Mikado Endeavoring to Keep St Petersburg in Ignorance.

London, Feb. 17.—That the Russians and Japanese have been engaged in terrific land battle ever since Friday night on the north bank of the EVENTS OF THE DAY Yalu river there is every reason to End Came After Two Months of Illness know, but the details of the encounter cannot be procured.

Never in the history of modern war fare has a more rigid censorship been exercised than by the Japanese ever since the beginning of the war. Their evident purpose is to keep the Russian government quite as much in the dark as to what is going on as the rest of the world. Most of their move ments have been veiled in secrecy There were certain obvious points of attack and certain obvious movements that would naturally be made which were quite apparent to military observers all over the world. But it will be observed that not only has the world not yet received the full and complete particulars of any naval or land battle which has yet taken place, but as the days go by and the war progresses the details become more and more conflicting and less satisfying.

Japan has evidently a carefully mapped campaign before it. It hopes to accomplish much through celerity and secrecy of its movements. If the war correspondents were permitted to send forth the details of these movements the Russian authorities in ly to cause a lockout, in which events the Far East would be in a much better condition to checkmate them. Absolute secrecy is therefore quite as much a part of the Japanese plan of campaign as any other. This view of the case will make it clear why the news has filtered through so meagerly and unsatisfactorily.

It is manifest from what has been allowed to come forth that the Japanese are making steady and rapid advances ever since the sketchy details of the first sea engagements electrified the world. When the news embargo is lifted it is not improbable the world will discover that the Japenese have made marvelous headway and that in celerity of movement and effectiveness of field work they have set a new standard for the armies of the civilized world to follow.

MARCUS ALONZO HANNA PASSES TO ETERNAL REST.

Filled With Apparent Recoveries Followed by Relapses-Last Moments Were Without Pain-Was Kept Alive by Powerful Scientific Agencies.

Washington, Feb. 16.-Senator Marcus Alonzo Hanna died at 6:40 o'clock last night at the family apartments in the Arlington hotel, after an illness extending over nearly two months, filled with apparent recoveries followed by relapses, and finally drifting into typhoid fever, which, in his weakened condition, he was unable to withstand. When the end came all were in the room except Mrs. Hanna, the Senator's wife, and Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hanna. Mrs. Hanna had left the room only a few minutes before.

The last sinking spell began at exactly 6:30 o'clock. Doctors Carter and Osler were then in attendance. They did not conceal the fact that life was about to end, and all the members of the family were sent for. Mrs. Mc-Cormick, one of the Senator's daughters, and Miss Phelps were present when the end came. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Hanna were the first to arrive, and they withdrew immediately to the chamber of the Senator's wife to summon her to the bedside. It was while they were absent that the Senator breathed his last.

There were no distressing incidents attending the last moments. It was a sinking spell, which terminated in 10 minutes. Just after his eyes closed in death Mrs. Hanna was able to come into the room. She bore up well under the ordeal, and tonight she is showing calmness and bravery.

The courage displayed by Mrs. Hanna is the subject of the greatest surprise. She was in almost constant attendance on her husband, though realizing fully there was no hope for Nevertheless, the remonstrances of the physicians and the added implorings of her children that she take some rest were unavailing until late in the afternoon, when she was attacked by a violent headache. A speanese army has been deflected for the cial dispatch published here by the Star states that its correspondent has reliable information that in the second attack on Port Arthur the Japanese sunk eight vessels and captured ten. No confirmation can be obtained and the report is not generally credited, despite the Star's insistence that it is true.

Russia is protesting in the matter of the British permission that Japan is anxious to assist in maintaining occupy Wie Hai Wei. Russia would like England to reoccupy the place if it is true that the fleet of the Mikado czar apparently knows that there are likely to be serious emplications with other nations, and is making great military preparations to guard his country from all manner of attacks.

Although the land forces of Japan have met with some reverses, these are not thought to be serious, as they were not her main body of troops. It is conceded that Port Arthur must fall, and the Japanese are working rapidly and persistently to this end. They are slowly but surely closing in. and as the Russian fleet is scattered t cannot be seen how she can possibly prevent the Japanese from assailing her stronghold from both sides.

Russia Worsted in Battle Off Chemulpo -Two Vessels Lost.

London, Feb. 10.-The official account of the Chemulpo battle received at the Japanese embassy here says that the Japanese squadron in escorting transports to Corea was met on its way to Chemulpo by the Russian gunboat Korietz as the latter was leaving port. The Korietz assumed the offensive and fired on a Japanese torpedo boat. The latter replied by firing two torpedoes without effect. The Korietz then returned to anchorage in the port and early next morning Admiral Iriu, commanding the Japanese fleet, formally demanded that all Russian vessels leave the port of Chemulpo adding that if they did not comply by noon yesterday he would be compelled to attack them within the harbor.

The Russian men-of-war left the port at 11:30 and battle was immediately given outside Polynesian island.
