STORY OF THE CIVIL WAR.

An Amusing Incident of Gen. Wheeler's Encounter with the Tenth Michigan Cavalry.

Capt. E. J. Brooks, of the Tenth Michigan cavalry, while in command of about 125 convalescents and special duty men of his regiment, and about 150 men from other commands, was left in garrison at Strawberry Plains, Tenn. They were attacked August 24, 1864, by Gen. Joe Wheeler and a force of from 6,000 to 8,000 men, with nine pieces of artillery. The union troops made a successful defense against this force, and thus saved the post from capture and the great railroad bridge from destruction, says the Detroit Free Press. During the attack seven of Brooks' men, by hard fighting, held McMullan's ford, on the Holston river, for 3 1/2 hours against a brigade of confederate cavalry, killing 40 or 50 of them; but were finally surrounded and captured. The following report is made of this incident:

Eight men were sent to guard McMullan's ford, on the Holston. One of them went off on his own hook, so that seven were left. One of them was a large, powerful fellow, the farrier of company B, by name Alexander H. Griggs. The seven men actually kept a confederate brigade from crossing that ford for 3 1/2 hours by desperate fighting, killing 40 or 50.

The confederates, by swimming the river above and below the ford, succeeded in capturing the whole party. During the fight the big farrier was badly wounded in the shoulder.

Gen. Wheeler was much astonished at the valor of these men, and at once paroled a man to care for the wounded man. A proaching the latter, the following dialogue is said to have taken place:

Gen. Wheeler—Well, my man, how many men had you at the ford?

Griggs—Seven, sir.

Wheeler—My poor fellow, don't you know you are badly wounded? You might as well tell me the truth. You may not live long.

Griggs (indignantly)—I am telling the truth, sir. We had only seven men.

Wheeler (laughing)—Well, what did you expect to do?

Griggs—To keep you from crossing.

Wheeler—Well, why didn't you do it?

Griggs—Why, you see, we did until you hit me, and that weakened our forces so much that you were too much for us.

Gen. Wheeler was greatly amused, and inquired of another prisoner (who happened to be a horse farrier, too):

"Are all the Tenth Michigan like you fellows?"

"Oh, no!" said the man, "we are the poorest of the lot. We are mostly horse farriers and blacksmiths, and not much accustomed to fighting."

"Well," said Wheeler, "if I had 300 such men as you I could march straight through —, and the — couldn't stop me."

Gen. Wheeler, after the war, met Capt., afterward Col. Brooks, one day, and on being told his regiment said:

"The — regiment out of — Whenever I met them they licked — out of me."

Fine Combination for Pigs.

Dairymen who keep swine, and they always should unless all the milk is sold, should mix grain of some kind with the skim milk or whey that goes to the pigs. Corn meal and skim milk mixed in proper proportions cannot be excelled as pig feed. It is improvident for a dairyman to grow hogs on the wastes from the dairy without any grain, yet the only way to prove this to some men would be by the use of the scales, in tests with mixed rations.—National Stockman.

Customs Daughter.
"Will you get wings when you go to Heaven?" asked little Elsie of her father, who is bald-headed.
"Yes, dear," he replied.
"And will they put feathers on your head, too, papa?" she persisted.—Ohio State Journal.

Not Possible.
Visitor—Your dollie seems to be very happy.
A Tiny Girl of To-Day—Well, auntie, I'm sure she isn't, because she has only one dress, and that isn't stylish.—Town and Country.

Worth Winning.
He—Please play for me.
She—I don't play.
He—Please sing for me.
She—I don't sing.
He—Please marry me.—Chicago Daily News.

Somewhat Like One.
"Did you notice how she jabbered away when she sat there between those two men?"
"Goodness, yes! It made me think of a tongue sandwich."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

Willie's Strong Defense.
"Willie, you are forever interrupting me!"

"Well, it's not my fault, mamma, if you're always talking."—Yonkers Statesman.

Touching Him Up.
He—I think your father and mother are such charming people!

She—Yes; it makes me sad when I think that at almost any time I may be leaving them.—Puck.

Ah! Where Indeed!
"Capt. Spoonleigh, they say kissing is dangerous—because of microbes."

"Ya-as, so I heah!"

"But we hear so much of microbes—where are yours?"—Ailly Sloper.

Papa's Little Joke.
Tommy—Father, why do men get bald sooner than women?
Mr. Figg—Because they don't wear their hair so long. Will that satisfy you?—Tit-Bits.

Surest Sign, You Know!
Risie—How old is Miss Ocotit, anyway?

Edith—Heaven only knows. But I know she has begun to subtract.—N. Y. Times.

NORMAL SCHOOL,
EUGENE, OREGON
This school will open June 27 and continue for a term of six weeks to August 5. The object of the school is to furnish teachers—and those preparing to teach—an opportunity to study methods and to raise their grade of scholarship. Mr. Dixon has devoted many years to the study of the needs of the grades. He has conducted three summer schools in Wisconsin and is well prepared to help teachers in just what they need in their daily work. Mr. Haroun is president of the Eugene Business College. His work there during the past year has been highly successful. Two other men have been employed to help in the work. Write to F. S. Maroun, Eugene, or W. W. Dixon, Albany, Or., for a circular. Board and tuition reasonable.
