

PAPERS BY THE PEOPLE

LEADING SINS OF SOCIETY.

By Rev. Dr. Wm. R. Huntington, of New York.

DR. HUNTINGTON.

What are these stories we hear about the spread of an uncontrollable passion for gambling? Is it possible that there are leaders of society in all the chief cities of the country who lend their countenance to forms of amusements that are against the very law of the land? What avails crusades in our leading cities against pool rooms and policy shops, if behind doors which no detective ventures to pass such things as these go on? In our modern society there is need of the spirit of discipline. If not, what is to become of society?

With Sunday lapsing into a mere tradition; with the day which a New England mystic; not over friendly to Christianity, made bold to call the "backbone of our civilization" turned by common consent from a holy day to a holiday; with marriage, the corner stone of the family life—which in its turn is the corner stone of the state—with holy wedlock generating into a mere fast and loose contract and with love of pleasure so omnipresent and omnipotent as to have obliterated the very landmarks of decency, who shall say that the call for a revival of the spirit of discipline is ill-timed? You may start at my speaking of the social life of our great cities as calling for renewal. But it is so.

THIS A DAY OF GREAT OPPORTUNITIES.

By G. W. Perkins, J. P. Morgan's Right Bower.

G. W. PERKINS.

I am interested in young America, and I like to see our boys push ahead and come to the front. There are days full of opportunities. All that a young man who has brains and health need to do is to take advantage of the chances offered. Nor are the opportunities limited to any one line or occupation. They are found in every direction. It is more and more true, however, that a boy must fit himself for some speciality. Therefore, he must find out as soon as he can what he is specially adapted for and pitch into it. Too many young men in this country don't want to work hard. They prefer to stay up late at night and lie abed too long in the morning. They never get ahead in that way. Times and conditions may change, but the old rule remains that there is no success without everlastingly keeping at it.

SHORTCOMINGS OF MEDICINE.

By W. S. Christopher, M. D., University of Illinois.

W. S. CHRISTOPHER.

The medical man of to-day combats the same diseases, which his professional forefathers faced a century ago, but he enters the contest better armed, and so has more successes and fewer defeats. But the medical man a century hence will still face the same diseases that are fought to-day, and his armamentarium will be still better. Hence there must be loopholes in the medical knowledge of to-day. There certainly are many and serious ones which earnest effort is striving to close. What are they? A mere attempt at enumeration would occupy more space than is placed at my disposal. First come the great problems of heredity. Many obscure nervous diseases, of which Friedrich's ataxia is a type, show by their recurrence in several generations of the same family that they are hereditary, but why they are hereditary is utterly unknown. To what extent tuberculosis is subject to hereditary influences is still in dispute. Equally with his endowment of life by heredity each one bears from the same source a tendency to a certain mode of death. Some things of this nature are known, but not enough. Even a satisfactory classification of the tendencies themselves is not at hand. Next to heredity the problems of nutrition are to be noted, and these are not comprised entirely in foods and their digestion. What becomes of the food after its digestion and absorption? The liver takes care of some of it, but what it does in this direction physiologists have not yet been able to determine as fully as could be desired. Then certain so-called ductless glands act upon the blood in a way to influence nutrition. Nutritional abnormalities result in numerous forms of self-poisoning, both acute and chronic, of whose nature we need much fuller knowledge. When will the last word be said on diabetes, which is one of these self-poisonings? Infections show in many ways the incompleteness of our knowledge. The specific germs are known for tuberculosis, pneumonia, malaria, diphtheria, and some other infections. But the specific organisms are not known which produce smallpox, chicken pox, measles or scarlet fever. It is not yet known why the great remedy for diphtheria, antitoxin, fails so often to prevent one of the great dangers of the disease, post-diphtheritic paralysis. This barely touches upon the many medical problems crying for solution, and whose solution would not only amplify the conception of disease but would aid diagnosis and enrich therapy.

DIVORCE DOESN'T LOWER THE MORAL STANDARD.

By Elizabeth Cady Stanton.

MRS. STANTON.

The frequent demands for divorce simply mean that we have not yet reached the ideal marriage state. Divorce is a challenge to our present system. Evolution has been the law of life. The relation of the sexes passed through many phases and is likely to pass through many more. I would recommend every rational man and woman thinking and writing on the subject of divorce to run through their life experience, summon up all the divorced people they know, gauge their moral status and, if possible, the influence of their lives as writers, speakers, artists and philanthropists and see if they do not compare favorably with the best men and women of their acquaintance. In my own circle of friends I can recall at most two dozen—all as good, moral and refined men and women as I ever knew. But few of the women married again, and those who had been exceptionally happy in their new relations. The rapidly increasing number of divorces so far from showing a lower state of morals proves exactly the reverse. Woman is in a transition period from slavery to freedom, and she will not accept the conditions in married life that she has heretofore meekly endured.

