Mr. and Mrs. S. Chipman left yesterday for a month's absence at Newport.

Is Jacobs left for Portland, Monday, after a couple of days' visit in this city.

J. K. Berry returned home yesterday, from a few days' recreation in the Alsea country.

Recorder T. T. Vincent went over to Kings Valley Saturday evening to spend Sunday with his family.

"Dog Days" made everybody in this section mad except the dogs—they seem to have stood the weather first-rate.

Mrs. John Smith and daughter, Miss Leona, went to Newport, last Friday, for a couple of weeks' recreation at the seashore.

Attorney J. O. Wilson left Saturday for Eugene and points south on legal business. He will be absent three or four days.

Mrs. Whiteford, mother of Mrs. S. T. Jeffries, died in Portland last week. She was well known in Corvallis, having at one time resided here.

Neil Newhouse intended to take his family over to Waterloo springs yesterday. With the exception of Mr. Newhouse, the family will remain there for an indefinite period.

J. E. Rising and Moses Miler, who have been visiting at their homes and peeling chittim bark, at Mt. View, expect to go to Portland today. They have been offered employment down there.

Norm Lilly intended to start his threshing outfit yesterday. He was to begin operations on the John Rickard place, south of town about four miles. Norm thinks he will have from three to four weeks' run.

Fred A. Edwards, who coached the Albany College football team last year, has been re-engaged to do the coaching this season. Fred gave Albany the best team last year that she ever had, and will probably do better this season.

W. A. Sanders expects to go to the coast with his family, this week for an outing of some duration. On their return to Corvallis, Mr. Sanders will go to Portland to seek a business opening and when he is satisfactorily located his family will join him.

The live stock report of the Union Stock Yards, of Portland, for last week show that F. Dinges and W. A. Gellatly had recently sent two carloads of cattle each to the above yards. George Brown also sent the yards some cattle.

C. Yoeman, lately from Chicago, is in Corvallis visiting Tom Langley. Mr. Yoeman is reported to be a very fine electrician and it is quite probable that he will make Portland his home, as he expects to go into business in that city. He has visited every state in the Union and shows a preference for Oregon.

Some time ago Logan Hays of this city was the victim of a bridge "smash up" in Lion county, in which he was thrown from the vehicle and received a sprained wrist and other bruises, and one of his driving horses broke its leg and had to be killed. All caused by a defective plank in a bridge about four miles east of this city. At the recent meeting of the county court for Linn county Mr. Hays was allowed $20 damages.

Men who are posted on hops declare that if the weather continues favorable picking will begin about two weeks earlier than usual this year. It is possible that picking may begin in the latter part of this month, a thing that has occurred but once in the last eleven years. It seems to be generally agreed in hop producing regions that the price paid for picking a 9-bushel box is to be 40 cents. Conspicuously displayed in this city is a sign which reads: "100 hop pickers wanted."

Corvallisites have been blessed with corn doctors during the past week. D. B. Irvine, now of Salem, was in Corvallis at this time and was trying his hands on corns and is reported to have been successful. A colored gentleman was here at the same time and was running a pretty opposition to Mr. Irvine. However, we have confidence enough in him to believe that D. B. will hold his own in any venture in which he may become involved. One old gentleman was made happy by one of these corn extractors. The old gentleman in question has been almost bedfast with corns and when they were removed he began prancing about like a youngster and wherever he went he exhibited a small paper sack full of corns.

Don Holgate came up from Portland, yesterday for a visit with relatives and friends. He will return to the metropolis tomorrow.

The residence that Wm. Cress is building on his property west of the college is rapidly nearing completion. It is quite a large and commodious building.

The college authorities have just finished the erection of a large new windmill in the field west of Cauthorn Hall. It is to replace the old mill that occupied the same site.

Mrs. Elsworth Cameron and three children went to Portland, last Friday to join Mr. Cameron. They expect to remain there permanently, as Mr. Cameron has a good position in the metropolis.

George Linderman began thrashing on Wm. Knotts' place Thursday afternoon, but his engine broke down after a half day's run, and the crew was laid off for a day or so while repairs were being made.

