Will Fry returned home Sunday from Corvallis, where he has been attending the O. A. C. He was accompanied home by his father, who was called to Corvallis by his son's illness, due to overstudy. Will was a member of the junior class and will complete a four years course in two years. The bracing atmosphere of Southern Oregon will soon put him alright again. He is highly pleased with the O. A. C. This college has the largest attendance of any school in the state. It is well equipped in every way, and in a few years will be as great a school as Berkeley.—Oregon Observer.

Mart Fruit, liveryman of this city, had quite an exciting experience last Friday, and one which might easily have resulted seriously. He drove a clothing drummer to Airlie via Kings Valley, and while in the valley one of the horses, for some unaccountable reason, became unmanageable and succeeded in kicking over the tongue. In the course of a short space of time the hack was run into a ditch by the roadside and upset. Mr. Fruit and the "knight of the grip" were thrown out accompanied by a couple of large trunks. The traveling gentleman was severely bruised by the fall, and so was Mr. Fruit, the latter having his leg jammed and, it is thought, one of his fingers dislocated. Luckily the team did not escape and no damage was done the outfit aside from breaking the double-trees. A set of double-trees were borrowed and the party proceeded to Airlie without further mishap.

Raymond Henkle arrived yesterday from San Francisco for a short visit.

Attorney and Mrs. Hawkins, of Toledo, were visitors during the carnival.

Eugene Allphin, now of Portland, spent Sunday in Corvallis with relatives.

Representative Marlon Hayden and his brother, Jasper, accompanied by their families, were out from Alsea last week to attend the Woodmen carnival and enjoy the various festivities that were in progress at the time.

Tom Carns came out from Alsea, Thursday, to attend the Carnival. He says everything in the little valley is moving along about as usual. The road over Alsea mountain is in good condition for this season of the year.

A reception will be tendered to Prof. Joseph Emery at the Agricultural Building of the O. A. C. Tuesday evening, June 16, 1903, from 8 to 10 p. m. All friends and former pupils of Prof. Emery are cordially invited to attend.

Corvallis has hit the nail in the right place. An ordinance has been passed providing for a fine of $5 to $50, or imprisonment, for the failure to repair a sidewalk after being ordered to do so by the proper authorities.—Lebanon Express.

An election was in progress in school district No. 9, for the selection of a clerk and one director, when the GAZETTE went to press yesterday evening. Patrons of the Corvallis Public Schools will be called upon to decide the question of issuing bonds, Monday, June 29th.

A letter received by his parents, yesterday, from Henry Allen, under date of Washington, D. C., June 11th, stated the writer and family would leave for Corvallis immediately, and their arrival is expected the latter part of this week. They will make quite an extended visit here.

W. O. Nisley, the well known piano tuner, was in Corvallis attending to business matters last week. Mr. Nisley is furnishing a splendid Mehlin piano to the O. A. C. for use during the commencement exercises. Those who are competent to judge speak in the highest terms of this instrument.

The Turner State Meeting of the Christian church begins Friday, June 19. Prominent speakers will have a place on the program. Among the number are Allen Wilson, of Indianapolis; A. McLean and R. L. Smith from Cincinnati, and J. D. Forrest, lately from Calcutta, India. The sessions will last ten days. Special rates by rail.

Tomorrow will mark the passing of the 37th annual commencement at Philomath college. The exercises extend from June 11th to 17th, inclusive. Graduating exercises will be held in the college chapel tomorrow morning at 10:30, and everybody is invited to be present on this occasion. The baccalaureate sermon was preached last Sunday.

Special officer Raber, discovered a blaze in Sheasgreen & Buxton's planing mill, last Friday morning about 2:30 o'clock. He quickly sounded an alarm, and the fire apparatus was on the scene before the fire had gained much headway, and it was extinguished in its incipency. It originated near the furnace of the boiler. The damage amounted to about $25.

Rev. Joseph Emery arrived from Eugene, last Saturday, to visit with his son, William, and attend commencement exercises at the College. Mr. Emery was a member of the faculty of the Oregon Agricultural College from 1888 to 1885. This is his first visit to the institution since it began the development which has made it the leading educational institution in this state. After leaving Corvallis, Rev. Emery served two terms as agent at the Klamath Indian Reservation. Mr. and Mrs. Emery will return to Eugene the latter part of this week for a month's visit with their daughter, Mrs. Lake, and will then proceed to their home in California.

The College campus was thronged with spectators, yesterday afternoon, to witness the exhibition drill by the cadet battalion. This was followed by the competitive drill by the non-commissioned officers. The prize, a gold medal, was awarded to M. W. Bartmess. A similar contest between privates was won by Cadet Root, who was also awarded a gold medal. The exercises concluded with the presentation of a gold watch to Major Edwards from the officers of the battalion. The cadets were drawn up in line on the campus and Professor Berchtold stepped forward and in a neat speech presented the watch to Major Edwards. The latter was taken completely by surprise, and was so overcome with emotion that he could scarcely express his appreciation.

RECEIPTS AND ATTENDANCE.

