Last Tuesday evening, the Junior Endeavor Society of the Baptist church had a social gathering at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Healy. Music, games, conversation and refreshments were the features. The Adams Bros. furnished the music. A most enjoyable evening is reported.

The Occidental hotel has long been the most popular caravansary in this city. The tables are always supplied with the best the market affords, and rates are most reasonable. The building is large and commodious, and its many rooms are well furnished and supplied with all modern conveniences.

Wednesday morning, the team attached to the milk wagon of C. H. Vehrs took a spin down Main street. They passed along the street, going south, until somebody at the corner by Horning's grocery attempted to stop them, when they turned down the street toward the river. They passed south along River street for a block and turned toward Main street. When they came out by R. M. Wade & Co.'s some party succeeded in checking the animals and they stopped of their own accord near the furniture factory. Luckily no damage was done, but it is reported that butter had been churned in a few of the cream cans. Butter brings a good price, regardless of how it was churned.

Usual services every Lord's Day at the Baptist church at the usual hours. Hearty welcome for all.

FRANK L. MOORE, Pastor.

Father Jurek left, Tuesday, for Pe Ell, Wash. This is in the South Bend country. There are a number of Catholic missions in that section and Father Jurek is to be in charge of that diocese. He will have a number of priests as assistants under him. He was in charge of the local pastorate for a number of years and during this time gained the respect and esteem of all who knew him. He was a true gentleman and a scholar as well and many friends in this city hope for his success in his new field. For the present Father Bucher, of Siletz, will occupy the pulpit in the Catholic church of this city twice a month. The latter father has been in Corvallis during the week.

Tuesday, Miss Delphina Haesel returned to her home at Monroe. She begins teaching school in that section a week from Monday.

Ed Starr, who has been a resident of Ashland for several months, returned to Corvallis this week, satisfied to remain in this section of the valley.

S. N. Wilkins returned, Tuesday, from a trip to Portland and way points. He attended the funeral of the late Congressman Tongue at Hillsboro, Sunday.

Joseph Garrow returned to Corvallis, Monday, after a visit of some duration with relatives in Salem. His wife is expected to return from Salem within a day or two.

The special meetings at the United Evangelical church will continue throughout next week. The pastor, H. A. Deck, will have charge of the meetings. Everybody is invited.

Mrs. A. C. Tunnison leaves this afternoon for Blodgett, where she will take charge of the boarding house for the men employed in getting out a large contract of piling at that place.

Rev. G. S. O. Humbert will preach at the Christian church next Lord's Day. Subject at 11 a. m., "The Children;" at 7:30 p. m., "The Expectant Attitude of Christ." Students and strangers are welcome.

It looks as though Corvallis would send a very small chorus to Eugene next May to assist in the musical festival that will occur there at that time. From present indications it would not be surprising if the local chorus gave up the matter, as there seems to be no interest or enthusiasm in regard to the festival. Great efforts have been made, but despite what has been done it seems almost impossible to get singers to attend rehearsals. The leaders have become so discouraged over the outlook that we are informed they are on the verge of throwing the proposition up. This would be too bad, and it is suggested that they make another attempt, and let everybody work in harmony in order that matters musical in the valley may not lapse.

J. M. Cameron has purchased the harness shop of Mack Hemphill. George Richardson, who represents a large wholesale leather house, happened to be in Corvallis and was secured to invoice the stock. Mr. Cameron intends to make this shop up-to-date in every particular and his brother, Amy, or son, Tommy, will be put in charge of the new shop. The same care will be exercised in attending the needs of patrons and only first-class stock will be used in the work turned out. Mr. Hemphill has not yet fully determined what he will do in the future, but it is possible that he may leave next week to accept a position with the Northern Pacific Co. Mack has had a great deal of experience as a railway agent for Wells, Fargo & Co., and can always secure a position of this character.

All who heard Miss Sophie Wolf's recital in this city something over a year ago, will be pleased to learn that she will appear here again, Friday evening, January 30, in the college chapel under the auspices of the Y. W. C. A. Miss Wolf has arranged as an original and interesting story the account given by Lewis and Clark of their journey to Oregon. This is illustrated with 80 stereoscopic views. A feature is the personation of characters by Miss Wolf, from Oregon's legend, "The Bridge of the Gods." Admission 25 cents.

Senator Daly is the father of a bill introduced in the legislature to amend the charter of Corvallis. It is on the calendar for its third reading.

James Flett is having a new foundation placed under his building, just in the rear of the First National Bank, and new rustic placed on the sides. A. E. Peterson has the contract.

The Maccabees of Corvallis are to have a band. At a meeting held Wednesday night, steps were taken to organize, and about fifteen names were enrolled. W. T. Nichols, of Dusty, has been engaged as director.

Leon D. Green, phrenologist and physiognomist, began his series of lectures at the Opera House last night. Tonight and tomorrow night will complete the course. All interested in the study of "Human Nature," will enjoy hearing Mr. Green. The admission is free.

C. H. Vehrs is now proprietor of the O. K. Dairy. He purchased this property from J. D. Hukill, Wednesday, and will consolidate it with the Corvallis Dairy. This purchase increases Mr. Vehrs' herd of first-class dairy cows to 80, and that gentleman says he is better prepared than ever to serve the people of Corvallis with a superior quality of milk and cream.

The contest, which will in all probability decide the intercollegiate basketball championship of Oregon this season, will be played at the college armory tonight. The contesting teams represent Willamette University and the Oregon Agricultural College. The visitors have had more experience than the local five, but if they win tonight's contest they will have to play every minute of the game. The O. A. C. girls play their return game with the W. U. girls at Salem tonight.

