates for the various state offices in the coming spring campaign, mentions Judge W. S. McFadden, of this city, as a likely candidate for supreme judge. Of course, no democrat can hope to be elected to a state office in Oregon, but if Judge McFadden receives his party's nomination for supreme judge, his opponent will have a hard fight for election.

In the contest in attendance between the schools of the county for the banner of attendance district No. 15 wins the banner with a perfect attendance. A number of other districts were a close second. The record made this month shows a marked improvement in attendance. The per cent of attendance made by each district is as follows: District No. 15, 100; 21, 98; 27, 97; 50, 97; 78, 96; 45, 96; 19, 96; 49, 95; 29, 93; 1, 92; 25, 88; 23, 84; 8, 63; 52, 75; 48, 74; 5, 40.

At a special meeting held Saturday, the stock holders of the Willamette Valley Prune Association decided without a dissenting voice to stand by the association price of 5 cents for 40s in 25-pound boxes. This is at the rate of 43 cents for the same size in bags, and, as everybody knows, is far above present quotations. The top price now is 34 cents, with 3 cents more frequently offered.

As stated in our last issue, the only bid offered for construction of the Lee-Nolan-Davis-Hyland sewer was that of J. R. Smith & Co. The sewer committee, to whom the matter was referred, have awarded the contract to this firm and work will commence at once. The length of the sewer will be 400 feet and the contract price is $448.75, or a trifle over $1.12 per foot. The cost of running the laterals across streets, 100 feet, will be borne by the city. Whether or not the city will also stand the expense of $50 for the two catch basins and the manhole, will be determined by the committee appointed to assess damages.

Hon. John Whitaker and wife of Corvallis came over last Wednesday and remained over night, the guests of ye editor and family. Mrs. Whitaker came to consult Dr. Ramsey as to her condition and after an examination she decided to return later on for treatment. Some eighteen months ago Mrs. Whitaker underwent an operation at St. Joseph's hospital at Portland and a large tumor was successfully removed from the abdomen, and after recovery she returned to her home apparently well, with the exception of her left limb, which has continued to refuse to support her body, due probably to some injury to the nerves. After examination Dr. Ramsey informed her that as it had gone so long it would probably take some time to successfully treat her case, and so she decided to return home and come back later and remain for treatment.—Peoples Press.

VICTORY FOR PACIFIC.

Although Defeated, the Farmers Played a Good Steady Game.

Although defeated by a score of 17 to 0 in its game Saturday with Pacific university, supporters of the O A C team are well pleased with the showing made by the farmer lads. With the exception of U. of O. the Pacific eleven is probably the strongest aggregation representing any of the Oregon educational institutions. They play a fast, snappy, clean game. A number of their players are men of several years experience on the gridiron, and for the past two months they have been working hard under the excellent coaching of McFadden, who played end on last year's Stanford eleven. As a result their team work is excellent, and every man is in superb physical condition.

The local team is composed almost entirely of freshmen. They have been organized scarcely more than a month and have had no coaching except what Manager Gault has been able to give, while playing a position on the team. They have had but one other game, that with Albany, in which to gain experience, but their defensive work, especially in the last fifteen minutes of the game, was beautiful.

Their great weakness is in offensive play. Their team work is ragged, and their interference weak and slow in forming. This, of course, is due to inexperience and lack of practice, but the advantage it gives their opponents is very decided. During the entire game, the farmer's had the ball in their possession not to exceed ten minutes, yet they held the university down to two touch downs in the first half, and one in the last 25 minutes of the game. Time and again O A C held the visitors for yardage, only to lose the ball on a fumble, or be compelled to kick on the second down. The game was clean and exciting, and neither side made use of a substitute.

Pacific kicked off to Captain Gault who ran in 20 yards. The ball was advanced 15 yards by hammering the line and then punted into Pacific territory. The visitors tried the farmers line, but found it impregnable. Then Day found a hole between tackle and end and plunged down the field for forty yards. With the ball on O A C's 6-yard line, Millis was sent around the end for the first touch down, after 12 minutes of play. He failed to convert it into a goal, and the score stood, P. U., 5; O. A. C., 0. After ten minutes more of fast work in which Captain Day was sent against tackle for certain gains, and short runs were added by Millis, a second touch down was scored; goal was kicked. Score, P. U., 11; O. A. C., 0.

The farmers kicked to P. U.'s 20-yard line, and succeeded in stopping the visitors who had advanced the ball by rammings to the center of the field. Williams plunged through P. U.'s line and made a sensational run of 40 yards. Time was called, with the ball in the farmers' possession on Pacific's 10-yard line.

The Stanford system of playing by series, disconcerted the home team, who had been used to hearing signals before the ball was put in play, and they were slow in tackling in the first half. During the latter part of the game, however, they watched the ball and moved when it was put in play. As a result the last half was a pretty exhibition of football.

A short kickoff, which was well handled, left the ball in Pacific's possession almost in the center of the field for the first down at the opening of the second half, and in 11 minutes Bryant was sent over for the last touchdown, after a hard struggle. Millis kicked a difficult goal. Score, P. U., 17; O. A. C., 0.

The farmers seemed to gain rather than lose heart and their tackling was desperate. P. U. could get the ball to the ten-yard line, but the farmers would secure possession of it and punt out of danger, and it was a see saw between center and O A C's ten-yard line during the remainder of the half.