When the mother, with her steadfast love of home and children, demands release, we may rest assured her reasons for surrendering the tie are sufficient to herself and should be to society at large.

NEED OF WOMEN JURORS.

By Wu Ting Fang, Chinese Minister at Washington.

WU TING FANG.

I want to enter a strong plea for the admittance of women on the juries of the various law courts of the country. The disadvantage of the present system was brought home to me at a trial in which a woman was placed on trial charged with murder. This woman was, I believe from the evidence produced at the trial, guilty of the crime which was brought against her. Nevertheless because she had the advantage of eminent counsel and because she was young and beautiful she was allowed to go "scot free." A woman told me that she would have rendered an entirely different verdict. I think that when a woman is placed on a jury at least the jury should be wholly composed of women. Let each sex try and convict the members of its own sex. I would like to warn women who enter a profession against the evil of becoming unsexed. Retain your charms, retain your gentleness and remember that, although you have a profession, you are still a woman.

Wanted Another Wife.

A traveler in Persia tells the following: "My hunchi walks into the veranda. He is an aged man, wrapped in a long black cloak and wearing a green turban, denoting a seyd, or a descendant of the prophet. He is very polished to-day; his beard is dyed the brightest orange with henna and he tells a string of beads while he waits. We plunge into stories of the Caliph and dictation written from left to right with a reed pen and presently the reason of his smartness is told. He has a favor to ask. Would it please me to advance him three months' pay in order to buy a wife? He is old and he is poor, yet he has fallen a victim to the moon face and stag eyes of a damsel of 14, but her dowry is large. 'Why do you not support your old wife?' I inquired sternly. 'She is crippled and nearly blind; you do not give her sufficient sustenance and I send many things to her.' 'She is too old,' he replies, with a shrug. 'She is ugly as an fret,' added thereto she has no money nor children and of what good is an old woman unless she is rich?'

Medicine in Bombay.

A Swedish consul at Bombay says that "because of their fear of sanitary inspection and modern methods of preventing and curing disease the natives of India in vast numbers are the victims of plague. In consequence of the hatred and fear of hospitals and medical men the population of Bombay has decreased 40,000 in the last ten years, while the increase in the whole of India in the same time was about 15 per cent. Bombay now has 700,000 people. The hospital and general medical service in India are of the best and do much good in the affected districts in spite of the prejudice which prevails against such things. The plague is generally fatal without the most skillful medical attention. The natives in their ignorance seek only to be left to die in peace. The ancient traditions of the country are extremely difficult, almost impossible, to eradicate."

A Wonderful Ray of Light.

Albert Nodon reports to the French Academy of Science his discovery of a hitherto unknown form of radiation analogous to the X-rays and the rays from the metal radium, but differing from them in striking particulars. When rays of light fall on a thin metal plate the newly discovered invisible rays are found to emanate from the back of the plate, as if the plate sifted out part of the rays and let others through.

Charging Women Less than Men.

At the old-fashioned restaurants in Sweden it is customary to charge less for women than for men on the theory that they do not eat so much. At some hotels in Sweden a man and a wife are charged as one and one-half persons if they occupy the same room. A husband and wife may travel as one and one-half persons by railway, and also by the post routes, furnishing their own carriage.

GOVERNOR OF OREGON

Uses Pe-ru-na in His Family For Colds and Grip

CAPITOL BUILDING, SALEM, OREGON.

A Letter From the Executive Office of Oregon.

Peruna is known from the Atlantic to the Pacific. Letters of congratulation and commendation testifying to the merits of Pe-ru-na as a catarrh remedy are pouring in from every state in the union. Dr. Hartman is receiving hundreds of such letters daily. All classes write these letters, from the highest to the lowest. The outdoor laborer, the indoor artisan, the clerk, the editor, the statesman, the preacher—all agree that Pe-ru-na is the catarrh remedy of the age. The stage and rostrum, recognizing catarrh as their greatest enemy, are especially enthusiastic in their praise and testimony. Any man who wishes perfect health must be entirely free from catarrh. Catarrh is well nigh universal; almost omnipresent. Pe-ru-na is the only absolute safeguard known. A cold is the beginning of catarrh. To prevent colds, to cure colds, is to cheat catarrh out of its victims. Pe-ru-na not only cures catarrh, but prevents. Every household should be supplied with this great remedy for coughs, colds and so forth. The governor of Oregon is an ardent admirer of Pe-ru-na. He keeps it continually in the house. In a recent letter to Dr. Hartman he says: State of Oregon, Executive Department, Salem, May 9, 1898. Dear Sirs—I have had occasion to use your Pe-ru-na medicine in my family for colds and it proved to be an excellent remedy. I have not had occasion to use it for other ailments. Yours very truly, W. M. Lord. It will be noticed that the governor says he has not had occasion to use Pe-ru-na for other ailments. The reason for this is, most other ailments begin with a cold. Using Pe-ru-na to promptly cure colds, he protects his family against other ailments. This is exactly what every other family in the United States should do. Keep Pe-ru-na in the house. Use it for coughs, colds, la grippe, and other climatic affections of winter, and there will be no other ailments in the house. Such families should provide themselves with a copy of Dr. Hartman's free book, entitled "Winter Catarrh." Address Dr. Hartman, Columbus, Ohio.

