O. A. C. Notes.

H. W. Craven has moved into his property northwest of the College. Fred Houston, '02, is lying at the point of death with typhoid fever, Union, Oregon.

The barber shops have been busy lately, since the Major said that short hair was a part of a military man's make-up.

The literary societies are having their pictures taken for the special edition of the Barometer. Be sure and get one when they come out.

The government inspector, Major Lee Tebinger, who was to have inspected the battalion May 5 will not be here until some time next week.

Prof. Johnson is still down with rheumatism and unable to attend his classes. It is the first time in years that he has missed a class on account of sickness.

Otto Harse has moved into the Jensen property just north of the College, Mr. Jensen and family having moved to Southern Oregon, where he has a claim to attend to.

The freshmen class in "Breeds of Stock" are now judging and scoring the stock on the College farm. This work is preparatory to the trip they are going to make through the Willamette valley to visit the best herds of cattle.

There is going to be a box social at Mrs. Howard's residence on 5th and Adams street. A number of College girls are making baskets and of course they each want a boy to buy it, so be sure and be there. A good program and lots of good things to eat.

The class meet will be sure to take place next Saturday afternoon. It will be much closer since Coates has left. The juniors think now that they can win over the freshmen. But the freshmen are still very confident. Come out Saturday and encourage the boys and be entertained by the best meet of the season.

The prospects for an athletic meet with Eugene are good. We can easily win over them if the boys do the kind of work they did at Portland. However, Coates has left us so a few points will be missed. He also tried to induce Smithson to leave and to that end drove over from Albany in the night. But he was not successful in his project as Smithson is still with the team.

The interest in the science of pitching horse shoes is getting quite intense among the people who frequent Caithorn Hall. The way a certain young man appears every evening after supper in his shirt sleeves with two horse shoes in his hand and defies the whole company, as did Goliath of old, shows that it is a subject that will soon be demanding attention which it rightly deserves.

Mr. Tate, a lecturer for the A. O. U. W., gave one of the best talks that has been heard in the chapel this year, when he visited the College last Wednesday. He said, "Be worthy to occupy the highest position that the nation can bestow, then it is not so important whether you get it or not. But be worthy of it." And then he said that the one thing that is necessary to the young man or woman starting out in life is self respect. If you would have the world respect you learn to respect yourself.

Major C. B. Harden, when asked by President Gatch in chapel one morning if he ever thought it strange that the strongest and most healthy-looking boys were the ones that were sick the most, said that he had noticed it very often. He said that to some it might seem very strange that the strong men were so sickly while the weak-looking men were always well, but he knew why it was. He said it did not hurt his feelings to have them do that way, but he did not like to have them deceive themselves by thinking that they were deceiving him when they handed in such excuses. He also remarked that there were more men here with corns on their feet than any place he had ever been. He closed by remarking that every man was making his own record here and that he was keeping it for him, and would promote him according to that record. The boy who has any personal ambition in life will not pass lightly by such good advice as the Major gave.

Last Thursday morning chapel exercises were conducted by Father Smith, of the Catholic church, who was then holding a meeting in the Catholic church in this city. He gave a talk on the life and work of Cardinal Newman, and said that one of his books had helped him to attain to the best in this life more than other one book he ever read. He showed how Cardinal Newman, although poor and not any smarter than the average young man, had by his own personal effort raised himself to a high place in the Catholic church and among the thinking men of the age. He then said that although he was born and raised in New York City he deplored the fact that so many boys were leaving the farm to seek their fortunes in the city. He said that the farmer was the most independent man on earth and that no one could live a better or happier life than the farmer. It was advice that young people should consider well.
