visability of making the murder of infants a misdemeanor. Well, babies dont vote, and milkmen who sell poisoned milk do. Perhaps they have a Milkman's Union, that might lay a boycott on the city. Seattle has a right to fix the standard of its own moral equipoise. But there are noble-minded people, in greater numbers than ever before, who feel a sense of responsibility for the degradation of their fellow men. A great many years ago Seattle woke up to a sense of its duty to civilization and hanged several thugs to a scantling on old First street. Isn't it time for history to repeat itself?
