

Submit New Proposition.

As stated in our last issue, the local water company submitted a new proposition, for supplying the city with water, to the council at the meeting Monday night.

Mr. Smyth, representing Portland capital, was not present nor was an amended ordinance offered by these people.

The ordinance submitted by Mr. Farra provides that the privilege be granted his company, for and during 40 years (subject to the right of purchase by the city at the expiration of ten years after the granting of the franchise and every five years thereafter) to operate a system of water works in this city.

The system of water works shall consist of what is known as direct and reservoir pressure. The water to be supplied shall be taken from a running stream of pure mountain water, from Rock or Woods creeks, or both, at a point above all sawmills or other objectionable influences.

Sufficient pipes of suitable size shall be laid to supply water to reach all actual consumers, and such necessary mains to supply all hydrants now located by the city and hereafter to be put in by the water company.

Mains are to be put not less than four inches in size, and sufficient to at all times throw from any hydrant, through fifty feet of hose and a 1 1/2 inch nozzle, a stream of water to a height not less than seventy feet.

The city is to pay the water company $65 per month for all fire hydrants (27 in number), sewer flushing, street sprinkling, filling of cisterns, and for use in and about City Hall.

The following rates to consumers of water, or such other rates as may be established by the water company and approved by the council, are to be charged:

For family use for dwelling and family per month, 75 cents. For one bath tub in residence, 25 cents.

For one water closet in residence per month, 50 cents. Or, when desired, a charge of $1.50 per month for residence with ten persons or less.

The water company shall make such rules and regulations governing the service of water to private consumers, as may be proper and expedient, and enforce their observance after approval by the city.

The water company is to file its acceptance, if it sees fit to do so, of the terms and conditions of this ordinance with the police judge within 90 days from its passage.

Work of furnishing the water supply, provided in this ordinance, shall commence within six months after its acceptance, and shall be completed within 18 months thereafter.

A bond of $5,000 is to be given by the water company, for full and faithful performance.

Long Trip on $40.

Not long ago B. B. Barker, a nephew of Mrs. E. Allen of this city, visited Corvallis. He is now practicing law in Chicago, and from what he has accomplished it is but reasonable to conclude that he will be a success. After his course at Willamette University he went to Harvard. He and his chum, W. J. Shepard, concluded that they would like to spend one of their vacations in England and Scotland, and although they had but $40 each, they realized their desire. They hired out as stock tenders on a cattle ship and got their transportation both ways and $10 cash, each, for their services. They were in England and Scotland forty-two days and covered about 1,200 miles on their bicycles. Quite a write-up of the young men and their trip appeared in the Oregonian a few days ago, of which the following is an extract:

That new two Salem young men, toured England and Scotland and returned with the expenditure of only $40 each, shows what an American boy can do in the way of travel if he will exercise Yankee ingenuity and economy. These two young men, B. B. Barker and W. J. Shepard, were for a number of years students at Willamette University, and are well known to a large body of the college boys of Oregon. As a supplement to their extensive studies in history, literature and economics, they desired to spend their vacation in the land in which English history was made and the best of English literature was written. But they were both young men who had no fortunes at their command, so were compelled to devise means of traveling at much less than the usual cost. With true Western spirit they decided that "roughing it" would enable them to get the most out of their limited supply of money at the end of a school year, and they began their travels on that plan.

The New Industry.

Notwithstanding the fact that this fall was a very dry one, necessarily making feed for milk cows a little short, business at the Corvallis Creamery is unusually good. On an average there is about 550 pounds of butter made per day. About the same quantity is made at the branch creamery at Halsey. W. H. Kaupisch is at Halsey the greater part of the time. His father says that he spends seven days of the week at Halsey and two days in Corvallis. It is almost surprising the way our farmers and dairymen have supported the Corvallis Creamery. It shows that this industry is beneficial for dairymen and creamery alike. Many tons of butter have been shipped from this city during the past year and thousands of dollars have been brought to Corvallis in this way.

It is not saying too much to state that every man who has engaged in dairying, and given it care and attention, using the same judgment that would be required to make a success of any other business, has succeeded in securing for himself a good living and in many instances has been able to lay aside some money. In all probability as time goes by a far greater number will engage in this industry.

Not many years ago an "old timer" would have informed a person that this was not an ideal dairy country, and among other things, would have stated that clover would not do well here. These ideas have both been exploded. The country is as good a dairy region as can be found in almost any state, and clover that is grown in Benton county is as good as that produced in any section. Great results are expected of the dairying industry in Benton county.

Revetment Completed.

During the past summer the work of putting in a revetment on the Willamette river a mile or two above this city was undertaken. Engineer Ogden made a trip or two to Corvallis about the time the work was started, but later on the construction of the revetment was placed in charge of Engineer M. E. Dunn. Mr. Dunn and his men completed the work Wednesday, and yesterday Mr. Dunn took his departure for Oswego. The latter has proved himself a capable man at his business and a courteous gentleman as well. During his short sojourn in this city he made many friends.

The revetment work cost the government about $3,200. There were 650 yards of rock and 900 cords of fascines used in the construction of this work. At one time there were thirty-five men employed—this was in September. Those who are competent to judge work of this character declare that everything about the revetment has been most substantially done. In connection with this matter, it may be fitting to state that it is reported the Mathlona, the government snag boat, will do considerable work on the Upper Willamette during the coming winter.