Nearly Seven Thousand Tickets Were Sold During Carnival Week.—Receipts Were $2,600.

Corvallis is getting back to normal again. Last week was one of excitement and tumult. With the carnival and side attractions and preparations for commencement at the College the average citizen has been going on half allowance of sleep and food. But the Hindu and the Turk, the clown and the street fakirs have folded their tents and silently slipped away. Where stood the merry-go-round, the Japanese theatre and the Streets of Cairo, there is now but wreckage and confetti. Flags and bunting still envelope business houses and public buildings, and pretty window decorations still attest the enterprise of our merchants. But the period of relaxation is upon us, and each one is taking a mental inventory of his or her share of the profit and pleasure.

The Woodmen of the World, to whom Corvallis is indebted for her first carnival, know only approximately what their part of the net receipts will be. The total amount of revenue taken in was $2,600. Of this sum the Woodmen get ten per cent. The threatening weather kept many at home and the attendance was not what was expected. Wednesday, 1406 persons passed into the main entrance; Thursday, 1639 were admitted; Friday was the record maker with 2065 tickets sold, and Saturday, 1632 persons witnessed the show.

The feature Thursday night was the prize drill between Woodmen teams from Monmouth and Corvallis. The judges, Captain Hardin and Captains Beattie and Johnson, of the cadet battalion, awarded the prize to the visiting team.

A great crowd gathered to witness the balloon ascension and parachute jump at 11 o'clock Friday morning. The weather was ideal for the event. There was scarcely a breath of wind and the sky was clear. When released, the ball rose rapidly to an elevation of 3,000 feet, taking a slight easterly direction. When the parachute was cut loose it opened immediately and descended easily, landing Aeronaut Miller safely in G. Hodes' garden patch. The balloon fell on Main street a little further south.

Fourteen babies were entered for the baby show Friday afternoon, and the audience was composed principally of women. The judges awarded first prize to the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Trask. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Bethers' baby boy was awarded second prize.

The public wedding was announced as the attraction for Saturday night, but there was a hitch somewhere and no knots were tied. The crowd amused itself riding on Holy Moses and throwing confetti into the eyes and mouths of the unwary.

A Terrible Mistake. It is seldom, indeed, that there is an occasion of public amusement or rejoicing that does not bring remorse or sorrow to someone. During the festivities of the past week, when the majority of our citizens were in gala attire and fired with the enthusiasm that pervaded the atmosphere, one good man at least was made miserable by a mistake he himself committed.

It was deemed necessary by the authorities to place on duty a number of extra police in order to control any unruly and disorderly element that might appear. Among the special officers selected was an old soldier whose name shall be unknown. Suffice it to say that the G. A. R. man loves an old soldier above all beings, and one who once bore arms in his country's service could commit no sin in his eyes.

While on duty one night this special officer saw a man staggering along, to all appearances somewhat inebriated. Without any particular gentleness he seized the party by the arm and informed him that he was guilty of a misdemeanor and would have to go to the city jail for lodging until morning. He further informed his prisoner that in the morning he would appear against him and said offender must be prepared to pay a fine. Having done this, he proceeded to lock his man up. It being dark, of course the special officer could not see what sort of a "catch" he had made, moreover the officer's eyes are not so good as they used to be.

The following morning the officer appeared and proceeded to unlock his man in order to convey him into the presence of Judge Greffoz. Imagine if you can, dear reader, his consternation when he saw before him an old gentleman in a blue uniform with brass buttons. Poor old officer! In all his life this was the first time he had ever, in any manner, raised his hand against a comrade or even admitted such a person could be guilty of a misdemeanor. So soon as he could speak, he said, in broken tones, "My God, what have I done! Locked up my poor old comrade! This makes me sick!" And it was so evident that he was "sick" that no one doubted his sincerity when he so stated. It is rumored that the man who was "jugged" was only suffering from a headache and this is what caused him to stagger so much the night before.

The President's Courtesy.

Wherever there is a monarchical form of government there is a vast gulf between the head or ruler of the empire and the subjects. Nor is there any connecting link between the subject and his sovereign. Vastly different is it in this country, as the following incident will show. When President Roosevelt and his party passed through Albany on their recent tour of the West, many Corvallisites went over to see the party. Among others were Mr. and Mrs. August Fischer, and they succeeded in passing a most beautiful bouquet to the president. Attached to the floral tribute was their card. The presidential train rolled away and Mr. and Mrs. Fischer thought no more of the matter.

Last Friday a letter addressed to the last mentioned parties arrived in this city. It was found to be a neatly worded acknowledgment in behalf of the president for the receipt of bouquet. It was type-written on White House stationery and bore the pen-and-ink signature of Secretary Loeb, private secretary of President Roosevelt. The whole was enclosed in a plain white envelope of fine quality, and on the upper left-hand corner, in raised letters of Gothic type, printed in bronze blue, were the words "White House."

