In either case it would be a benefit to our people while men cannot labor to any advantage on the Isthmus. Will the man and brother be able to help us out.

Farmers and O. A. C.

Inasmuch as the board of regents of the O. A. C. meets in the near future to transact business, there is beginning to be some agitation as to the composition of that body and the qualifications of applicants to fill the vacancies that will occur therein. The State Grange raised the question whether the institution might not be made more of a farmers' college, and showed that out of 354 young men only 59 were taking the Agricultural course.
