

A FORM OF ANARCHY.

Every good citizen will endorse the stand taken by President Roosevelt in his letter to Governor Durbin, and will approve every sentiment uttered therein. Whatever of impulsiveness may be charged to the President for his action, is more than balanced by the gravity of the causes that made it necessary.

The GAZETTE has been outspoken in its condemnation of mob violence and protest against the disposition in high places to palliate the crime of the lyncher. It has branded the leaders of the mobs as anarchists and called upon all citizens to have reverence for the law.

In beginning his letter to Governor Durbin, the President said: "I feel, my dear sir, that you have made all men your debtors who believe, as all far-seeing men must, that the well-being, indeed, the very existence of the Republic, depends upon that orderly liberty under the law which is as incompatible with mob violence as with any form of despotism. Of course, mob violence is simply one form of anarchy; and anarchy is now, as it always will be, the handmaiden and forerunner of tyranny."

"I feel that you have not only reflected honor unto the state which, for its good fortune has you as its chief executive, but upon the whole Nation. It is incumbent upon every man throughout this country not only to hold up his hands in the course you have been following, but to show his realization that the matter is one of vital concern to us all.

"All men must feel the gravest alarm over the growth of lynching in this country." After reviewing the many recent cases of lynching, and admonishing the courts to visit certain and swift punishment upon men who have been found guilty of a crime like rape or murder, the President deprecates the indulgence of the mob spirit in these terms:

"Surely no patriot can fail to see the fearful brutalization and debasement which the indulgence of such a spirit and such practices inevitably portend. Surely all public men, all writers for the daily press, all clergymen, all teachers, all who in any way have the right to address the public should with every energy denounce such crimes and to support those engaged in putting them down."

The Mystery Cleared.

The mystery surrounding the disappearance of George Armstrong was cleared up last Sunday, when some loggers found a badly decomposed body in the Willamette river near Sydney, Marion county. Mrs. Armstrong and son viewed the remains and identified them positively as those of the husband and father who was last seen alive on the morning of March 2, 1903. The clothes were identified as those of the missing man, and the beard still remained on one side of the face. The body was buried last Wednesday afternoon at the Palestine cemetery near Wells.

Mr. Armstrong was a prominent farmer and had resided near Wells for a number of years. He was 59 years of age at the time of his death, and besides a wife, left four grown sons to mourn his death.

On the morning of his disappearance he had attended a meeting of the district school board and seemed in his usual good health and spirits. Returning home he changed his clothes and went down in the timber, where the hired man was chopping wood. This was about ten o'clock. After a few moments of conversation, Mr. Armstrong started for the house a quarter of a mile away. From that moment he was as completely lost as if the earth had swallowed him. Searching parties were organized, and the river was dragged, but to no purpose.

As it is always the case many theories were advanced as to the cause of his disappearance and his probable whereabouts. By some it was thought that he had been a victim of foul play, others believed he had left the country, while those with a more practical turn of mind were convinced that the missing man had fallen in the river while temporarily deranged.

WHAT BEECHER SAID.

This Eminent Divine Upholds the Advertising Doctor Whose Name is Known.

Albany Herald. That most eminent divine, the late Rev. Henry Ward Beecher, publicly advocated the advertising doctor, as he once stated in the following words: "I am glad that the doctor cured him. I am glad that the doctor put it into the paper that he could cure him. And if any doctor is certain that he can cure such diseases and don't put it into the paper, I am sorry. What a pity it would have been had this doctor come to town with his wealth of science and experience, and gone away leaving him uncured! What a pity it would have been if he had been so prejudiced against advertising as to read the responsible certificates of the doctor and give him the go-by as a quack! What are newspapers for if not to circulate information? What more valuable information could a newspaper give than to tell a sick man where he can be cured? If a man has devoted his life and labor to the study of a special class of diseases, the necessity of his saying so becomes all the more pressing. His duty to advertise becomes imperative. A really able man, whatever his gifts, makes a great mistake if he fails to use those gifts through want of advertising."

The above extract from an able article of the Rev. Mr. Beecher embodies a sound view on the subject of advertising. Suppose Dr. Darrin had come to the city and not advertised, who would know of his presence? Since Dr. Darrin has been in Albany he has relieved more agony and suffering than tongue can tell. His testimonials have substantiated his cure. The fact that his offices at the Revere Hotel are crowded the greater part of the time and that few go away dissatisfied, is pretty good evidence of his success.

The editor of this paper is personally acquainted with many of the people named as cured by Dr. Darrin.

Mrs. Fred Unrath. President Country Club, Benton Harbor, Mich. "After my first baby was born I did not seem to regain my strength although the doctor gave me a tonic which he considered very superior, but instead of getting better I grew weaker every day. My husband insisted that I take Wine of Cardui for a week and see what it would do for me. I did take the medicine and was very grateful to find my strength and health slowly returning. In two weeks I was out of bed and in a month I was able to take up my usual duties. I am very enthusiastic in its praise. Wine of Cardui reinforces the organs of generation for the ordeal of pregnancy and childbirth. It prevents miscarriage. No woman who takes Wine of Cardui need fear the coming of her child. If Mrs. Unrath had taken Wine of Cardui before her baby came she would not have been weakened as she was. Her rapid recovery should commend this great remedy to every expectant mother. Wine of Cardui regulates the menstrual flow.
