

Essence of Orange Leaves.
One of the remarkable industries of Paraguay is the preparation of the essence of orange leaves. More than 150 years ago the Jesuit priests, who then ruled that secluded country, imported orange seeds and planted groves, which have now become immense forests, filled with small establishments for extracting the essence, which is exported to France and the United States for use in soap and perfumery making. It is also employed by the natives in Paraguay as a healing ointment and a hair tonic.

Swearing Spoils Horses.
A well-known owner of race horses, not at all a sentimental person, recently made an order forbidding his employees to talk in loud tones or to swear in the stable. "I have never yet seen a good mannered horse," he says, "that was being sworn at all the time. It hurts the feelings of a sensitive horse, and I'll keep my word good to discharge any man in my employ if I catch him swearing within the hearing of any horse in this stable."

Tourist (in Utah)—Polygamy is no longer practiced, I am told.
Ex-Mormon (dejectedly)—No, and it's a shame. Only one wife! What good is one wife? Just a trial, that's all.
"How so?"
"Everything is at sixes and sevens. Nothing ever done. Buttons off, meals half cooked—everything wrong. In the good old days we had one wife to sew on buttons, another to darn stockings, another to boss the servants, another to do the shopping, and another to attend to the duties of society. A man had some comfort then."

RHEUMATISM

AN INDESCRIBABLE TORTURE

Because Rheumatism sometimes comes on suddenly it doesn't prove that it is a chance disease or one due to accidental causes. It takes time for it to develop, and is at work in the system long before any symptoms are felt. The blood is the first point of attack, and the poisonous acids that cause the aches and pains are then distributed through the circulation to different parts of the system, and settle in joints, muscles and nerves; and when the system is in this condition it needs only some exciting cause like exposure to night air, damp, chilly weather, or the cold, bleak winds of winter, to arouse the slumbering poisons and bring on Rheumatism. The severity of the attack depends upon the amount of acid in the blood and the quantity of acrid matter in the joints and muscles. Some people are almost helpless from the first, while others have occasional spells or are uncomfortable, restless, nervous and half sick all the time from the nagging aches and pains. Rheumatism is a disagreeable companion even in its mildest form. It grows worse as we grow older, and frequently stiffens the joints, draws the muscles out of shape and breaks down the nervous system. A disease that originates in the blood, as Rheumatism does, cannot be cured with external remedies like liniments and plasters; such things scatter the pains or drive them to some other part of the body, but do not touch the disease or improve the condition of the blood. The thin acid blood must be restored to its normal purity and strength, so that all poisonous substances may be carried out of the system, and no medicine accomplishes this in so short a time as S.S.S., which not only neutralizes the acids and counteracts the poisons, but builds up the general health at the same time.

"Never heard what broke up their friendship? Dear me! I thought every one had heard that. Brown is engaged, you know." "Oh, yes! I've heard that. Was White in love with the same girl?" "No, no. Not at all. But White saw her portrait in Brown's room and asked whose it was. 'It's a picture of my fiancée,' said Brown. White examined it critically, and then put it down, with the remark that she must be very rich. I don't know what happened after that, but White was taken home in a cab and neither of them was seen out of doors for a week."

IT WAS JAPAN'S OLD TRICK.

Torpedoes Won the First Battle from Chinese in 1894.

The first battle of the Chinese-Japanese war was fought July 24, 1894, in the harbor of Asan, on the west coast of Korea, south of Chemulpo, the scene of the destruction recently of two Russian warships by a Japanese fleet. In the battle of Asan the Japanese sank an English transport, Kow Shing, with 1,700 Chinese soldiers on board. There had been no declaration of war.

The Japanese commanders recognized the English flag and requested that the English commanders leave his vessel. The Chinese officers forbade them doing so under penalty of death. The Japanese sent officers to the ship and repeated the demand and then began firing. Captain Galsworthy and his officers leaped overboard to swim to the Japanese cruiser. The Chinese treacherously fired upon the Englishmen. The Japanese opened with their broadside battery and machine guns. The missiles swept the decks of the transport. The Japanese then fired two torpedoes, both of which struck and exploded. The transport's prow rose, its stern went down and almost immediately the vessel sank.

