

To cover the cost of setting and distributing the type in such matters, a charge of fifty cents will be made for each "Card of Thanks," and five cents per line for each set of "Resolutions of Condolence" appearing in these columns.

LOCAL NEWS.

Born, June 17, 1902, in this city, to the wife of J. M. Cameron, a son.

Just arrived—new designs of wall paper, at Barnhart's. See them.

Dick Zahn arrived from his Alsea home, Tuesday, and reports everything quiet in his neighborhood.

S. Chipman arrived home, Tuesday, from a trip to Portland and Astoria on business connected with Masonry.

A great deal of wood and mohair is being brought to town now. The price at present paid for wool is 14 1/2 cents per pound.

Miss Henrietta Sutton, who visited the Misses Barnhart during the past week or ten days, returned to her home in Salem, Wednesday.

Services in the Episcopal church next Sunday as follows: Sunday School at 10 a. m.; morning prayer and sermon at 11 a. m.

C. MacLean, Ph. D., Rector.

Elmer Wills, the popular young cornetist who attended the O A C during the past school year, departed yesterday for his home in Heppner.

Mrs. E. J. Garrow and daughter, Miss Edna, and son, Theodore, departed yesterday for McCloud, Cal., where they will spend the summer. They will return to Corvallis in the fall.

Presbyterian church—services at 11 a. m. and 8:00 p. m., Sunday School at 10 a. m., Christian Endeavor at 7:00 p. m. You are cordially invited to attend all these services. ANDREW CARRICK, Pastor.

In about thirty days chittim bark will be brought to this city in vast quantities. Last year there were about twelve carloads shipped from this city to various parts of the globe.

Quite an unusual thing occurred last Sunday on the O A C farm. A hive of bees swarmed on one of the horses attached to the farm and killed the animal. Skilled attention could not save the animal's life.

John Bier has secured the contract to place a cement walk in front of the Hotel Corvallis for Mr. Swansen, the owner. Work will soon begin on the building, and the proprietor intends doing it by days labor, not contract.

Arthur Stimpson came up from Portland, Tuesday, to attend the closing exercises of the O A C. He is a graduate of this institution and at present is in the civil service ranks with headquarters in Portland.

Ernest Elliott, administrator of the estate of Eida J. Elliott, deceased, has filed his bond in the sum of $14,000, as by law required, with the National Surety Company as security. On application of said administrator the court ordered that Wm. Knotts, W. S. Locke and Albert Wilson be appointed appraisers of said estate.

W. E. Blake, who recently returned from Chicago, in speaking of various features of that city, stated that the new post-office building now in course of construction would be surmounted with a flag staff of Oregon fir. The staff is 75 feet long, without a knot, and cost $500.

It is now almost a certainty that Corvallis is to have another bank in the very near future. Mr. Lessee, a capitalist who established a bank at Toledo, Lincoln county, a year or two ago, has leased the lower northwest corner of the Hotel Corvallis, and will begin immediately to fit it up as a bank. It is said that the contract for building the vault has already been let.

The stone work on the walls of the Agricultural Hall now in course of construction at the O A C, was completed Monday. A few stone gables are to be finished yet, when the stone work will be done. Experienced men speak in the highest terms of Mr. Snook's work. They say that he is slighting nothing and everything must come up to the specifications, or better, if anything.

Otto F. L. Hesse, who recently arrived in this city from Nebraska, and who has been in charge of the job department of the Gazette since his arrival, has accepted a position in the college printing office with G. B. Keady. Mr. Keady made a wise selection when he chose Mr. Hesse, as the latter is a splendid all around printer and a hale fellow. We are well pleased to see him secure such a good position.

W. A. Sanders, Jeweler. Wall paper—new designs, at Barnhart's.

Misses Ivy Burton and Blanche Holden, of last year's graduating class, were present at commencement exercises, Wednesday.

The sound of the woodsaw can be heard in Corvallis again. The roads have arrived at a condition that will permit the farmer to bring wood to town.

J. D. Mann has made considerable improvements lately on his property in Job's Addition. His dwelling is now resplendent in a new dress of paint.

Dell Felton arrived in Corvallis, from Nashville, Lincoln county, Monday, with a load of wool. He is looking well and says that everything in his section is booming.

Dr. E. J. Thompson arrived on the boat, Tuesday evening, from Independence. He came up to visit with his former friends and to attend the commencement day exercises.

Miss Rova McFarland arrived last Saturday from her home near Albany and was the guest of Miss Bessie Michael until after commencement. Miss McFarland at one time was a student at the O A C.

The United Artisans, of Wells, will give an ice cream and strawberry social at their hall tomorrow evening. An interesting program has been arranged and a good time is assured. Refreshments will be served.

