LOCAL NEWS.

The Red Box is coming. Liquid air—Tomorrow night. Top buggy for sale at Winnegar's feed shed.—Alva Thompson. New lace curtains, 125 pair just received at Nolan & Callahan's. Miss Mildred Linnville is visiting in Portland with relatives and friends. Walter Boon, formerly of Corvallis, and Miss Anna Kupetz were married at Eugene last week. R. V. Father Bentgen performed the ceremony. Mrs. Espy has taken the agency for the famous Mme. Karrow's remedies, formerly controlled by Mrs. Wraga, and will be pleased to fill all orders for same. Floyd Bogue is recovering from a severe illness. When sufficiently strong to make the trip, he will go to Eastern Oregon, where it is hoped his health will be greatly improved. Mr. John McPhail, of Schriber, Ont., visited in Corvallis last week, the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Leese. Mr. McPhail and Mr. Leese are partners in the butcher business at Schriber. Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Stovall moved into their elegant new residence in Grant's Pass last week. Their many Corvallis friends and acquaintances will be glad to hear of their prosperity. Miss Bessie Dilley is the candidate of the Order of Lyons for carnival queen. In the list given to us for publication in Friday's issue, she was named as the Artisan's candidate. The latter order has not yet chosen a representative. S. M. Sampson had as guests, last week, two cousins, W. E. and O. W. McMurray, whom he had not seen in 45 years. These gentlemen are accompanied by R. P. Wright and E. P. Fuller. They all reside at Algona, Iowa, and are in Oregon on a tour of the coast for pleasure and inspection. Mr. and Mrs. David Ruble celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of their wedding at their home at Waldport last Wednesday, April 22nd. They started on their wedding tour across the plains to Oregon 50 years ago. Nine children were born to them—six girls and three boys—all of whom, with 19 grand children, are still living. Rev. L. M. Boozar, new pastor of the First United Evangelical Church, and his family have arrived from Joliet, Ill., and tomorrow he will enter on his work at that church. Mr. Boozar is well known here, as he was pastor of the Second Church, Albion, before he went East. He is also known among the members of the First Church. He will occupy the parsonage some time during the coming week.—Oregonian.

Quite a delegation of students and others from this city will accompany O. A. C.'s orator to Dallas, May 1st. The state oratorical contest of the Inter collegiate Prohibition Association will take place in Dallas on the above date, and a special rate has been secured over the railroads. Eight colleges will be represented, and $100 in cash prizes will be awarded: first place, $60; second place, $25; third place, $15. The winner will represent Oregon in the inter-state contest, which will be held in Corvallis. Dr. A. D. Morrison, of Portland, has concluded to locate among us and is having an office built next door to Adanson's drugstore. Dr. Morrison was for years employed as druggist in the well known drug house of Graham & Wells at Corvallis, and understands that line of business thoroughly. Resigning his position there he went to California and began the study of medicine and after three years returned to Oregon, entering the medical department of the state university, graduating therefrom with high honors. We speak for Dr. Morrison success in his new field of operations.—Prineville Review.

Don't forget the Hazelwood ice cream served Saturdays and Sundays at the City Restaurant.

Mrs. Bruce Burnett left yesterday for Grant Pass to join her husband, who has employment in that city.

Pres. L. P. Albany College, says of Liquid Air lecture, "I think we have never had a more pleasing entertainment."

Father Jurek went to Portland, yesterday, in company with Father Buchner. The latter goes to Portland for medical treatment.

Marion Wilkes, who has been attending the O. A. C. for the last two years, has gone to Colorado, where he has employment as a surveyor.

The old Eglon livery stable, now the property of Mrs. Jas. Flett, has just received a coat of paint, adding greatly to the appearance of this property.

An incipient blaze at the residence of Jas. Flett, last Saturday night about 11 o'clock, was responsible for the sounding of the fire alarm. No damage was done.

Prof. Friedel, U. of O., says of Liquid Air lecture, "I have no hesitancy in pronouncing it as one of the most universally appreciated lectures ever delivered in this city."

Mr. Wallis Nash arrived in Corvallis, Friday, from an absence of several months in Chicago, where he has been identified with Mr. G. M. McKinney, of the Harriman Immigration Bureau, in advertising Oregon. Mr. Nash says that the new comers who have reached Oregon this spring are but the first wave of the great tide now turned in this direction.

The field and track contests scheduled to take place on O. A. C. field last Saturday afternoon, were postponed on account of the inclemency of the weather, and the events were pulled off yesterday afternoon. Yesterday's try-out will enable Trainer Trine to select a team from the numerous entries, to meet the McMinnville athletes here next Saturday afternoon.

Benton county is larger than she appears on the map, or she contains more garden patches in proportion to her size than any county in Oregon. In Tuesday's issue of last week we announced that, through the courtesy of Senator Mitchell, we had a supply of seed sufficient to sow half of this county. Two mail sacks full looked pretty big to us, but every package was gone by Friday morning, and we have had calls since for as many more if we had them.

