COUNTY CORRESPONDENCE

Snapshots as Caught by Our Different Representatives Throughout the County.

Oak Grove.
Mr. Sam Lawrence marketed some fine porkers this week.

Though the weather has been quite good of late the roads are exceedingly bad for this time of the year.

Rev. Jones, late of Ohio, preached at the Oak Grove schoolhouse Saturday evening to a large congregation.

Miss Anna Pagenkopt, who is teaching the Oak Grove school, has been busily engaged for the last two weeks in arranging to have her school properly represented in the county exhibit, which will be sent to St. Louis Fair next summer, and then returned to be exhibited at Lewis and Clark Fair.

The meetings which have been running for the last two weeks are still in progress and may continue a week longer.

Will Karstens, who has been bedfast for about two months with rheumatism of the heart, is believed to be some better.

Mr. A. Stellmaker, of Portland, has been spending a few days with relatives, went over to his homestead in Lincoln county while here.

Summit.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Grant, of Big Elk, returned Tuesday from Portland. Mr. Grant's sister, Mrs. Clark Herndon, is very ill in a hospital at the latter place.

Victor P. Moses was shaking hands with friends at Summit, Saturday, while on his way to the coast, which reminds us of the approach of election.

Mrs. John Yantus visited her daughter, Mrs. Richard McCollough, at Albany last week.

Ed. Strouts, tunnel watchman, is taking his lay-off. Mark Caves is on duty on the grade line.

D. B. Pettit, the old veteran, has been confined to his home some time with rheumatism.

Taylor McGuire left, Saturday, for his home at Little Elk, after spending a few days with his little daughter at Mrs. Anna Hill's.

M. R. Savage is in a very feeble condition.

Miss Florence Maxfield is teaching our school very successfully.

Rev. Plowman preaches every third Sunday at the schoolhouse. X. Y. Z.

Philomath.

The Alsea mail carrier reports from eighteen to twenty inches of snow on the mountains.

Both the Benton County Lumber Co. and Philomath Mill Co. have resumed operations. But a full force will not be employed for some time.

Philomath is to have a gun club. This is to be an up-to-date organization, the main purpose of which is to secure greater efficiency in marksmanship. About thirty would-be sportsmen have signed. Keep your eye on these sports.

The Alsea mail carrier has at last solved the problem of convenient travel over the mountains. The light two-horse cart is a great saving in time as well as being very comfortable.

Mr. Elmer Bethers, of Corvallis, was in Philomath the first of the week visiting his mother, Mrs. R. Rayburn, who has been very ill.

Marcus Gragg, of Bellfountain, spent Sunday with friends in Philomath.

The protracted meetings are continued in the brick chapel with interest.

Dr. F. M. Carter spent part of last week with his family at Philomath.

Mrs. Chase, from near Salem, is visiting her sister, Mrs. Neff.

Last Monday the mail route to Peak, Oregon was changed so that it now goes out the Wood's Creek road and comes back the Ridge road.

Mrs. Harry Bryan, of Jefferson, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bryan, in this place. PEEK A-BOO.

Monroe.

Weather blustery, with snow and rain. The foothills are covered with snow down to the valley. The winter so far has been ideal. Stock has wintered well, with no loss reported. Feed is getting low with some farmers.

R. H. Hewitt has had a force of carpenters at work on his barn, putting on new roof and shed and otherwise improving it, making it one of the largest and best in this vicinity. It would be better if more would show the same enterprise.

J. H. Morelock's family have been very unfortunate this winter. Out of seven in the family four have been down with typhoid fever. The last to take it is their youngest boy of about 6 years, and at last report was very low. The family is to be sympathized with. Their oldest boy, had the same fever a number of years ago and left him a cripple. They have had a siege of about two months with it.

The W. O. W. and Circle, of Monroe Camp, gave a supper to their members and a large number of their friends. Thursday night, February 4, which was a success in every way. A program of recitations and vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed by all, after which they repaired to the dining hall where there was as grand a supper as any one could wish and if anyone went away hungry it was their own fault as there was plenty to spare after all had been served. The camp has some as good cooks as there is any place in the state, which is saying a good deal.

The farmers have been making good use of the open winter and are well along with their spring plowing for his season of the year. They have followed the old adage, "Make hay while the sun shines." Fall grain of all kinds looks well, and with wheat one dollar in Chicago, has given the farmers enthusiasm to put in their best efforts to raise every bushel they can, and it is hoped they will be rewarded for their labor.

A. Wilhelm, of the firm of A. Wilhelm & Sons, has purchased several car loads of Eastern Oregon wheat in Portland and will ship the same to their flouring mill at Junction City to be ground into flour. They have three of these mills, one at Harri-burg, one at Monroe and the one at Junction.

Bert Lemasters has been very much afflicted this winter with inflammatory rheumatism, but is a little improved now. It is to be hoped he will improve with the opening of spring.

This section of Benton county experienced a light fall of snow, during Sunday night. Monday morning as people arose they were surprised to see about two inches of snow on the ground. During the day there were squalls of snow intermingled with sunshine, and by night the ground was about bare of snow, which most ranchers were pleased to see.

Bellfountain.

George Hall, Jr, has the ground staked for planting an orchard. He is also improving the appearance of his place very much by slashing and clearing. His industry added to the growing demand has almost doubled the value of his farm in the last twelve months.

W. S. Humphrey and S. A. Tharp have each of them, grubbed and plowed 12 or 15 acres of new ground for this season's crop.

A family by the name of Dean, who bought the Sid Evans place a short time ago, have just arrived from Tacoma, Wash. They are quite an acquisition to the population as there are 10 or 12 members of the family.

A man by the name of Bailey, and another by the name of Wheeler, who bought homes here lately are expected soon with their families from Nebraska.

Emil Price has turned his cream collecting business over to A. P. Starr, who makes regular trips for the Corvallis creamery. The change is a good one as Starr drives a splendid team that is a credit to the business.

Mrs. Addie Kyle, whose health has been poor most of the winter, is much improved, and is able to be around.

Miss Merle Hackett, niece of Mrs. E. H. Bellknapp, who is suffering from nervous prostration, has gone to her home in Southern Oregon.

Answering a call from Linn County last week, Ed Williams, Arthur Hawley and Jim Lamb with six hounds went over north of Brownsville to rid that region of coyotes, that have been living on the flocks of the foothills this winter. Unfortunately some other parties with less skill than the Benton County men had scattered the wolves a few days before. Had the fields been clear our men would doubtless have made a profitable chase as they had an offer of $20 a scalp, and with their trained dogs and trusted rifles they capture the most wily wolves.

Westward the course of empire takes its way. Last Saturday a family from east of Albany whose name defies the English language, sojourned in Bellfountain, bought a pair or two of rubber boots and with about a dozen cattle and a covered wagon drawn by an honest looking team, plunked off Sunday morning in a driving rain through the mud and mountains for Lower Alsea.

The tax list for this precinct hangs high on the wall of the store. One has only to wait a short time to hear all kinds of complaints. Most every man who comes in, steps up and reads the whole list, and then proceeds to express his convictions to what has already been said. Some blame the sheriff; more blame the legislation; and nearly all comment on the assessor with great freedom; some greatly surprised and not a little pleased to know how valuable their property is getting to be. There are some expressions of doubt as to why taxes should be so high. Of course there are some things "hard to be understood". However, the opportunity of contributing to a Centennial Exposition of the growth of one of the greatest countries
