

All Humors

Are impure matters which the skin, liver, kidneys and other organs can not take care of without help, there is such an accumulation of them. They litter the whole system. Pimples, boils, eczema and other eruptions, loss of appetite, that tired feeling, bilious turns, fits of indigestion, dull headaches and many other troubles are due to them.

Hood's Sarsaparilla and Pills

Remove all humors, overcome all their effects, strengthen, tone and invigorate the whole system.

"I had salt them on my hands so that I could not work. I took Hood's Sarsaparilla and it drove out the humor. I continued its use till the sores disappeared." Mrs. I. A. G. Brown, Rumford Falls, Me.

Poison Oak Poison Ivy

are among the best known of the most dangerous wild plants and shrubs. To touch or handle them quickly produces swelling and inflammation with intense itching and burning of the skin. The eruption soon disappears, the sufferer hopes forever; but almost as soon as the little blisters and pustules appeared the poison had reached the blood, and will break out at regular intervals and each time in a more aggravated form. This poison will enter in the system for years, and every atom of it must be forced out of the blood before you can expect a perfect, permanent cure.

SSS Nature's Antidote FOR Nature's Poisons.

is the only cure for Poison Oak, Poison Ivy, and all noxious plants. It is composed exclusively of roots and herbs. Now is the time to get the poison out of your system, as delay makes your condition worse. Don't experiment with various other drugs, and applied externally numerous lotions and salves with no benefit. At times the swelling and inflammation was so severe he was almost blind. For eight years the poison would break out every season, but conditions were much improved after taking one bottle of S. S. S., and a few bottles cleared his blood of the poison, and all evidence of the disease disappeared.

People are often poisoned without knowing when or how. Explain your case fully to our physicians, and they will cheerfully give such information and advice as you require, without charge, and we will send at the same time an interesting book on Blood and Skin Diseases.

BOLD BLACK BART.

A PICTURESQUE HIGHWAYMAN OF CALIFORNIA.

The Jekyll and Hyde Career of a Stage Robber Who Terrorized the Pacific Slope and Eluded the Officials for Many Years—Again at Work.

There is good reason to believe that Black Bart, the boldest and most notorious highwayman ever known in California, is operating again. The five robberies of stage and coach on lonely mountain roads in northern California and southern Arizona during the last few months have abundant earmarks of the famous lone highwayman of the Sierras. More than this, two of the passengers in the held-up stages knew something of Black Bart when he held central California in terror 20 years ago, and from his speech and figure, are sure that his robber is the noted bandit. Moreover, no one seems to know what has become of him since his release from San Quentin prison, where he had been sentenced for eight years.

BLACK BART.

The trial of Black Bart for highway robbery in Visalia, Cal., in May, 1884, revealed a mass of information about this unusual bandit. For 17 years highway robberies by Black Bart had taken place at intervals and in least expected localities, all the way from Portland, Ore., to Yuma, Ariz.

His arrest came about in this way. In March, 1884, the stage coach that traveled the rough road over the desolate hills and through the lonely gulches from a gold mining camp in the Sierras to Marysville, Cal., was held up by a masked, lone highwayman, whom the driver and all the passengers recognized by his manners and speech as none other than Black Bart. The veteran highwayman had reduced his mode of robbery to a science, and when he had quickly harvested a crop of gold watches, purses and bits of jewelry, he shouted to the driver to go ahead.

A MEETING WITH BLACK BART.

When the coach had rumbled out of sight on the way down the mountain-side Black Bart turned his attention to splitting open the wooden box containing the Wells-Fargo Express Company's treasure. Something must have disturbed the highwayman while he was gathering up the money from the treasure box, for when the stage coach passengers had armed themselves at the next station and hurried back to the second, later in the day, they found among the debris of papers, empty purses and wrappings of parcels a linen cuff. The robber evidently had dropped it in a hurried flight to his refuge.

The cuff was turned over to the express company detectives. They found, after weeks of inquiry, that the indelible laundry marks were those of a Chinese laundry on Bush street, in San Francisco. When the detective had learned from the Chinese laundryman that the marks on the cuff indicated that it belonged to one Charles E. Bolton, a regular patron of the laundry, they set about to hunt up Mr. Bolton. It came out that Charles E. Bolton, who owned the cuff, was a quiet, unobtrusive, spare man of about 50 years. He lived in a modest and quiet boarding house, where sedate, old-fashioned business men had rooms, and every one there was his friend.