The water in the Willamette is now gradually falling and it is low only three feet above low water mark. The river steamers are still making their regular runs on schedule time, however, and will likely be able to for a while yet.

Mr. Swansen, who recently secured a clear title to the Hotel Corvallis, came up from Portland, Tuesday. The labor strike is credited with having conflicted with the gentleman's plans for improving his Corvallis property.

Asa Alexander, Corvallis' chief of police, departed by boat, Tuesday morning, for Vancouver, Washington, for a few days' visit with his mother. During his absence Dave Osburn wears the star and represents the peace and dignity of our city.

Carpenters, one and all, are complaining of the scarcity of suitable lumber for building. There is almost a famine of seasoned lumber for finishing purposes. As a result of this state of affairs mechanics are not finishing their contracts as rapidly as they hoped to.

Joe, the Turk, is to be the attraction at the Salvation Army hall tonight. He has an international reputation, having traveled through England, France, Greece and all over the United States. He wears a full Turkish costume, and plays the cornet, clarinet and saxophone. He will exhibit some photographs of the Armenian massacres.

The school election, District No. 9, was held in W. A. Buchanan's office in the court house last Monday. F. L. Miller was elected a director and Miles Starr clerk. The school board for the following year will be, Charley Hout, chairman of the board, Geo. E. Lilly and F. L. Miller, directors, and Miles Starr, clerk.

Miss Lula Spangler arrived home Sunday, from Weston, Oregon, where she had been in charge of the Department of Music in the state normal school. She was very successful with her work up there and will hold the same position next year. Her sister, Mrs. L. L. Porter, of Oregon City, has been visiting in this city during the past week.

A neat brochure, advertising Yaquina Bay on a small scale, has been gotten out by C. & E. and S. P. railroad companies, for the purpose of attracting visitors to this justly popular summer resort. Tickets are now on sale from all S. P. points through to Newport at reduced rates, and S. P. trains connect closely with those of the C. & E. at Albany and Corvallis.

On or about June 20th C. & E. trains will start from Detroit in the morning, meeting the Bay train at Albany at noon. Passengers for Detroit, Breitenbush and other mountain resorts, from S. P. points can leave the same afternoon without lay over at Albany, going through to Detroit that night. Tickets are on sale from Albany and Corvallis to Detroit at very low rates.

More than 600 loads of gravel were hauled and placed on the roads of this vicinity up to last Monday evening. The gravel was hauled from the bar across the river just above town. Late Monday afternoon the ferryboat sprung a leak and it was only by vigorous bailing that the work could be continued during the balance of the afternoon. Tuesday morning the boat was submerged in the water and the work of hauling had to be discontinued. The assistance of Fred Blumhart, an experienced ferryman, was secured and the boat repaired, when teams and men were again put at work. At one time nearly thirty teams were hauling gravel. This is graveling the roads at a very lively rate.

Miss Mabel Wamsly, of Blodgett, is visiting with Miss Mary Jones, and attending commencement exercises, in this city.

Miss Blanche Riddle returned to her Douglas county home, yesterday, after a visit of a week or longer in this city.

A large number of students took the boat, yesterday morning, for down-river points, going to their various homes.

Wallis Nash came over from Lincoln county, Tuesday to remain until the commencement exercises at O A C terminated.

Baptist church—Sunday school at ten, and preaching service at eleven, and eight o'clock, every Lord's Day. A hearty welcome for all.

Dr. E. J. Thompson came up from Independence, Wednesday, at the invitation of the faculty to assist on the program at the commencement exercises.

John Gault left yesterday for Hillsboro. After a brief visit there he will proceed to Heppner, Or., where he will be employed until college opens next fall.

Miss Ethel Price, of Kings Valley, and a former student of O A C, is visiting with her sister, Mrs. L. W. Oren, and attending the commencement exercises during this week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Crawford and daughters, Misses Lillian and Hazel, and Mrs. R. A. B. Veal attended the O A C commencement exercises last evening.—Albany Herald.

Miss Ida Ward, of Brownsville, sister of Frank Ward, of this city, has been visiting in this city since the beginning of the commencement exercises at O A C. She will return home tomorrow. Miss Ward was a member of the graduating class of '96.

The marriage of H. C. Mangus and Miss Helen Hunter, both of this city, was solemnized in Salem, last Wednesday. Both the bride and groom have many friends in this city who will be pleased to learn of their marriage and sincerely wish them the best of success in all of life's undertakings.

A delicious luncheon was given, Wednesday evening at the residence of Mrs. E. Woodward in honor of Misses Elsie and Cathleen Canfield. The young ladies have attended the O A C for the past three years and are very popular students. A number of guests were present at Mrs. Woodward's and the occasion was most enjoyable. Yesterday the young ladies left for their home in Lafayette, Oregon.