In a recent letter to his friend and classmate, Frank Ward, of this city, Clyde Williams, graduate of O. A. C., 1901, states that he is holding a position at present in the drug establishment of A. S. Locke, in Independence.

Mr. and Mrs. Gillespie, Miss Ella Ingraham and Bruce Burnett, who have been enjoying a two-weeks' outing in Alsea, returned home Saturday. The Baker-Gibson party, who have been camped near the same place, will be home today.

Doke Hughes was in Corvallis last week having a separator of a thrashing outfit overhauled and repaired. Mr. Hughes does not share the general opinion that the grain crop is as good as many think it is. He says his crop will not go over fifteen bushels of wheat per acre and he believes it is a fair sample from his section of the country.

The monuments for the graves of W. E. and Elda Elliott, who died last spring have arrived and will be put in position at once. The deceased brothers were both Woodmen and their monuments represent the Woodmen emblem, an oak stump. They are some four or five feet high and are most artistically engraved and fittingly inscribed.

Daniel Jory, of Blodgett, recently sold his 80-acre farm to Wm. F. K. Keller, a newcomer. The consideration was in the neighborhood of $700. Mr. Jory and wife expected to leave, yesterday, for Grants Pass, where they formerly resided. They sold out on account of Mr. Jory's ill health. Mr. Keller has already taken possession of his new home.

Mrs. E. A. Laws, who recently moved from this city to Portland to take up her residence has gone to England. In a recent letter to a Corvallis friend she stated that she would leave last Wednesday for London to reside permanently. Mrs. Laws made her home in Corvallis for many years and leaves a legion of friends here who wish her naught but happiness.

Ralph Watkins, who farms the Jesse Walker place, was in town last week and purchased a new wagon and a set of harness. It is said that no grain farmer in the state accomplishes more than he does when it comes to putting in grain. For the past three or four years he has been farming 300 acres and he does all of the work himself. He puts in from 150 to 200 of fall and spring grain and generally has about 300 acres of summer fallow.

The recent warm weather has played "hob" with dairy cows and this in turn has affected the Corvallis Creamery. The supply of milk and cream received at the creamery has greatly decreased. However, a rattling good business is still carried on at this establishment. Mr. Kaupisch says that as soon as cooler weather comes and we get a little rain the supply of milk and cream will increase and he expects to do a splendid business throughout the winter.

Speaking of the plans of the Eastern capitalists who intend running a railroad from Dallas to Falls City, and possibly on over to the Siletz, the Dallas Observer says: The members of the party were all emphatic in the declaration that they were thoroughly in earnest in the matter, and said that the work of construction would begin at once in order to have the road in operation before the wet weather sets in. Further than this they gave out no information as to their plans for the immediate future. The party left for Portland on the early train Saturday morning.

The State Agricultural Experiment Station has issued a bulletin on steaming silage that shows that the success of the early experiment are fully sustained by the later investigations. The value of silage as a food for all kinds of stock seems to be greatly increased by steaming. Experiments are being continued this year on a more elaborate scale and the station expects to give in a future bulletin the results from feeding steamed and raw ensilage to milk cows and other stock. It would seem from results so far obtained that this is likely to be one of the most important investigations the station has yet undertaken.—Junction City Times.

A. L. Wilbur, of Rockefeller, Ill. is interested in Benton county, and requests copies of the GAZETTE.

Darwin Nash, now of San Francisco, passed over to Nashville on Sunday's excursion train, to visit for a few days with his parents.

Prof. and Mrs. F. Berchtold, Mrs. J. H. Simpson and daughter, Merle, Mrs. H. W. Hall and Miss Eva Tucker went over to the coast yesterday.

The party consisting of Sheriff Burnett, Dr. Lester, T. Whitehorn and Robt. Johnson, who went to Belknap springs a couple of weeks ago, are expected home today or tomorrow.

O. Healey and Attorney C. E. Woodson were passengers to Newport on Monday's C. & E. Mr. Healey will return in about a week and Mrs. Healey will take his place at the seaside.