When a detective went to live in the same boarding house he found that Mr. Bolton was a studious man, lived a correct life, was a reader of new books, dabbled in poetry, and every few weeks went away to visit one of the several little mines about California to which he had investments. Bolton was an expert whist player, and evidently he had traveled far and wide in his early life. His hobby was water colors, and he spent whole days in painting bucolic scenes alone in his rooms. Then when he had dined in style along with the other bachelors in the boarding house he went alone to the theater, where he took the least conspicuous seat. He never got mail and never sent letters, but he devoured the daily newspapers at times. Nevertheless it did not take the detective long to connect this quiet, listless gentleman with the most dreaded outlaw in California.

For 17 years he had kept half the sheriffs and constables, a lot of detectives, and all the United States marshals in California ceaselessly watchful for a fresh deed by Black Bart. He had many a time walked down to a local bank carrying a sune fortune in his grip-sack—the proceeds of a recent affair out on "the road"—past hundreds of San Francisco people, while they were excitedly discussing Black Bart's latest hold-up.

The outlaw was convicted and because of his confession and apparent determination to lead a new life he was sentenced to San Quentin prison for only eight years. He was a model prisoner, and he earned all the commutations of his sentence for good conduct. He was liberated in July, 1890. For a few days he lived in Sacramento, waiting, he said, until he got some money from Eastern relatives, when he meant to go to Seattle and earn an honest living. Then the man disappeared.

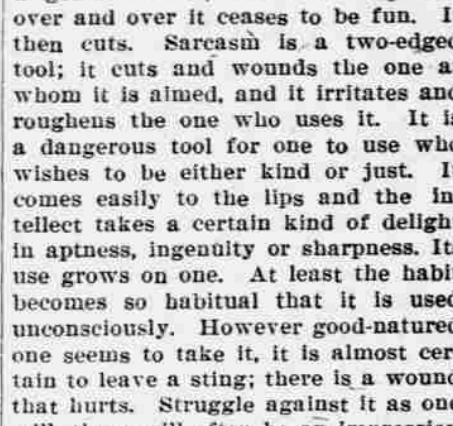

There is no doubt in the minds of the officials who participated in Black Bart's capture before, but that the accomplished stage robber is again at work and will once more lead the officers of the law a merry chase before he is apprehended.

The Duty of Mothers.

What suffering frequently results from a mother's ignorance; or more frequently from a mother's neglect to properly instruct her daughter!

Tradition says "woman must suffer," and young women are so taught. There is a little truth and a great deal of exaggeration in this. If a young woman suffers severely she needs treatment, and her mother should see that she gets it.

Many mothers hesitate to take their daughters to a physician for examination; but no mother need hesitate to write freely about her daughter or herself to Mrs. Pinkham's Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., and secure from a woman the most efficient advice without charge.

Mrs. August Palzgraf.

Mrs. August Palzgraf, of South Byron, Wis., mother of the young lady whose portrait we here publish, wrote in January, 1896, saying her daughter had suffered for two years with irregular menstruation—had headache all the time, and pain in her side, feet swollen, and was generally miserable. She received an answer promptly with advice, and under date of March, 1899, the mother writes again that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured her daughter of all pains and irregularity.

Nothing in the world equals Lydia E. Pinkham's great medicine for regulating woman's peculiar monthly troubles.

WELL LIGHTED STORES. The M. & M. Arcs are causing quite a stir.

Nothing is more annoying than a poorly lighted store. From the time of olden days millions of people have been bothered by insufficient light when the evening comes. But now it seems the whole question is settled by the brilliant, economical "M. & M." Arc Lamps that are becoming so popular. They are cheap, too. Write to C. W. Lord, Portland, Oregon, for a circular telling you all about them. You'll be glad you wrote. Agents are wanted in every town.

The Literal Mind. Little 5-year-old Margie was out walking with her mother recently, and finding it difficult to keep up, she said:

"Mamma, are you a stepmother?" "No, dear," was the reply. "But what made you think I was?"

"Because you take such awful long steps," replied Margie.—Chicago News.

Multiplication and Division. Rodrick—This is a wonderful country for arithmetic.

A Pertinent Query. Magistrate—It has been proven that you struck your wife, and—

Defendant—Well, judge, I stood her bossin' as long as I could.

Magistrate—That doesn't excuse you. She is the weaker vessel, and you should—

Defendant—Weaker vessel, eh? Then why does she carry so blame much sail?—Philadelphia Press.

A Smart Man's Clever Ruse. "I saw your wife in a car with you the other day," said a friend to the gay Wall street broker. "I thought she was going to stay South over the holidays."

"She thought so, too," and the broker smiled. "She was with friends down there for a long time, and kept writing me not to tell her to come back just yet."

"How did you manage it?" "I didn't write her for her to come back. I just sent her last month's gas bill. It was for 11 cents. She got here two days later, and her trunk had been coming in on every train since."

Then they both smiled.—New York Press.

