

JACKSON DAY.

Tomorrow is Jackson Day. Doubtless democratic societies all over the country will fittingly celebrate the day and glorify the hero of New Orleans and laud his memory to the skies.

He is a unique figure in American history. Great he was not, yet few men have been so idolized by great masses of the people as was Jackson. Devoid of scholastic training in any direction, of a fiery, impetuous temper, of an imperious will, a domineering spirit and a quarrelsome, turbulent disposition we wonder at his immense popularity. But these characteristics, sources of weakness in other men, seemed to be elements of strength in him. Joined to superb courage, most zealous patriotism and tremendous energy when aroused to action they made up a character which strongly appealed to the backwoodsmen of Kentucky and Tennessee because they understood it and felt it was in harmony with their own. They felt he was one of themselves, worthy to be trusted and for them a safe and well qualified leader; and so he was.

He conquered the Creek Indians in 1814 and was placed in command of the Army of the South, with headquarters at Mobile. His purpose was to drive the Spanish out of Florida, and he begged for orders to take Pensacola. He did not believe the republic was safe while a single Spanish flag floated anywhere on the north coast of the Gulf of Mexico. The people of the Southwest were unanimous in desiring to control Florida. Now that the English were at Pensacola Jackson was more than ever desirous to seize the place. He had no orders to do so, yet he tried his utmost to provoke a quarrel with the Spanish governor. On November 3rd, 1814 he marched with forty-one hundred men, appeared before Pensacola the night of the sixth, carried the place by assault the next day, and compelled the British to evacuate and blow up Fort Barrancas. Jackson was back at Mobile on the eleventh. The British expedition against New Orleans was rapidly approaching, but Jackson seemed to be stricken with apathy and negligence. He sent a thousand men to chase Indians on the Escambia; he left twelve hundred at Mobile; he sent Gen. Coffee with two thousand to Baton Rouge and sent but one regiment to New Orleans where he himself arrived December 2nd. He found the city utterly unprepared to resist, although the British expedition was then off the coast of Cuba. He bent his energies to the work of preparation. He proclaimed martial law, and quickly massed his troops at that city.

The battle of New Orleans is familiar history. Never has been assembled such a motley, heterogeneous lot of men as formed Jackson's command. The breast works behind which they lay lacked any sort of engineering skill in their plan. They were in a straight line, and so most difficult to defend. But they were defended by skilled marksmen who wasted no powder and lead. The attacking force was largely composed of Wellington's veterans of the Peninsula massed in solid column. The riflemen of Kentucky and Tennessee simply slaughtered them. Almost seven hundred men were slain in front of Jackson's line. Three generals, seven colonels and seventy-five inferior officers were counted with the dead. From this time on Jackson was a national figure. Scott, Gaines, Brown and Miller had achieved all the success that had thus far relieved the humiliating record we had made on land. It was reserved for Jackson to close the war with a halo of glory resting upon the American arms.

We follow Jackson to the Seminole war and see his energy capture and destroy the Negro Fort and Saint Marks, but we find it difficult to approve of his execution of Arbutnot and Ambrist.

His administration as president embraces a stormy period in our history, but his unwavering devotion to the Union leads us to forget his errors.

In after years his "By the Eternal the Union must and shall be preserved" was the rallying cry of thousands of patriotic men of all parties, and contributed mightily towards saving the union of states.

He deserves his niche in our history, and will forever rank with our most earnest patriots.

Shrouded in Mystery.

Polk county seems to be in some strange way favored with mysterious disappearances. About three years ago A. K. Handy, at one time a resident of Corvallis and well known here, disappeared while out hunting near Falls City, and, although diligent and exhaustive search was made, nothing has yet come to light that has cleared the mystery surrounding his disappearance. How he came to his end is still a matter of conjecture. The last issue of the Dallas Observer chronicles another disappearance that seems quite mysterious. It says:

Considerable uneasiness is felt by the friends of Henry Kuhlén since his strange disappearance on Monday of this week. He had been boarding in Dallas and cutting wood on the Grant place in the hills two miles east of town. Monday morning he took his lunch pail and started out to work as usual. He failed to return in the evening and has not been seen since. His friends became alarmed and sent out searching parties in all directions through the hills, but no trace of him can be found. In fact, he disappeared as completely as if the earth had gaped and swallowed him. Kuhlén is a single man, aged about 25 or 30, is an ex-soldier, and has been around Dallas for several months. He is not in financial straits, and that he has suddenly disappeared is a mystery.

The Other Side.

EDITOR GAZETTE: Your issue of the 3rd inst. contained an article on "early closing," which I think a splendid subject for discussion in a debating club. Like all other questions, it has two sides to it. I agree with the GAZETTE in regard to the overworked clerks needing rest and that they should have a right to quit when night comes on just the same as any other laborer. But don't you think the boss should keep open until the laborers who commence work at seven o'clock and quit at six in the various factories, mills, shops, etc., have had a chance to make their purchases for the morrow? If you will advocate closing the saloon at six, or about fifteen minutes before, I could heartily grasp your hand. But men who labor to keep the wheels of industry moving in Corvallis must have food to eat and clothes to wear, and if they have to keep at their work until the merchants close their places of business what show have they to get the necessities of life? A person probably will suggest that he let his tired, worn-out wife go and make the purchases; it would be good for her to take a walk of, say one-fourth of a mile to a mile, after doing the family wash, or if he has no wife, then let his sweet-heart go. But if he has neither wife nor sweet-heart—well, then he has no business with anything to live on anyway.

C. L. K. Corvallis, Jan. 6, 1902.

He Won the Organ.