A. F. Peterson has completed the President Gatch residence on College Hill. The Barnhart brothers are at work painting and papering it and they expect to be through by the latter part of the week. Mr. Peterson and his workmen are now employed at the task of building a residence for Prof. Kniesly. This residence is to be on College Hill, not far from that of President Gatch.

R. S. Bryson and wife, of Pendleton, passed through Portland, Thursday, en route to Eugene, where Mrs. Bryson's brother, Chas. Griffin, is dangerously ill. Mr. Griffin is suffering from a severe attack of rheumatic inflammation, both legs being in a serious condition. He was a member of Company C, Second Oregon, United States Volunteers, and is well known throughout the Willamette Valley.

The Scott-Buchanan Bareinger crew threshed 100 acres of wheat for Tyra Smith last week, and that gentleman is loud in his praise of the manner in which the job was done. Mr. Smith has had 25 years experience in threshing grain and he knows something about that kind of work, but he says he never did as good a job of threshing for himself as these boys did for him last week. Their machine is a "Cyclone," with all the latest improvements. The 100 acres yielded something over 2,000 bushels, and about a day was consumed in threshing it.

The party of Corvallisites who left about ten days ago under the guidance of J. Wraga and H. S. Clodfelter for Klamath Co., Oregon, in search of timber land claims arrived home last Friday. There was eight in the party and they all, with one exception, filed on claims. The timber belt that they visited lays about 100 miles east of Ashland and the party secured a private conveyance at the latter place and drove to the timbered region. It is in the Lakeview district and the party were obliged to proceed to Klamath Falls to make their filings. Messrs. Wraga and Clodfelter are arranging to start back shortly with another party of Corvallisites who desire to secure timber claims.

Thursday, T. T. Barnhart arrived home from Bremerton, Wash., where he has been for the past two or three months. While up there he held a good position in the government navy yard at that place and could have held his situation as long as he chose, but while he would always have been retained he was liable at any time to be laid off for awhile on account of scarcity of work and he decided to take no chances. Again, while he received good wages, the cost of living was so high that he could not lay aside much, and his family being here, he decided to quit the premises and come home. He thought at one time that he would move his family to Bremerton, but the knowledge that a lay-off might show up at any time deterred him from this step.

While in Eugene last week, R. M. Cramer informed the Guard that his company contemplates opening a branch house in Eugene for the distribution of their buggies, carriages, wagons and organs, a large number of which they have sold in Lane county since they began operations about a year ago. He said that the company will probably erect a building of their own there as a large building is necessary for their use and such a one cannot be rented. In speaking of his company's plant, Mr. Cramer said that at present they employ about twenty men but that next year they intend to double the capacity of the factory and employ over 50 men.

The Ministers Hiked.

Numerous former Oregonians were in the shake-up caused by earthquakes in Southern California recently. In a letter to the GAZETTE, U. B. Vogle says the San Francisco and Los Angeles papers greatly exaggerated the damage done at Lompoc and neighboring towns.

The Hotel Arthur, owned by Harry Rudolph, formerly of Marion county, was slightly damaged, the west wall being thrown about six inches out of plumb. R. J. Lamor, late of Grants Pass, who is engaged in the grocery business at Lompoc sustained some loss. Other Oregonians at Lompoc are Mr. Vogle, the Cummings, Grahams, Webbs and Harrises.

"Today is Sunday," writes Mr. Vogle, "and from the churches I hear them singing, 'How Firm a Foundation.' It is amusing to know that all the ministers left town during the shake-up. But one remained, and that was Rev. Father Mathews. I saw one minister going north on a bike, and I couldn't see his coat tail for dust. Another never stopped until he got to Missouri."

"The quake is all over now, and many who went away have returned. Los Alamos, 18 miles east of here was destroyed. Tops of mountains toppled over, and clouds of dust could be seen for miles."

Stepped on a Nail.

J. A. Archibald, of Philomath, who is a traveling salesman for the Blaesing Granite Company of Portland, came to Corvallis late Friday evening from Philomath. He was after some drugs for the relief of his six-year-old son, who recently stepped on a rusty nail.