Married, Thursday, June 19th, at 11:30 a. m., at the residence of the bride's mother in this city, Mr. Ellsworth Erwin and Miss Maud Laughlin. After the ceremony, which was performed by Rev. Mrs. Humbert, the young couple left for Albany, Salem and Portland, where they will make short visits. On their return to Corvallis they will be at home in their new residence at the corner of 9th and Monroe streets.

The authorities at O A C are experimenting with silage. They are putting up two large silos of clover. One silo of clover is being put up whole, just as it comes from the mower, and the other is being chopped fine, like saur kraut, before it is placed in the tank. Steam is being used to cook the clover in one silo, and to accomplish this a pipe is run from a boiler and connected with the tank. Steam is kept up all night in order to thoroughly cook the feed. It is hoped that something of benefit will be discovered as the result of this experiment. A close watch is being maintained over the work in question and when the season for feeding arrives a record of the two silos will be kept so that there will be no doubt of the results of this experiment.

The senior class entertained their friends with the grand play, "Ingomar," at the Opera House, Tuesday evening. The undertaking was ambitious, but it was accomplished quite creditably. The play is exceedingly difficult, and those familiar with its requirements, were apprehensive of its success in the hands of wholly inexperienced players. While there was no attempt at use of the stage, in the sense of grouping the players and producing effects, the various characters read their lines most intelligently, and maintained their conception of their roles.

Mr. McGillivray was the "brilliant, particular star." A more finished performance, amateur or professional, is seldom seen in Corvallis, than Mr. McGillivray's portrayal of "Polydor." Miss Thompson, made an excellent "Parthenia." Her work at the close of the third act was one of the cleverest bits of the evening. Miss Ewing was acceptable as "Actea," and Mr. Stiewer made a creditable "Timarek." The remainder of the cast contributed to the success of the evening's entertainment. The costuming was beautiful and appropriate.

THIRTY-TWO GRADUATED.

Dr. Stephen Wise Delivered the Address to the Class, and Mrs. Walter Reed gave Two Vocal Numbers.

The people of Corvallis have not been surfeited with literary entertainment, but their ability to appreciate is still keen and they know the genuine from the imitation. This was proved by the deep interest taken in all that was said during the exercises Commencement morning, and the expressions of approval that followed meritorious efforts.

The exercises occurred in the large armory in the presence of a large audience of visitors and friends of the graduates. No pains had been spared to make the occasion a pleasant one. The stage was decorated with evergreens, ferns and potted plants. Above it were the words "Class of 1902," in the class colors. The railing of the gallery was concealed by boughs of fir, long pink streamers reached from the central arch to the four corners of the room, and baskets of choice flowers hung pendant from the great rafters.

Promptly at 10 o'clock the class entered the west entrance. Following them in order were the board of regents, ministers of the city, and members of the faculty. Marching up the aisle, they took their positions upon the stage.

The invocation by Dr. E. J. Thompson, of Independence, preceded the exercises.

The first number, a vocal chorus, added neither merit nor enjoyment to the program. It was unnecessary and should have been omitted.

Miss Gertrude Ewing, salutatorian, chose in her oration to treat upon "The Unification of the Anglo-Saxon Race." Miss Ewing is earnest and graceful in delivery. There was evidence of much care in the preparation of her composition. It contained much literary merit, and was pure in diction. While some of Miss Ewing's conclusions were open to debate, she treated her subject quite intelligently.

John E. Smith, Valetorian, is somewhat of a socialist himself. His oration, "The Gospel of Discontent," was the gospel of the pessimist; albeit, Mr. Smith had the optimism to treat it cheerfully. His paper was well written, and although the audience was impatient for the number which was to follow, he was given close attention.

Strangers present did not need to be told that Mrs. Walter Reed is a favorite with Corvallis audiences. When her number on the program was reached, she was loudly applauded before its announcement, and her appearance upon the platform was greeted with a storm of applause. Her interpretation is more that of inspiration than of art. Her voice is wonderfully pure and full throughout its entire compass; the lower tones rich as those of the saxophone; the upper register, soft and flute-like. The audience insisted upon an encore to the double number, "Berceuse" by Godard, and "Just A-Wearing for You," and Mrs. Reed kindly responded.

But there is music in oratory as well as in song, and it thrills the heart and delights the ear. Dr. Stephen S. Wise, who delivered the address to the class has the orator's soul. It is not enough to say that his effort was scholarly; that it was fitting, that it was able. It was more than this: It was manly; it was courageous; it came from the heart. His voice is deep and musical; his presence distinguished; his manner dignified. No class has ever left the Agricultural college more soundly advised or more wisely counseled than the class of 1902.