Cultivate Belief—The Christian should cultivate belief, or go out of the business of being a Christian.—Rev. Dr. Meeser, Baptist, Worcester, Mass.

Organized Hypocrisy—Legislation without religion is organized hypocrisy. The wealthy should look to their own conditions.—Rev. D. S. Mackay, New York City.

Discretion and Zeal—Discretion without zeal is slow paced, and zeal without discretion is strong-headed; let zeal spur on discretion.—Rev. W. J. Holtzclaw, Baptist, Atlanta, Ga.

As Little Children—To enter the kingdom of heaven we must be as little children. The child completely and thoroughly trusts God.—Rev. S. Bryant, Methodist, Washington, D. C.

A Moral Truth—No man can know a moral truth until he feels it. He must think and know before he can realize his full obligation.—Rev. I. W. Joyce, Methodist Bishop, Pittsburg, Pa.

A Book of Moral Laws—Man will always believe in the Bible as a great literature, a history, a health book and a book of moral laws.—Rev. H. W. Thomas, People's Church, Chicago, Ill.

Christian Conscience—The Christian conscience should be a guide. There are certain methods in legitimate business that a Christian cannot practice.—Rev. W. G. Partridge, Baptist, Cincinnati, Ohio.

Friendship—Friendship delivers us from selfishness, strengthens us in the hour of temptation. It is a shield in the days of success, a help in the hour of trial.—Rev. Dr. Levy, Hebrew, Pittsburg, Pa.

Two Strongest Passions—The two strongest passions of human nature—love and hate—are both appealed to in the name of religion. Although opposite, both are claimed in the service of religion.—Rev. A. S. Garver, Unitarian, Worcester, Mass.

The Divine Man—It is possible to make Jesus Christ too much a God and not enough the divine man who lived his divinity among men as an evidence that God can dwell and work among men.—Rev. J. A. Rondthaler, Presbyterian, Indianapolis, Ind.

Test of Church Membership—The church hasn't yet reached up to the full doctrine of Jesus Christ, but the day is coming when the test of church membership shall be whether a man loves his fellow-man.—Rev. Dr. Rainsford, Episcopal, New York City.

Best Wisdom—The best men of each age have regarded the fear of the Lord as the best wisdom, but there have been different sects, each fulfilling the needs and ideals of its age, laying stress on the different points of religion.—Rev. Dr. Hadley, New Haven, Conn.

Never Outgrown.—Christ can never be outgrown or lost to us. Forever adequate and changeless in himself, he is the prophecy and pledge of a perfected character and an immutable destiny to all who will behold and follow him.—Rev. J. R. Boyle, Methodist, Philadelphia, Pa.

Christians.—If we are not Christians in the enlightenment of to-day God will hold us responsible according to our light. If we are not "forgiven," and hence have the forgiving spirit, we are self-men, not Christians; Christ men.—Rev. A. J. Stone, Presbyterian, Baltimore, Md.

Immortality.—Immortality has no conditions, and the thoughts and the acts of the individual can in no way affect it. Immortality has nothing whatever to do with good or evil. Good or evil merely determine the future state of the consciousness of the individual.—Rev. F. F. Mason, Spiritualist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Restore Our Judaism.—By arousing ourselves from a sleep that may result in death, by throwing off for a while all present interests, by looking at conditions not only as they affect single individuals, but as they are destined to affect the great body of Israel, we shall yet be able to restore our Judaism to its ancient glory, so that it shall continue to do its great and noble work for humanity.—Rev. J. H. Greenstone, Hebrew, Philadelphia, Pa.

Selfishness.—It is selfishness in every instance that makes the hard-hearted man. He comes to regard himself in a class by himself, and by his reasoning, things not allowable for others are permissible for him. It is perfectly possible for a nation to become kind-hearted, as well as it is for an individual to become so. Argument and sophistry can harden our national heart.—Rt. Rev. F. Burgess, bishop, Long Island, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Distribution of the Beautiful.—The distribution of the beautiful in daily life unconsciously is an incitement toward beautiful thoughts and a beautiful character, and a barrier against ugliness of mind and deformity of morals. Immeasurable, indeed, the influence of this modern art movement upon the morals of society. And because the moral background of our world is whiter and purer than ever before, the lines of corruption are now assuming unnumbered buds of ugliness.—Rev. Dr. Hillis, Congregationalist, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Shows a Nonconductor. According to experiments conducted by H. Janssen on Mont Blanc it is not necessary to erect poles for string telephone and telegraph wires in snow-covered countries. If the snow is several inches thick it serves as a good insulator; the wires can simply be laid down and be ready for transmission of messages.

The desire that every town man has to some day live on a farm is really due to a longing to get away from the neighbors.