A copy of Volume I, No. 1, of "The Wireless," published at Avalon, on the island of Santa Catalina, off the coast of southern California, has reached our table. It is the only paper in the world which receives all its dispatches by wireless telegraphy. Previous to the installation of the wireless telegraph, news service from the mainland was provided by steamer and sailboat, or carrier pigeon, the latter means of communication being of little practical service to the islanders and seldom used. "The Wireless" is a Los Angeles Times enterprise.

Fine Scenic Production.

Friday's Oregonian devotes a half-column write-up to the play "California," performed in Portland last week for the first time. The article says in part: There are two stars in the company, Miss Rae Bronson, who is Dolores, the woman with a past, and Ed. M. Kimball, who portrays Tom Bolton, a rugged, old-fashioned Californian. Miss Bronson has good physique and a fine voice. Mr. Kimball is a fine specimen of the old-time actor, and he seems to be specially built for the part of Tom Bolton. The scenery is well worth a visit, the view of McCloud river beneath the shadow of Shasta, and the Yosemite valley being especially fine. Good specialties are given between acts by Miss Cadillac Franks, soprano, and Horace Mann, baritone. Their selections were encored. Mr. Mann gave a clever imitation of Chevalier, the English coster-monger, singing one of his songs, "The Old Kent Road." He also sang a song portraying the death of a Highlander in battle, and finished with the refrain, "Scotch Lassie Jean."

WENT TO EUROPE.

Over Four Hundred Corvallisites Made the Trip—Last Party Arrived Home at Midnight.

Fortunate are those who waited to be born until they could enjoy the blessings and opportunities of the 20th century. Those millions of deluded individuals who chose to inhabit the earth when it was young can boast of greater posterity than we of the present generation, but the privileges we enjoy will forever be denied them. A few short years ago, none but the millionaire and George Francis Train could satisfy the desire to travel around the world. But, how different now! Last Saturday evening over 400 Corvallisites made the trip—met crowned heads and celebrities, enjoyed the hospitality of dutch and dutchesses, were introduced to lords and ladies, hobnobbed with rulers and potentates—and were out of pocket but 35 cents.

When the Dray der Hinkle threw off her moorings at the Occidental Hotel, Boston, at 7 o'clock, she was loaded to the guards and First Officer Curran found a number of stowaways, who were permitted to work their passage, after a short consultation between Secret Service Officer Lafferty and General Manager Wilkins.

While waiting to board the Hotel de Bus and the other vessels chartered by the Rebekahs, the great crowd at the station near the dock was afforded much amusement by the arrival of a party of non de scripts. Inspector Brunk questioned them closely and ascertained their names and destination. Samantha Allen Campbell was chaperone of the party, which was under the immediate protection of Carry Nation Elgin. Reuben Rowley and his fair young bride Sally Ann, nee Wick; Primrose Linnville and her pet cat, and Josiah Allen Danman completed the list.

The GAZETTE's special correspondent was so busy listening to the concert by the Maccabee band that he missed getting away with the first party of excursionists. He was repaid for the delay, however, by a feast of Boston baked beans and side dishes.

Tourists who had made many trips across the Atlantic were unanimous in making the statement that the trip to Germany was the roughest they ever had experienced, and the storm grew in fury as the journey was continued. Frau Wilkins gave us a royal welcome to the fatherland, and Emperor Wilhelm was anxious to learn if Dewey was in the party.

A reception in honor of our coming was given in Japan at Pernot, the palace of the emperor, and our arrival in England was celebrated at Castle Kline, where the king and queen and royal family entertained our party at luncheon.

The voyage home to America was made without accident, and the large Moore estate was thrown open for our inspection. Here we were accorded the hospitality for which the southland is so justly famous.

President Roosevelt had Mark Hanna meet the excursionists at the depot in Washington, and conduct them to the Jacob-Astor house, where he and his cabinet bade us a hearty welcome. Secretary of War Yates promised the politicians in the party that one of the new cruisers would be named Corvallis.

Senior Girls' Entertainment.

A novel entertainment, under the patronage of the senior girls of the college, provided amusement for an audience that filled the college chapel, Friday evening.

In a few remarks introductory to the program, Professor Cordley explained that the proceeds of the evening would be placed in the treasury of the Corvallis Improvement Society, to be expended in beautifying the city. In the three minutes allotted to him, Professor Cordley suggested many inexpensive improvements which would add greatly to the attractiveness of the homes of Corvallis, and conduce to the health of the community. The speaker said that the home should be regarded as something more than a mere place of abode. It should be made attractive, beautiful; all that "home" implies. Corvallis, especially, should be made a city of modern homes. Hundreds of students come here each year from all sections of the state, and the impressions they gather here stay with them through life.