Dr. Wise said in part: The things of which you are most in need today, as you go forth to wage life's battles, are vision and character. As the Hebrew proverbialist has put it, "Where there is no vision the people perish." Men speak of the gift of vision. The term does not signify that vision is a gift, something fallen from the heights of heaven to the depths of earth. There is no gift in that sense. We must meet the gifts of God more than half way. The things of God are not to be had for the asking. Let your vision be your best gift to yourself, self-given, self-wrought, self-achieved. The want of vision fills the legal fraternity with pettifoggers instead of upholders and upbuilders of the law; the medical profession with quacks and charlatans instead of physicians and healers; the ministry with cunning priests and calculating bigots, instead of fearless prophets and preachers, wise, tolerant and unafraid; the arena of political life with shrewd and unprincipled politicians, instead of far-seeing and conscientious statesmen; the fields with worthless farmers instead of skilled agriculturists; the factories with hands instead of heads. The state educates you that you in turn may educate the state. The aim of the state is not to make men scholars, but scholars men. Formerly the scholar was the servant of the church; today the university and the church must serve the state, else the state cannot serve God. The first and greatest task to which you of the rising generation are to address yourselves is to cleanse and re-deem city, state and National politics, to discountenance and do battle against the jobberies and corruptions of political life, to speed the day when an election will not signify a choice between mere respectabilities or puerile mediocrities at the best, as between disreputabilities, as is not uncommon when men and parties shall stand for principles other than to the victor belongs the spoils. Vision must be crowned by character. The higher the vision the nobler must be the means to achieve the end in view. President Gatch is to be commended for his readiness to recognize and encourage local talent. No more artistic or popular instrumental number could have been added to Wednesday's program than the piano solo by Mordaunt Goodnough. Mrs. Reed chose him for her accompanist, and he acquitted himself admirably. His solo, "The Star Spangled Banner," by Troyes, makes most exacting demands upon technique and interpretation, yet Mr. Goodnough overcame every difficulty. The diplomas were presented to the 32 members of the class by Hon. Jas. K. Weatherford, president of the board of regents, and after another solo, "Shadows," by Mrs. Reed, President Gatch conferred the degrees. The benediction by Dr. Thompson closed the program.

Major Edwards took his cadets out during the past few days and indulged them in a couple of shooting contests. Saturday he took the Juniors out and they shot 100 and 200 yards offhand, standing, 300 yards kneeling, and 400 and 500 yards lying down. Out of a possible 125 points, Barnaugh made 96, which entitled him to first place; Gerking got second place on a score of 94. Barnaugh secured the class medal for his marksmanship and will be given the charge of a golden souvenir for the ensuing year.

Monday forenoon the intercollegiate contest took place on the James Hayes place a couple of miles west of town. The shooting was offhand at a distance of 200 yards and the contestants were allowed ten shots each. Out of a possible 600 points they made a total of 367, as follows: Mayfield..... 32 Paulson..... 36 Withycombe..... 38 Barnaugh..... 38 Gerking..... 35 Houston..... 41 Sorensen..... 37 Bower..... 38 Jordan..... 38 Wann..... 34

The excursion train bearing the delegates of the Supreme Lodge, A. O. U. W., arrived from Albany on the trip up the Valley at 2:30 Monday afternoon. Members of Corvallis lodge and many citizens met the delegates at the depot, and gave them hearty greeting. Beautiful bouquets of choice flowers were distributed among the visitors, who represent all sections of the United States. They were a merry company and expressed themselves as delighted with Oregon and the hospitality of her people.

A prominent figure was Webb McNeil, of Gaylor, Kansas, the newly elected Supreme Master of the order for the United States and Canada. He was the butt of much good-natured raillery on the part of his fellow lodgemen and ladies, but he was ever ready with a reply.

After a stay of 30 minutes, the party numbering about 1,000 left over the Westside for Portland.

Young Men's Clothes

Young men are apt to be very particular about their clothes; even a little fussy; cranky. It's all right; a good appearance means a lot to a young fellow sometimes; may even be his chief asset; it pays to look well.

We make a specialty of young men's clothes; styles that have snap and "go" in them; the ultra-fashions sought for by thousands of young men who cannot or will not pay the exclusive tailor's prices, and are smart enough to see that Hart Schaffner & Marx clothes are next best.

Go to almost any college town, where young men gather; where they find our own severest clothes-critics; you'll find Hart Schaffner & Marx "Varsity" and other young men's styles the ruling favorites. A better test of clothes-popularity is impossible.

Good clothiers everywhere sell these goods; they're as good clothes as they look. The label H S & M is a sign of genuineness. A small thing to look for, a big thing to find.