The Remark was Ambiguous. "That young man has a brilliant future before him," said the phenologist.

And the little Boston boy who was having his bumps examined polished his spectacles and exclaimed: "Pardon me, but you open up a very interesting field of inquiry. Where else could my future be if it were not before me?"

Genuine Philosopher. "Craps all burnt to flinders?" "Yes."

"No rain in sight?" "Not a drop."

"Totally ruint, ain't you?" "Totally!"

"Well, what air you a-smilin' over?" "I'm smilin' at the prospect of the sheriff comin' to levy on nothin'!" Atlanta Constitution.

Parents' Responsibility Great. It is the right of every child to be well born, and to the parents it must look for health and happiness. How inconceivably great is the parents' responsibility, and how important that no taint of disease is left in the blood to be transmitted to the helpless child, entailing the most pitiable suffering, and marking its little body with offensive sores and eruptions, catarrh of the nose and throat, weak eyes, glandular swellings, brittle bones, white swelling and deformity.

How can parents look upon such little sufferers and not reproach themselves for bringing so much misery into the world? If you have any disease lurking in your system, how can you expect well developed, healthy children? Cleanse your own blood and build up your health, and you have not only enlarged your capacity for the enjoyment of the pleasures of life, but have discharged a duty all parents owe to posterity, and made mankind healthier and happier.

There is no remedy that so surely reaches deep-seated, stubborn blood troubles as S. S. S. It searches out even hereditary poisons, and removes every taint from the blood, and builds up the general health. If weaklings are growing up around you, right the wrong by putting them on a course of S. S. S. at once. It is a purely vegetable medicine, harmless in its effects, and can be taken by both old and young without fear of any bad results. Write us about your case, and let our physicians advise and help you. This will cost you nothing, and we will also send our book on blood and skin diseases.

Better Than Home Canned. Some people think that the only really good canned peaches, apricots, cherries and the rest are the ones which are canned at home. The reason these people think this is that they have never tried Monopole canned peaches and apricots and cherries. If you will buy a can from your grocer and don't think they are even better than your mother ever put up, we'll not have another word to say to you about Monopole. If your grocer doesn't handle Monopole groceries send us his name. Wadhams & Kerr Bros., Portland.

Dividing the Blame. "I see it stated that the Alps have cost 301 lives in the past ten years." "Yet it doesn't seem quite right to put all the blame directly on the Alps." "Why not?" "Don't you think most of them were killed by the climber?"

A California Machine that Cuts and Threshes 100 Acres a Day. Among the products of California, says the American Monthly, is a combined automobile harvester and threshing machine, which has been at work on the Pacific slope, doing its part toward garnering the great crops of 1902. This harvester includes and is propelled by an automobile having a 30-horse power engine. The reaper cuts

CALIFORNIA AUTOMOBILE HARVESTER.

Its denomination is 13 cents; Benjamin Harrison occupies the center of the field. This will be the first 13-cent stamp ever issued by the United States; up to 1870 a stamp of the value of 7 cents had been in use ten years, but was discontinued when the rate of foreign postage was reduced to 5 cents. The new Harrison stamp will be little used in domestic mails. Its issuance is the outgrowth of the increased foreign registrations; it will cover the postage and registration fee upon a letter weighing one-half ounce anywhere within the limits of the Postal Union, which now includes practically all the organized nations of the world. Stamp experts who have examined the drawing for the new stamp say it will be one of the finest specimens of a postage stamp ever produced, not excepting the famous Columbian series and the Pan-American set. In addition to the usual "United States of America" and "Postage Thirteen Cents," the inscription "Series of 1902," together with "Harrison" and figures giving the date of his birth and death, appears upon the design. The portrait was selected by Mrs. Harrison and is said to have been the late President's favorite. When the Postoffice Department ordered this new series it asked the Treasury Department that special efforts be made to provide stamps that should be not only distinctive, but indicative of the progress in the engraver's art in which the United States has become famous. The Bureau of Engraving and Printing has entered into the spirit of the occasion and will produce the best work of which it is capable.

When the 13-cent stamp is issued there will be only three eligible ex-presidents who have not been honored with a place in the postal gallery of the nation, during the last forty years—Johnson, Hayes and Arthur. No living ex-President is, of course, eligible. President McKinley's portrait now appears on the new postal cards. It is understood that later a change will be made, and that his likeness will be placed on one of the principal denominations.

THIRTEEN-CENT STAMP.

The First Ever Issued Will Soon Be Placed on Sale. As soon as the die-proof of the first of the new series of United States postage stamps is approved by the Postmaster General plates will be made and the stamp issued to the public.