The musical numbers on the program were especially pleasing. Miss Mable Cronise delighted the audience with two vocal solos, "Bonnie Doon" and "Lakes of Killarney," illustrated with stereopticon views; Miss Verna Kerker contributed two pleasing violin solos and Mr. Goodnough rendered a piano solo in his usual artistic manner. An illustrated poem, a recitation cleverly given, and some famous landscapes were entertaining features.

Some excellent views of interior decorations of homes—hallways, libraries, bedrooms, parlors and dining rooms—were of practical value, and furnished many ideas for the artistic housewife who takes a ride in beautifying her home.

Plans will be Divulged.

Gradually the various amusements and attractions which the Woodmen have planned to offer as entertainment to the thousands of visitors who will come to Corvallis during the carnival and street fair, are coming to light. The more we learn of the details, the better satisfied we become that June 10, 11, 12 and 13 will be red letter days in the merry making history of Corvallis.

The attractions under canvass will include the Japanese tea garden, Edison electric show, negro plantation, merry-go round, menagerie of rare and beautiful animals and birds, and the grand pavilion. In the latter will take place the grand prize drill, in which a number of teams of the uniform rank of woodcraft will compete.

The public wedding, baby show, and balloon ascension are some of the many special features which will prove attractive. On the night of the carnival, revellers will have their innings, and confetti throwing will be the chief form of amusement.

The GAZETTE will divulge the plans of the various committees as soon as they are formulated.

A COLD WAVE.

Is Due in Corvallis Tomorrow Night—Will Be Severe at Armory.

A temperature of 30 degrees below zero is pretty cold weather, but even colder is promised in this city soon. More than ten times 30 below zero will be the temperature at one place on the college armory stage next Wednesday night, where the tank of liquid air is placed for the score of intensely interesting experiments that will be given by the lecturer and demonstrator engaged. A supply of this wonderful fluid, 312 degrees below zero, is guaranteed, and extensive laboratory apparatus is brought with which to show its many peculiar and startling qualities. The demand for seats indicates great interest, and many are expected from near-by towns.

Present experiments with liquid air are simply voyages of exploration into the strange country of hitherto unknown temperatures. What the heat of a fire is to water in generating steam, so is the heat of the atmosphere to liquid air, which is so inconceivably cold that a kettle of it will boil away fiercely even upon a cake of ice; alcohol is frozen and quicksilver is made as hard as iron, while the air's chemical properties permit of many paradoxical and interesting feats.

To the average public the great charm of a liquid air entertainment centers in the wonderful experiments. To the scientist there is a "going behind the scenes"—the experiment to him is a small thing, the principle involved in it, and the possibilities it indicates, are full of thought that is new and startling. To the man who has done but little work along scientific subjects, the professor's brilliant experiments seem like tricks of legerdemain, dazzling by the rapid succession of things amazing and at first inexplicable. There is enjoyment and instruction for all classes.

Don't forget to call for the Hazelwood ice cream every Saturday and Sunday at the City Restaurant; also first-class meals, 25 and 50 cents. C. W. LEDERLE, Proprietor.

FATE IS UNKIND.

Austin Craig Arrested in Portland on a Charge of Embezzlement.

Fate is most unkind to Austin Craig. During the last few years he has had to stand trial upon various criminal charges, but in every instance the evidence has not been sufficient to convict. He was arrested in Portland last Wednesday on a charge of embezzlement. Mr. Craig is a brother of Professor Craig, formerly of the Oregon Agricultural College. He resided in Corvallis for some time, and his friends here believe that he is innocent of any intentional wrong.

Of his latest trouble, the Oregonian says: A statement of the case is that Craig in his capacity as postmaster received a registered pouch from Baker City containing six packages. He checked them and wrote six on the register card which accompanied the mail.

A day or two later the card came to the Baker City office with the figure 6 changed to 5, and a line drawn through the description of a registered package from Spokane, containing $72, addressed to James Rupp, Greenhorn. The package never reached Rupp, and Craig, when called to account for it, answered that he did not know anything about it. His explanation was that instead of checking off the register card at once, as he ought to have done, he copied the card into his register book to facilitate matters, and afterward in checking off the Greenhorn mail discovered that the Rupp letter entered on the card was not there.

Besides his duties as postmaster, Craig conducted a branch of the Sumpter Bank for A. P. Goss, and soon after the time of the postoffice trouble Goss caused the arrest of Craig on the charge of embezzlement of $1100, but the grand jury failed to return an indictment in the case. Craig also ran a townsite scheme, and altogether appeared to be a very energetic person.

When interviewed by an Oregonian reporter, Craig said he was not prepared to make a full statement at this time. He stated that he did not receive the registered package addressed to Rupp, and for that reason marked it off the register card and refused to sign for it. He said he could have compromised the matter by paying the money, but such an act would have been an admission of his having purloined the letter, which he could not afford to make. He acknowledged his arrest on the embezzlement charge, but explained that the grand jury returned not a true bill, and that he sued his accuser, Goss, for damages. Goss then left Grant county and did not return for some time.
