

HE IS THE EXECUTIVE.

It will be recalled that in his message to congress the president referred to the apparent inadequacy of the laws to restrain certain great corporations, such as the trans-continental railway companies, and to the inefficient agencies relied upon to enforce the inter-state commerce laws. The public evidently expected him to stop at this, or if he did more it would be to urge congress to supply more specific laws and more efficient agents for their administration. He did nothing of the sort. He simply and promptly set about executing the laws already enacted, and using the agencies already provided. He made no fuss nor parade, gave no preliminary warning of his purpose to any one. The "Inter-State Commerce Commission" was required to exercise its functions to their full limits if necessary and the attorney general was instructed to apply the legal remedies at hand to punish infractions of the laws, and to enforce their provisions. The commission promptly and spiritedly entered upon its duties, and is now busily engaged in calling to account the transportation companies which practice the giving of special and discriminating rates by means of rebates and drawbacks, or by whatever device. It is also looking as sharply after the shippers who accept such special privileges. The attorney-general is proceeding against the Northern Securities merger and several lesser trusts under the Sherman trust law.

The beneficial effects of these proceedings are already becoming apparent. The offenders, in a number of instances, have fallen into a full compliance with the laws. It is not very probable that any of them, unless it may be the Northern Securities Company, will enter into any adverse contest. They have already learned that the laws will be enforced. They grumble and bitterly complain that the president did not advise with them, and assert that dire disaster was invited through his failure to do so.

The president has demonstrated several things: That his official oath to execute the laws is sufficient warning of his purpose; that even poor laws intelligently and earnestly enforced work out some good and are to be preferred, usually, to no law at all. Should he make it appear that after all we have all the law necessary in the premises, it would confirm the opinion of many thoughtful and intelligent men.

It is quite probable that the influence of certain trust magnates will be directed to creating discord, possibly estrangement, between party leaders and the president. Even now there are not lacking indications of such a purpose; but it will fail, because the people, the great American people, are in accord with their president and do not need a magnifying glass to see that he is the chief executive.

Come, Wake Up!

We are in receipt of the following communication from Wallis Nash, which we cheerfully publish, in the hope that it will call the people of this city and vicinity to a full sense of their duty toward a most laudable enterprise and awaken them to the responsibility which attaches to us all as citizens to make the May Choral Festival a success:

The finance committee of the May Choral Festival started out with me this last week to canvass Corvallis business houses to sell tickets for the festival. We had a sad awakening. I for one supposed that everybody in Corvallis knew what this festival was and knew also that the honor of the good city was at stake in making this an occasion not less successful than that at Albany last May. But, alas, one good citizen thought we were canvassing for some kind of a play and he "never went to plays." Another asked what church we were trying to help. A third had never been seen at an "entertainment." A fourth knew nothing about music and did not care to go.

One member of the committee observed that we were up against a harder proposition than canvassing for a Fourth of July celebration or a chicken exhibition. Now the only thing to do is to invoke again the power of the press and try to make things plain.

Four years ago an association was formed at Eugene consisting of Eugene, Albany, Salem and Corvallis for giving at each city in succession a festival or series of performances of the best music in May of each year. Eugene gave the first series, Salem the second, Albany the third and Corvallis this year the fourth. The name of the association is "The Willamette Valley Choral Association."

Each festival has been more successful than the last. Albany last year was under the disadvantage of having only a comparatively small church for the performances and had to turn away scores of people from the doors. Also having so small a room, they were afraid to advertise the festival. But that church was crowded to the door at each performance, and all the Albany people say now, as they did then, that nothing ever came to the town that did more good in helping the feeling of good fellowship and friendship and pride for the city.

Now is the turn of Corvallis. We have the college armory for the concerts, the best room, I verily believe, in the state. It will seat 1,500 people. No one can now tell me that we shall not have at least as good singers as any of the other towns. The success of the chorus now in training is quite surprising. Albany has forty-five singers in training, Eugene about thirty-five. I do not yet know how many Salem intends sending up. Corvallis has had about 110 in the ranks the last two Tuesday evening sings. And there are yet more to come. No one is thinking of making a cent of profit out of the festival. No church or cause of any kind is to get anything out of it. The work (and there is plenty in sight) is being done for love, not money. Is Corvallis to fall behind her neighbors? The next thing is, what are we going to offer the people?

The time is May 14th, 15th and 16th. Place, the armory. Wednesday, the 14th, will be given a concert of chiefly instrumental music by the Portland Symphony Orchestra, the best on this coast. Thursday, the 15th, will be given Mendelssohn's Hymn of Praise and Rossini's Stabat Mater. Friday, the 16th, Handel's Messiah. The orchestra will be the same throughout. The soloists have not yet been finally chosen, but they will be the very best obtainable in this state. The chorus will be the singers now and for a long time past in training in the cities of the Association—Eugene, Albany, Salem and Corvallis—not less than 200 in number.

The affair will attract to Corvallis an audience of the best people within reach, who believe in enjoying the best music in the world, performed by lovers of it who are working, not for dollars, but to give their best services for the enjoyment and uplifting of the community. The tickets for the whole course of the three concerts are to cost $1.50, for each one concert sixty cents.

The expenses of the festival must be considerable, as singers and players have to come from Portland and Eugene and to be entertained. So, when the canvassers reach any readers of this paper, let it be understood that they also are working for the good of all, and be cheerfully greeted, and let them have a favorable answer to their modest question, "How many concert tickets can you see your way to pledge yourself to take for the May Festival?"

The committee must know beforehand what their resources are to be ere they make contracts with singers, players, railroads and advertising men. Therefore, this canvass is made now.

Brain-Food Nonsense.

Another ridiculous food fad has been branded by the most competent authority. They have dispelled the silly notion that one kind of food is needed for brain, another for muscles, and still another for bones. A correct diet will not only nourish a particular part of the body, but it will sustain every other part. Yet, however good your food may be, its nutriment is destroyed by indigestion or dyspepsia. You must prepare for their appearance or prevent their coming by taking regular doses of Green's August Flower, the favorite medicine of the healthy millions. A few doses aids digestion, stimulates the liver to healthy action, purifies the blood, and makes you feel buoyant and vigorous. You can get Dr. G. G. Green's reliable remedies at Graham & Wortham.

CHILDREN ESPECIALLY LIABLE.

Burns, bruises and cuts are extremely painful and if neglected often result in blood poisoning. Children are especially liable to such mishaps because not so careful. As a remedy DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is unequalled. Draws out the fire, stops the pain, soon heals the wound. Beware of counterfeits. Sure cures for piles.