To many people this little incident would have no significance, but it betokens at least two things. In the first place it shows that great care is taken to keep account of the many courtesies extended to the chief executive of this great republic and the pains taken to fittingly observe them. From the fact that a record is kept of all these acts of good will on the part of the citizens, it is plain that they appeal to the president and are cherished by him—moreover, that he is what he claims to be, the people's president. In the second place it renders obvious the fact that the people of this great land are not far removed from those to whose ability, honesty and integrity are entrusted the reins of government.

The faculty and seniors broke even in their two championship contests on Agricultural field last Saturday afternoon. The weather was a trifle cold and no records were broken in the track meet, which the faculty lost by a score of 44 to 46, but the 5-inning baseball game was a hair-raiser. The faculty took this contest with a score of 8 to 7 in their favor, and they had an inning up their sleeves.

The 300 spectators, who sat in the grand stand, were kept in breathless suspense during the exciting events on track and field. The result was in doubt until the last moment and the strain upon the nerves of the spectators was something terrible. Many surprises crept in during the afternoon; Professor Knisely stunt in the pole vault being the feature of the contest. The faculty lay their defeat to the absence of Professor Phillips. Second place in the shot put would have won the meet for them, and Phillips was backed heavily for these three points, but— Those who took places in the various events were too modest to claim credit, and only a partial list of the point winners could be learned. Here they are: 50-yard dash—Wells, Beattie, Wickland, (all seniors); time, 6 1/4 sec. 100-yard dash—The seniors took 1st and 2nd places and the faculty 3rd; time, 12 sec. 130-yard hurdle—Paulson, S; Hayward, F; Beattie, S. No time. 440-yard dash—Johnson, S; Beattie, S; Knisely, F. Time, 65 sec. Shot-put—Hayward, F; Paulson, S; Johnson, S. Distance, 29 ft, 4 in. Hammer Throw—Hayward, Cordley, Kent (all of faculty); distance, 75 ft. Broad jump—Hayward, F; Paulson, S; Knisely, F. Distance, 17 ft, 4 in. High Jump—Hayward, F; Wickland, S; Knisely, F. Height, 4 ft, 4 in. Pole Vault—Wells, S; Knisely, F; Cordley, F. Height, 8 ft, 3 in.

Ladies Won the Cup. The debate for the Gatch cup at the College chapel last Saturday night opened the exercises for commencement week. The debate was the final one in the series that began at the opening of the school year last fall, and much interest was aroused over the outcome.

The contestants in Saturday night's debate were representatives of the Perian and Zetegathean societies. The members of the former team were Miss Sibyl Cummings, Miss Minnie Smith and Miss Mabel Abbe, while the Zetegatheans were represented by Messrs. Claiborne Shepard, Teroah Scott and J. C. Clark. The Zetegatheans upheld the affirmative of the question "Resolved, That the impeachment of Andrew Johnson was justifiable." The ladies combated this idea, maintaining that Johnson endeavored to continue the policy of Lincoln and good grounds for impeachment did not exist. The judges, J. H. Wilson, Rev. E. F. Green and John Fulton, rendered a decision in favor of the negative.

During the evening the audience was favored with a vocal solo by Professor Shaw and a violin solo by Miss Verna Kerker.

Will Close at Six. At intervals during the past few years efforts have been made to induce the various merchants and dealers of this city to close their places of business at an earlier hour than they were in the habit of doing. It proved a difficult task to induce all to agree to this proposition, and all past efforts failed. However, quite recently the matter was again taken up and met with the desired result—the approval of all.

Saturday afternoon an agreement was reached by the business men of this city, whereby they are to close their respective places at 6 o'clock every evening, Saturday excepted. This act on the part of the business men went into effect last evening. It is understood that those doing business in Philomath will, if they have not already, act in harmony with their fellow merchants in this city. This appears to be a wise move on the part of these gentlemen, as it will give them and their employes an opportunity for a little rest and recreation, and they will transact the same amount of business and enjoy the same patronage, although the business will be confined to fewer hours. Nor will it greatly interfere with patrons; in fact, it should not inconvenience them at all when it is generally understood at what hour trading must cease. In this matter our business men are but following in the footsteps of the merchants of other cities. Following is the agreement reached and the signatures of those who signed it: CORVALLIS, OR., June 12, 1903.

We the undersigned merchants of the city of Corvallis agree to close our place of business commencing at 6 o'clock June 17th and every evening until further notice, Saturday evening excepted:

John H. Simpson, Mrs. C. A. Gould, E. J. Dunn, C. W. Young, Miss E. Johnson, E. E. White, J. E. Fowels, J. H. Harris, E. B. Horning, Huston & Bogue, Smith & Hout, A. Hodes, P. M. Zierolf, Nolan & Callahan, J. R. Smith & Co., F. L. Miller, Homer Lilly, Henkle & Davis, J. D. Mann & Co., D. D. Berntman, W. P. Lafferty, Miller & Welsher, S. L. Kline (to close at 6:30), Willamette V. Banking Co., R. M. Wade & Co., First National Bank, J. M. Cameron, Albert J. Metzger, E. W. Pratt.