Some few weeks ago the little boy had a very bad "stone bruise" on his foot and suffered a great deal. His mother, hoping to give the little sufferer relief, undertook to open the bruised place with a needle. The needle caused the boy to twitch during the operation and in some manner Mrs. Archibald stuck the needle into her thumb. She had a very serious time as a result. The thumb was so swollen and inflamed at one time that it was quite a serious proposition.

Just as mother and son were recovering from their joint sufferings the little fellow stepped on a rusty up-turned nail. At one time his condition was most serious, indeed, and it took a great deal of care and skill to ward off blood poisoning. However, the little fellow is much better at present and no serious results are expected now.

Was Highly Satisfactory.

The new bridge across Marys river at this city is completed and has been accepted by the county court. The members of the court visited the bridge during the time of their last session, and after a careful inspection, congratulated Contractor W. H. Millhollen upon the excellent manner in which the work had been done, and the fact that the bridge had been completed in so short a time. Mr. Millhollen employed a crew of from three to five men, and completed the bridge in 9 1/2 days less time than was required to build the one which it replaced. Travel was stopped a little over three hours while the change was being made from the temporary to the permanent structure.

The bridge is 530 feet in length, and 88,000 feet of lumber was consumed in building it. Its cost was about $1,350.

The temporary bridge has been dismantled. A portion of the lumber from it will be used in the construction of two small bridges on the road to Crystal Lake cemetery, and the remainder will be sold at public auction at the bridge tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock.

An Efficient Supervisor.

Kings Valley, Aug. 9, 1902. Editor GAZETTE:—

I have observed that the newspapers have been making special mention of the road work being done in various road districts of this county, and giving complimentary notice of the efforts of the supervisors in these districts. This is proper and right. It encourages those who have tried to do their duty, and stimulates others to make as good a showing.

While on this subject, I wish to say a few words in regard to the splendid results attained in this district by Supervisor J. S. Miller. "Uncle Johnny" has 25 miles of road to place in condition for travel, and I feel safe in saying that no supervisor in this county has accomplished better results for the amount of money expended, than has "Uncle Johnny" Miller.

Yours truly, TANPAVER.

Where's the Buckskin?

In its recent issue the Homestead, under the caption of "Strayed or Stolen," states that its stable is minus a buckskin mare. It leaves an impression that maybe we've got it among us somewhere. Here is what it says:

The Homestead is out a buckskin mare and saddle. It was last in the possession of a man calling himself N. H. Parker, about 5 feet 11 inches, dark complexion, smooth shaven, large nose. Talks with English accent. Is a Canadian. The mare is probably in Linp, Lane, or Benton county, Oregon. If you have heard of her, please notify this office, by telephone, telegraph or letter.

Following is about the description: Buckskin mare, weight about 950; dark mane and tail, roached foretop; dark stripe along back; cut on one ear; plate shoes all around. The saddle is old, but has a new cinch. Also leather saddle bags, new.

The Biggest Ever.

The excursion to Newport Sunday was probably the largest ever run to that resort, being larger even than the big Macca-bee excursion of a couple of years ago. One thousand persons took advantage of the liberal rates offered and Sundayed on the beach. The first section of eight cars passed through Corvallis about 7:45 a. m., and it was followed two hours later by a train of nine coaches. It was 2 p. m. before the last barge load reached Newport.

On the return trip the first section reached Corvallis at 10 p. m. and it was midnight before the last train reached this city. Eighty-four tickets were sold here, 92 came on the S. P. from McMinnville and points south, and the remainder came from Albany, Salem, Eugene and way stations.

It is probable that other like excursions will be run this season, as this initial venture was so successful.

Hotel Corvallis Improvements.

The room in the Hotel Corvallis building, to be occupied by the new bank, is now completed and only awaits the new furniture, which will arrive shortly, when its doors will be opened for business. Cashier Wilkinson has arrived with his family and occupies the residence on 9th street formerly owned by Mrs. Hadley.

The contract for laying the cement walks along the north and west sides of the hotel building has been let to an Albany firm and the work of laying it will begin shortly. The two rooms on the ground floor, facing west, will be fitted up for store rooms immediately. R. A. Bowman has charge of the papering of the various rooms, and he is doing artistic work. The walls and ceiling in the bank look especially attractive.