The wedding of Milton P. Morgan and Miss Margaret J. Warren was solemnized at Hillsboro, Oregon, January 20, 1903, in the presence of a number of invited guests. After the ceremony the bridal couple left for Portland for a short honeymoon. They will make their residence in Hillsboro, where Mr. Morgan has charge of the Independent. Milton was a member of the GAZETTE force for several months, and we wish him and his young wife a long and prosperous journey through life.

Mordaunt Goodnough went to Portland, yesterday, to attend the concert given by the famous young Russian pianist, Ossip Gabrilowitsch, now touring America.

As Mr. C. W. Yates was driving some yearling calves from Tangent last week, one of them preferred crossing the Calapooia via the water and refused to go on the bridge. It rushed down the bank and jumped into the ice-cold water and went under. However, Mr. Yates was soon on the bank and ready to grab the first ear that came above water, which he held on to and yelled. Mr. Luelling soon came to the rescue and the calf was saved from a watery grave.—Albany Herald. Mr. Yates is the son of Mr. Joseph Yates, of this city.

Fulton is Gaining.

SALEM, Jan. 22.—Another vote was added to Senator Fulton's list in today's ballot for United States senator. Representative Ginn, of Wasco, joined the Fulton forces, and the ballot resulted: Fulton, 32; Geer, 17; Wood, 17; scattering, 23.

A Gambler's Daughter.

A most enjoyable event of the local theatrical season will be the production at the Opera House next Tuesday night, of the sensational melo-drama, "A Gambler's Daughter," a new play that has met with great success this year. It will be produced here by a company of the highest standard to be obtained, headed by the talented and clever leading woman, Miss Lillian Hayward. "A Gambler's Daughter" tells a thoroughly modern, up-to-date story of Chicago life and is so exciting that the audience is kept in a thrills from beginning to end. Clever songs and specialties are introduced at appropriate stages of the piece.

GUILTY AS CHARGED.

The Jury So Finds in the City of Corvallis vs. Ernest Stewart.

"Guilty, according to the law and the evidence," was the verdict rendered by the jury in the case of the City of Corvallis vs. Ernest Stewart. The defendant was charged with aiding and assisting Chester Keady and Harry Lyons to escape from the city jail, January 13, and he was given trial before Police Judge Grefoz last Monday evening. Attorney J. N. McFadden, assisted by his father, W. S. McFadden, appeared for the defense, while J. Fred Yates was assisted in the prosecution by E. R. Bryson. The case was called at 7 o'clock, but did not go to the jury till midnight. These gentlemen returned their verdict in five minutes.

The city court room was crowded with men and boys, personal friends and acquaintances of the defendant and his fellow culprits, who were anxious to learn what excuse would be offered for the behavior of the boys concerned in recent deceptions. As was to be expected, no excuse was, nor could be offered, but the prisoner and his companions, who were called to testify, seemed to realize whether they were drifting and manifested a repentant disposition.

The story of the escape from jail and the part taken by Stewart in its accomplishment, as brought out in the trial gave evidence of the demoralizing effect of close study of yellow-backed literature. Nearly every boy passes through the "dime novel" period, but with some heroic remedies are necessary to effect a cure.

The plot to break jail was conceived about six o'clock on the evening of the 13th. It was communicated to the various members of the organization and details were arranged for its prompt execution. The prisoners were provided with a short steel bar to be used in removing the bricks from the jail wall. The night officers were to be shadowed, and their close proximity to the jail was to be announced by the sentry whistling "There'll Be a Hot Time Time in the Old Town Tonight." When the escape had been effected, all implicated were to rendezvous on College Hill, while two of their number secured a carriage to convey the party to Albany. The scheme was consummated in every detail; not a slip nor hitch anywhere.

Stewart's part in the affair was to act as a whistler and he did not prove recreant to his trust; the escape being made to the accompaniment of "A Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight."

Judge Grefoz set one o'clock Tuesday as the time for pronouncing sentence. Stewart's counsel petitioned the members of the jury to recommend their client to the mercy of the court, which they did, and Judge Grefoz sentenced Stewart to 20 days in jail, with the alternative of paying a fine of $40. He chose the former and is now serving his time.

Burnett-Ingram.

Bruce Burnett and Miss Ella Ingram were married at the residence of the bride's sister, Mrs. Jones, at Amity, Tuesday afternoon, January 20, 1903. Rev. Douglas, of Amity, officiating. The wedding was a quiet home affair, only intimate friends being present. Mrs. Martha Burnett, Mrs. R. H. Huston and Mrs. S. N. Wilkins, of this city attended.

Mr. Burnett will leave shortly for Jacksonville, near which place he owns a homestead and is interested in mines in the vicinity. For the present, his bride will remain at the home of her sister in Amity. Both of these young people are well known in Corvallis where they are universally esteemed and respected. The GAZETTE takes pleasure in extending congratulations and good wishes.

Mrs. Phoebe Walden.

After many months of feebleness, due to senility, Mrs. Phoebe Walden died at her home in this city at 3:30 o'clock last Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Walden was born at Balscott, Oxfordshire, England, May 4, 1828, and was 74 years, 8 months and 17 days of age at the time of her death. She was married to Edward Walden in England. They have been residents of Corvallis for a number of years. The funeral will be conducted at the family residence this afternoon at 2:00 o'clock, by Rev. F. L. Moore. Interment will be made in Crystal Lake cemetery.