ED. GAZETTE: By your kind indulgence, I wish to state through the columns of your valuable paper to the general public and to the host of patrons of the Big White House, of the City of Corvallis, Or., that I, being the holder of the winning number, 9998, in the grand drawing contest for the organ which was manufactured in our city, and that I now have received the organ, and that it now graces the parlors of my humble home. Am I a musician myself? No, but I have two little fellows who are—they put one foot each on the pedals, hold the keys down, and let her "squeal." I have been asked the question: "What did the organ cost you?" Now, for the benefit of those who think that possibly I may have had some kind of a pull or "stand in," or, if you please, some cut way of getting next, that this is entirely a mistake. The organ did not cost me one cent. For every dollar's worth purchased at the White House I received a ticket the same as others. A number of times I went away forgetting to get my tickets. I am not hired nor paid for writing this, but I wish to make the statement that Kline's is indeed the White House. And last, but not least, he keeps white people behind the counters.

Endorsed 1905 Fair.

At a meeting of the Citizens League at the court house Saturday evening the following items of business were transacted: The committee appointed to confer with the city council in the matter of improving the various street crossings on the railroad streets, reported that they acted as instructed and that the work had been accomplished. The secretary was instructed to ask the Grange, Agricultural College, county court and city council to cooperate with the league in the formation of a committee, consisting of one member from each organization, to provide ways and means to make a creditable exhibit to the Lewis and Clark Exposition. A similar resolution was passed asking for cooperation in securing an exhibit to the state fair. A resolution was passed congratulating the citizens of Portland for their enterprise in launching their 1905 fair and endorsing the movement. The resolution asks the people of Benton county to give hearty and active support.

Joint Installation.

A public installation of the G A R and W R C occurred in their hall last Saturday evening. After the business meeting, a delightful banquet was spread, and an enjoyable social time was had. The following officers were installed for Ellsworth Post by Department officer S. Chipman:

The Children's Friend.

You'll have a cold this winter. Maybe you have one now. Your children will suffer, too. For cough, croup, bronchitis, grip and other winter complaints One Minute Cough Cure never fails. As a cough medicine it is very pleasant to the taste and perfectly harmless. C. B. George, Winchester, Ky., writes: "Our little girl was attacked with croup late one night and was so hoarse she could hardly speak. We gave her a few doses of One Minute Cough Cure. It relieved her immediately and she went to sleep. When she awoke next morning she had no signs of hoarseness or croup."—Graham & Wells.

Modern Surgery Surpassed.

"While suffering from a bad case of piles I consulted a physician who advised me to try a box of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve," says G. F. Carter, Atlanta, Ga. "I procured a box and was entirely cured. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is a splendid cure for piles, giving relief instantly, and I heartily recommend it to all sufferers." Surgery is unnecessary to cure piles. DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve will cure any case. Cuts, bruises, and all other wounds are also quickly cured by it. Beware of counterfeits.—Graham & Wells.

Editor Lynch of "Daily Post" Phillipsburg, N. J., has tested the merits of Foley's Honey and Tar with this result: "I have used a great many patent remedies in my family for coughs and colds, and I can honestly say your Honey and Tar is the best thing of the kind I have ever used and I cannot say too much in praise of it." Graham & Wortham.

Good Advice.

The most miserable beings in the world are those suffering from Dyspepsia and Liver Complaint. More than seventy-five per cent. of the people in the United States are afflicted with these two diseases and their effects: such as Sour Stomach, Sick Headache, Habitual Constipation, Palpitation of the Heart, Heart-burn, Waterbrash, Gnawing and Burning Pains at the pit of the Stomach, Yellow Skin, Coated Tongue and Disagreeable Taste in the Mouth. Coming up of Food after Eating, Low Spirits, etc. Go to your Druggist and get a bottle of August Flower for 75 cents. Two doses will relieve you. Try it. Get Green's Prize Almanac. Graham & Wortham.

Reliable and Gentle.

"A pill's a pill," says the saw. But there are pills and pills. You want a pill which is certain, thorough and gentle. Mustn't gripe. DeWitt's Little Early Risers fill the bill. Purely vegetable. Do not force but assist the bowels to act. Strengthen and invigorate. Small and easy to take.—Graham & Wells.

J. W. Bryan of Lowder, Ill., writes: "My little boy was very low with pneumonia. Unknown to the doctor, we gave him Foley's Honey and Tar. The result was magical and puzzled the doctor, as it immediately stopped the racking cough and he quickly recovered." Graham & Wortham.

Foley's Honey and Tar cures colds, prevents pneumonia.

Satisfied People are the best advertisers for Foley's Honey and Tar and all who use it agree that it is a splendid remedy for coughs, colds or sore lungs. Graham & Wortham.

A Physician Testifies.

"I have taken Kodol Dyspepsia Cure and have never used anything in my life that did me the good that did." says County Physician George W. Scroggs of Hall County, Ga. "Being a physician I have prescribed it and found it to give the best results." If the food you eat remains undigested in your stomach it decays there and poisons the system. You can prevent this by dieting but that means starvation. Kodol Dyspepsia Cure digests what you eat. You need suffer from neither dyspepsia nor starvation. The worse case quickly cured. Never fails.—Graham & Wells.

Chas. Replogle, Atwater, O., was in very bad shape. He says "I suffered a great deal with my kidneys and was requested to try Foley's Kidney Cure. I did so and in four days I was able to go to work again, now I am entirely well." Graham & Wortham.

Brain-Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fat has been branded by the most competent authorities. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. Green's reliable remedies at Graham & Wortham.
