Davenport's Lecture.

Homer Davenport, native Oregonian and maker of funny pictures, lectured last Saturday night at the Armory on the subject "The Power of a Cartoon." Mr. Davenport has been connected with the New York Journal and as a cartoonist has won national fame. He is a big six-footer of commanding presence and pleasing address. He has a rich, melodious, far-reaching voice and a hand that for size and delicacy of mould would be the pride of a fashionable lady. He made about a dozen pictures and spent on an average of 30 seconds on each.

Mr. Davenport was born at Silverton Oregon, and frequently referred to incidents connected with his early life.

His pictures of prominent men were easily recognized by the audience. Among those cartoons were Senators Spooner and Platt, Gladstone, Tom Reed and Dewey. It is a matter of history and one of Mr. Davenport's pleasant recollections that one of his cartoons, "Lest We forget," turned the tide of public sentiment in Admiral Dewey's favor, when an incensed nation seemed ready to cast her hero aside for one small act of thoughtless gallantry. When Dewey's picture appeared it was lustily cheered.

BLACK-DRAUGHT STOCK and POULTRY MEDICINE

Stock and poultry have few troubles which are not bowel and liver irregularities. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is a bowel and liver remedy for stock. It puts the organs of digestion in a perfect condition. Prominent American breeders and farmers keep their herds and flocks healthy by giving them an occasional dose of Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine in their food. Any stock raiser may buy a 25-cent half-pound air-tight can of this medicine from his dealer and keep his stock in vigorous health for weeks. Dealers generally keep Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine. If yours does not, send 25 cents for a sample can to the manufacturers, The Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn.

ROCHESTER, GA., Jan. 30, 1902. Black-Draught Stock and Poultry Medicine is the best I ever tried. Our stock was looking bad when you sent me the medicine and now they are getting so fine. They are looking 20 per cent. better.
S. P. BROOKINGTON.

What She Missed. Mrs. Ulmer Park (incensed)—John, the Dussaps moved out of their house to-day, and some new people moved right in!

Ulmer Park—What of it? I shouldn't think that would bother you. Mrs. Ulmer Park (aggravatedly)—Well, they didn't give me time to go over and see what condition the Dussaps left the house in!—Brooklyn Eagle.

New Right. "Grandniece," said the old lady, feebly, in a tone which indicated mental anxiety as well as bodily suffering. "Yes, aunt. What is it?" "When Dr. Slinn comes I suspect he will try to give me an anodyne, and I want you to promise me not to let him do it. It won't cure my disease, and if I have a pain I want to know it."—Leslie's Weekly.

The Difference. An optimist, I take it, is a simple, peaceful man. Who thinks if safe and pleasant just to travel with the plan; A pessimist, however, always goes against And imitates the billy goat who tries to butt the train. —Chicago Record-Herald.

Oratorical Contest.

Mrs. Effie Gale, elocution teacher, will give a contest at the Opera House, April 19, at 7:30 p. m. Admission 25 and 15 cents. Come to the Opera House on the 19th and see. That the girls of Corvallis have been studying with me.

Come! Come! Leave your occupation While your city girls Give to you a dramatic recitation.

No. 1 will make you almost want to cry When she tells good-night to papa, "I'll be better in mornin', bye."

While you listen to No. 2, from laughter you can hardly refrain, When she tells you how the "Manns" were too late for the train;

And No. 3, will tell you in accents clear and slow How poor little Nora Lee was frozen in the snow.

And again we will prove to you how we can fill the bill When No. 4 will tell how "Reuben Toast" his butter and eggs did spill.

And if you will listen while No. 5 will tell In dramatic elocution of that "Old Independence Bell."

And of "Aunt Samantha" you ought to hear and see For No. 6 will tell how "Josiah" wrote poetry.

Then No. 7 will do her very best And tell with deepest tragedy How the "Forger" lay at rest.

Next No. 8 will tell you, and she can, And make it so plain that you will almost see the "Baldheaded Man."

And to our entertainment you surely ought to go, When No. 9 will tell you the story of Faithful Oler Joe."

And if you will come to the Opera House you'll have a satisfied mind, When Nolo will tell you 'bout "That air Railroad Sign."

O. A. C. Notes.

The Athletic Association cleared about $60 on the lecture Saturday night.

While practicing for the broad jump a few days ago, Coates surprised the boys by jumping 22 feet, 4 1/2 inches.

Messrs. Latuette, Stalker and Dyke, of McMinnville College ate dinner with the Cauthorn Hall boys Saturday on there way home from the Prohibition contest.

Last year the Freshmen class in Breeds of stock took a trip to Portland and Eugene to look at the fine stock. This year's class is hoping to go to Eastern Oregon.

A very interesting try-out was held on the College field Saturday, to pick men to attend the meet at Columbia University next Friday. In the half-mile, Hugh Currin made it in 2:12 1/2, with Steiver and Stebens second and third respectively. Greshaw took the quarter-mile in 54 1/2 seconds with Smithson a close second.

About fifty students attended the State Prohibition contest at Philomath and while waiting for the speakers to appear made the Philomath ring for the first time with O. A. C. yells. Everyone pronounced it one of the best contests they have ever heard, and although we did not win in such defeat there is no disgrace.

By the most artistic invitations ever given out in the O. A. C., the seniors were called to spend the evening at the home of Pres. and Mrs. Hatch. About twenty-five jolly seniors whiled away the evening in a most interesting manner. They played progressive games beginning with authors, snap and many others. After the games refreshments were served and as Saturday morning drew near the guests withdrew pronouncing it the most enjoyable event of the year.

The lecture given by Homer Davenport was something entirely new to O. A. C. students. Few if any of us realize by personal experience the "power of a cartoon" but all who attended the lecture must realize that they possess a wonderful influence when used with discretion. We all watched with interest the formation of the exaggerated features of Mr. Gladstone, Admiral Dewey and many others, as well as the changing of the features of a weeping into a laughing boy, by two or three strokes of the pencil. Mr. Davenport also possesses a wonderful power with words. No one else could have told the story of a trip to San Francisco with an old-fashioned carpet bag and made it so interesting.

At the M. E. Church under the auspices of the Ladies W. F. M. S. will be held on Thursday afternoon and evening. At 3 p. m. an address by Rev. W. W. Edmunson; 4 to 7 p. m. supper served; 7:30 address, "Reminiscences in the Land of the Midnight Sun," Rev. W. W. Edmunson. The public cordially invited.
