HOW MADE NECESSARY.

The omnibus statehood bill has been used in the senate to obstruct and defeat legislation, some of which is of much greater national importance than the admission of new states. The absurd rules of the senate make this possible. Through the operation of these a factional minority may obstruct, delay, defeat the wisest purposes of the majority. Worse yet, a measure may be presented on the part of the majority, but not at once commanding votes enough to insure its passage. The promoters of such a measure may then force its passage by adopting obstructive tactics, and virtually holding up other important legislation until their pet measure is disposed of. This is just what Senators Quay and Elkins are doing with the omnibus statehood bill.

If New Mexico, or any of the other territories, is qualified for statehood and the inhabitants desire statehood, why should they not be enabled to erect a state and come into the union? Why should the people of a territory qualified for and deserving statehood be handicapped by an effort at the same time to give statehood to another territory not fitted for the privilege? The omnibus bill does this.

The explanation may be found in the probable influence it would have on the party complexion in the senate, were only certain qualified territories admitted. It may be explained by the material interests certain senators are said to have in some of the territories.

Whatever the explanation may be, the fact is that legislation is being obstructed by the attempt to create new states. It seems quite probable that even an unusually long executive session of the senate will not suffice, but that an extra session of both houses must be called or very important measures will fail to be enacted.

The house, too, has an attack of acute tantrums. A democrat has been unseated and his republican contestant admitted. There is no partisan motive found for this in a small and uncertain republican majority, so it is quite apparent the contest was decided upon its merits. The democratic members, however, are maddened and threaten by every possible means in their power to prevent the passage of many measures, including appropriation bills. It is so near the close of the session there is scarcely time for their anger to cool off, so they may necessitate an extra session.

Time is continually wasted in both houses in interminable and useless discussion. Grave senators and able congressmen will talk, argue and chafe over some most inconsequential matter until they remind one of the gable, gable of a lot of Dutch market women over a head of cabbage.

It is by such school-boyish conduct that business is impeded, public money wasted and the public weal neglected and an extra session of congress probably made necessary.

There seems to be no remedy for it, unless the people select deaf mutes to represent them, or that they elect men who believe and practice the gold standard—"silence is golden"—in their speech.

A bill has been introduced in the legislature of Nebraska to compel every qualified elector to vote. It provides a voting tax of $3, a receipt for which shall be given by the judge of election when each man casts his ballot, the receipt to be accepted by the county treasurer in payment of the tax. The only other alternative than paying the amount is a sworn statement declaring physical disability on election day. The framer of the bill says: "It is one of the reforms that I would make to improve citizenship. If citizenship is good for anything it is worth earning. I do not believe in sending carriers variously labelled for people on election day. I do believe, however, that if every man is compelled to vote or pay a fine we will get an honest expression at all times, either in special or general elections." Such a law would do no harm in Oregon.

Kings Valley's Inducements

There appeared in these columns recently a letter addressed to the Southern Pacific officials in Portland, by Mr. T. T. Vincent, setting forth Kings Valley's desire for an extension of the S. P. railroad from Airlie to Hoskins mill. This project is of interest to all parts of Benton county, for it has for its purpose the development of the resources of an important part of the county. For this reason we publish the correspondence which has passed between Mr. Vincent and Mr. Koehler regarding the proposed extension:

T. T. VINCENT, Corvallis, Oregon.
DEAR SIR: I beg to acknowledge receipt of your favor of the 21st inst., by which you ask, on behalf of the people of Kings Valley, the consideration of an extension of the Yamhill Division from Airlie southwest. You are right in assuming that this company intends to provide railroad facilities as they may become necessary from time to time within the section of country traversed, or tributary to its lines, but of course you do not expect that we should build in advance of the necessity, or without reasonable expectation of success.

In this connection I wish to point out that during the great number of years which we have been operating the Yamhill Division, no increase on the Airlie end has shown itself; on the contrary, the business is so small that when we were forced, after the small depot at that point burned down, to replace it, we substituted two old boxcars, which, I am sorry to say, have given ample space for the business offering. Our train crews have always found trouble to secure lodgings, and the passenger travel has been so small that we were forced to abandon the regular daily train service, turning it over to the motor line.

These conditions are certainly not encouraging. They do not show an increase in activity, nor any attempt at developing resources, even in the closest proximity to existing lines. What may we expect, under such conditions, from extensions? Yours truly, R. KOEHLER.

February 28, 1903.

R. KOEHLER, Portland, Oregon.

MY DEAR SIR: Your favor of the 23d at hand. From the tenor of your reply we observe that it is not the intention of the S. P. people to extend the Yamhill Division to Kings Valley. This is very discouraging to our people, who have expected this extension for a number of years past.

You will pardon us if we refer to some of the conditions existing at Airlie. It is true you have a couple of old boxcar bodies in use at that point as a depot, and we must say they are poor excuses for the purpose and very uninviting to the public. If a merchant should attempt to do business in a couple of old boxcar bodies, in a civilized community, what right would he have to expect success and patronage?

We have delivered wool at Airlie for two or three years past, and a more inconvenient and unhandy place for weighing and handling wool sacks we never saw at what purports to be a R. R. station, and the people are censured for not patronizing the road.

What reasonable right have the S. P. people to expect patronage, or the development of the country, if such inducements are offered the people?

Permit us to call your attention to some of the advantages that Kings Valley has over Airlie as a terminus for this branch of your road: We have an excellent sawmill on the Luckiamute at Hoskins, and we are quite sure that if the road was extended to that point a large shipping trade in lumber would follow, and that would be advantage No. 1.

We also have a good flouring mill in the valley that would ship considerable flour if we had the facilities for it, and that would be advantage No. 2. Along the Luckiamute river are scores of acres of the finest potato land in the state, and if we had means of getting potatoes to market in the winter or early spring, thousands of bushels of them would be raised for shipment every year, and that would be advantage No. 3. There are extensive logging interests on the Luckiamute that will probably last for years, which are attracting a good deal of attention, men are coming and going all the time, and a large part of the supplies for the camps arrive via. Wren, and if this line was in operation this trade would naturally be deflected to it, and that would be item No. 4. Then we have thousands of cords of oak grub wood that we are desirous of disposing of, and would do so if provided with shipping facilities, and that would be consideration No. 5. Other features of the situation in the way of local trade and traffic in shipping fruit, grain, etc., add advantage No. 6 to the list, and hence we think, in justice to our people, the road should be extended to this valley.

The charge of not developing the country, mentioned in your letter, along with lack of travel and train crew accommodations, cannot, under the circumstances, be charged against our people. We still think we are justly entitled to the extension of your road, as petitioned, and believe that if said extension is built the trade will amply justify the building of said line. Respectfully, T. T. VINCENT.
