

PARTY PRINCIPLES.

Candidates for office placed in nomination by the several political parties represent the principles and policies of their respective parties. This is especially true of candidates for congress. They stand committed to the principles and purposes of their party and pledged in advance of election to do all possible, if elected, to further the policies of their party.

Mr. Reames is a democrat. He is named by the democratic party as a candidate for congress, who, if elected, may be depended upon to stand up in earnest support of the measures and purposes of that party.

What are these? What may they be? What the principles of the party really are is difficult to determine. It is a fact that the republican party has formulated and applied its principles to our political life so acceptably, so thoroughly, so successfully and for so long a time that there has been scant room for different principles.

The only democratic principle to which the party has consistently clung through all the years is tariff-for-revenue only, so closely drawn to free trade as justly to identify it as the party of free trade. Whenever it has had the opportunity it has destroyed protection. It has never in all our history, enacted a tariff law for the country that has not been followed by commercial and industrial disaster and wide spread suffering.

The party "demands the passage of laws controlling trusts and sincere efforts to enforce them." There is not an anti-trust law on the federal statute-book which was not placed there by republicans opposed by democrats.

We shall revert to this subject again. For the present we would say that there is not a single thing in the purposes of the democratic party to win a republican vote for its congressional nominee

That Delusive Speech.

The 60th anniversary of the establishment of the provisional government of Oregon was celebrated at Champog, last Saturday, and a delicious comedy of errors has developed in connection with that occasion. Mr. A. E. Reames, democratic candidate for congress from this district, was on the program for an address, but was prevented by delayed trains from reaching Champog to fill his engagement.

was supposed to have occurred. Advance copies of Mr. Reames' address were sent out by Chairman White of the democratic congressional committee. The GAZETTE received a copy. Now comes the Clackamas County Record with an account of the exercises at Champog, containing the speech delivered by Hon. Frank Davey. The Davey address in the Record and the Reames address sent out by Chairman White are one and the same.

"If women would pay more attention to their health they would have more happy wives, mothers and daughters, and if they would observe results they would find that the doctors' prescriptions do not perform the many cures they are given credit for."

"In consulting with my druggist he advised McEree's Wine of Cardui and Theodore's Black-Draught, and so I took it and have every reason to thank him for a new life opened up to me with restored health, and it only took three months to cure me."

Wine of Cardui is a regulator of the menstrual functions and is a most astonishing tonic for women. It cures nervousness, depression, too frequent, irregular and painful menstruation, falling of the womb, whites and flooding. It is helpful when approaching womanhood, during pregnancy, after childbirth and in change of life. It frequently brings a dear baby to homes that have been barren for years. All druggists have $1.00 bottles of Wine of Cardui.