The Chinese fought the guns until the vessel went down. The shots were aimed too high to damage the Japanese. Some were fired directly at the struggling Chinese soldiers in the water, the gunners saying that they would all die together. The boats of the transport in which scores of soldiers and officers were trying to escape, were sunk by the Japanese. The Kow Shing was conveyed by the Chi Yuen and the Kootsu. Both vessels engaged the Japanese. The fight continued more than an hour, when the Chi Yuen raised the white flag. The Japanese boat ceased firing and approached. Suddenly the Chi Yuen discharged torpedoes and began the fight again. The torpedoes did no damage. The fight raged more hotly than before, until the Chi Yuen turned and ran. The Japanese cruiser chased the Chinese, but failed to capture her. The Kootsu tried to escape, but ran aground and was captured.

On the same day the Japanese cruiser Yoshino fought the Chinese Chih Yuen and consort So Keang at sea. The Chinese were disabled, but fought stubbornly and would have captured the Japanese vessel had not relief appeared. The Chih Yuen was able to escape to Waihaiwei. The So Keang was captured.

A Practical Puzzle.

There is still something for the husband and father to do aboard the family ship. Mr. Glidingberry, who figures in a dialogue in Judge, understood his duty.

"Yes, sir," Mr. Glidingberry said proudly to the newcomer in town, "I guess I've got one of the intellectual families in these parts—always taking up with something that calls for the exercise of the mental powers to the utmost."

"Is that so?" politely murmured the newcomer.

"Yes. Now, there's mother. She's upstairs this morning with a set of newspaper puzzle pictures. If she solves 'em, and writes a good serial story to go along with 'em, she gets two dollars. And my daughter Lizzie is covering the dining-room floor with sheets of paper that she's been figuring on, trying to find out how old Ann is."

"Henry, he's trying to cut down the time record on the pigs-in-clover puzzle. And Jim—that's Jim over by the fence—he's studying up a new way to work the fifteen puzzle. He's worked on it for three years now, and thinks he's pretty near got it."

"But you," inquired the new citizen, "what problem are you devoted to?"

"Who—me? My problem?" repeated Mr. Glidingberry. "Oh, I work out the problem of keeping the family together."

Detachable Feet.
"That new saleslady," said the blonde at the ribbon counter, "has false hair and teeth."
"Yes," replied the brunette who condescended to sell handkerchiefs occasionally, "and it seems that's not the only thing. I heard her complaining that she hadn't had a chance to get off her feet all day."—Philadelphia Press.

A VENERABLE PASTOR CURED BY PE-RU-NA

Pe-ru-na is a Catarrhal Tonic Especially Adapted to the Declining Powers of Old Age.

In old age the mucous membranes become thickened and partly lose their function.

This leads to partial loss of hearing, smell and taste, as well as digestive disturbances.

Peruna corrects all this by its specific operation on all the mucous membranes of the body.

One bottle will convince anyone. Once used and Peruna becomes a life-long stand-by with old and young.

"In June, 1901, I lost my sense of hearing entirely. My hearing had been somewhat impaired for several years, but not so much affected but that I could hold converse with my friends; but in June, 1901, my sense of hearing left me so that I could hear no sound whatever. I was also troubled with rheumatic pains in my limbs. I commenced taking Peruna and now my hearing is restored as good as it was prior to June, 1901. My rheumatic pains are all gone. I cannot speak too highly of Peruna, and now when 88

The spring is the best time to treat catarrh. Nature renews herself every spring. The system is rejuvenated by spring weather. This renders medicines more effective. A short course of Peruna, assisted by the balmy air of spring, will cure old, stubborn cases of catarrh that have resisted treatment for years. Everybody should have a copy of Dr. Hartman's latest book on catarrh. Address the Peruna Medicine Co., Columbus, Ohio.