Butter Factory.

Corvallis is not experiencing a boom. She has learned the fallacy of attempting to grow in this way. But she is daily adding to her population; rents are gradually on the increase; property values are slowly rising, and the number of her business houses is being constantly added to. So substantial is this present growth, our citizens have scarcely realized that it is in operation.

Not the least of the new enterprises set on foot is the creamery which, as the GAZETTE informed its readers early last week, will be opened December 1st by H. W. Kaupisch, formerly manager of the skimming station in this city.

The Cauthorn warehouse on river street, between the Central Planing Mills and the O. R. & N. dock, is being prepared to receive the machinery for the making of butter, which arrived last week. This machinery was purchased from a Halsey firm which put a creamery in operation some two years ago, but failed to succeed. It is of late design and the new plant will be up to date in all particulars. Its capacity will be in the neighborhood of 200 pounds of butter per day.

Mr. Kaupisch will own and control the plant. He has had much practical experience in butter making and patrons may expect a first class product. As this is a purely local enterprise, the money which it earns remaining in the community, it will receive the support and patronage of Corvallis and Benton county.

Begins This Evening.

The Corvallis Improvement Society will begin the year's study and work at the home of Mrs. Judge Woodward Tuesday evening, November 19, at 7:45.

All interested are cordially invited to be present. The meetings will be held every month at the homes of the different members when convenient to do so. The subjects to be considered at the first meeting will be the further beautifying of our public school grounds, and the making more attractive those desolate spots of entry to country towns, the railway depots.

The possibility of making one of our streets, for a number of blocks, into a Park street, will be simply touched upon as a subject for thought and discussion at the next meeting in December.

Membership fee in this association is fifty cents per year, to be expended in improvements by vote of the members.

The society also wishes to acknowledge the kindly aid given by Mr. Miller in planting out trees furnished by it, to the Public school grounds, also for staking and painting the same; for paint donated by the firm of Wade & Co., and to Misses Holgate and Jacobs for aid given in typewriting.

Play U of O Saturday.

Clyde Payne, assistant manager of U O football team, announced yesterday that arrangements had been completed for a game between the U O second team and the O A C team, to be played at Corvallis on Saturday, November 23. The second team has been faithful this year, receiving the brunt and bruises inflicted by the varsity eleven. Therefore the management has been very anxious to arrange a game for this deserving eleven.

The second team this year is by no means weak. The team that played against the High School last Saturday was not the regular second team; it was composed of a few second team men, the other being new and inexperienced players. With prospects of a sure game the boys will work hard and give the Agrics a better contest than is looked for.—Guard.

An illustrated article from the pen of Dennis Stovall, is given an entire page in Saturday's Portland Telegram. It is gratifying to observe boys, who are denied recognition in their childhood's home, mount the ladder of success when they get among strangers.

Spoke on Foreign Missions.

Rev. Thomas Marshall, D. D., field secretary of the foreign mission board of the Presbyterian church, lectured Tuesday night to a good sized and very attentive audience at the Presbyterian church in this city, on the rise and progress of the work of the board which he represents. He has a way peculiar to himself, of setting the work before the people. He commences at the foundation and builds up, and does not ignore the work of other organizations as he passes along.

He gave figures showing all the money expended by this board since its organization, year by year for the past 70 years. The expenditures last year were $1,047,870.22, and it cost 5 per cent to carry it to foreign fields. The number of Americans employed by the board as doctors, preachers, teachers, etc., is 1300, and the native helpers under pay of the board, is more than three times this number. The board has 74 hospitals under its control. These are situated in Central America, Mexico, Asia, Africa, Europe and the isles of the sea, and are maintained by the donations of the church.

Fourth in the Series.

Dr. G. L. Gaston will lecture in the Opera House on Wednesday evening, November 20th at 8 o'clock p. m. His subject is "Yosemite". This is the fourth lecture in the course that has been arranged for with the California Lecture Bureau by Superintendent Denman. Dr. Gaston is said to be a very pleasing speaker. His lecture on "Yosemite" should be interesting and enjoyable. Tickets for sale at Gerhard's. Reserve seats 35 cents, general admission 25 cents. Dr. Gaston will remain over in our city the Sunday following the lecture, viz November 24. He will lecture in the North Methodist church in the evening. Rev. Mr. Moore and Rev. Mr. Noble will unite on this occasion and have union service. Mr. Gaston being a member of the Baptist church, the meeting was held in this edifice in order to accommodate the large crowd that is likely to want to hear him. This lecture will be free to all. The meeting will be turned over to pastors of the aforesaid churches to be conducted by them.

Mrs. John Cummings.

The funeral of Mrs. John Cummings, which occurred Friday morning at 11:30 in the little church near the cemetery, was largely attended. The services were conducted by Rev. Shangle, formerly of this city. She died at the family home near Halsey, November 14th of Bright's disease.

Catherine Palmer was born July 9th, 1847 in New York. She came to Oregon at the age of 16, and two years later was united in marriage with John Cummings. They took up their home near Halsey, where Mrs. Cummings resided until her death. The surviving relatives are, a brother, L. Palmer, of Halsey; sister, Mrs. Sallie Delaney, New York; two daughters, Mrs. Geo. W. Irvine, this city, and Mrs. Ed Ward, of Halsey; two sons, Hugh and George, both of Halsey.
