

Get Rid of Scrofula

Bunches, eruptions, inflammations, soreness of the eyelids and ears, diseases of the bones, rickets, dyspepsia, catarrh, wasting, are only some of the troubles it causes. It is a very active evil, making havoc of the whole system.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Eradicates it, cures all its manifestations, and builds up the whole system. Accept no substitute.

Wanted to be in Time.
Friend—There is a new cure for your disease—discovered by a noted European scientist. All the papers are talking about it.

Patience—My gracious! Get me some at once. Don't lose a day; don't lose an hour; don't lose a moment!
"Certainly. But, my dear friend, your disease is not dangerous. Why so much hurry?"
"There is not an instant to waste. These new cures always stop curing after they have been tried a few weeks."

The Hero's Plea.
"Brave youth!" exclaimed the father of the girl who had been rescued from a watery grave, "how can I repay you? How can I show my gratitude?"
"Oh, if you only will please let me off," replied the young man.
"Let you off? How do you mean?"
"Don't insist upon the usual consequences; I'm engaged to another girl."

Arriving at a Verdict.

Kushequa, Pa., Aug. 1.—(Special)—In this section of Pennsylvania there is a growing belief that for such Kidney Diseases as Rheumatism and Lame Back there is only one sure cure and that is Dodd's Kidney Pills. This belief grows from such cases as that of Mrs. M. L. Davison of this place. She tells the story herself as follows:

"I have suffered from Rheumatism for thirty years and find that Dodd's Kidney Pills have done me more good than any medicine I have ever taken. I was also bothered with Lame Back and I can only say that my back hasn't bothered me since I took Dodd's Kidney Pills."

Considering that Mrs. Davison only took two boxes of Dodd's Kidney Pills, the result would be considered wonderful were it not that others are reporting similar results daily. Kushequa is fast arriving at a verdict that "Dodd's Kidney Pills are the one sure cure for Rheumatism."

PHYSICAL CULTURE

"I've tried this physical culture business and there's nothing in it," asserted the man with the prominent cheekbones. "I played it according to a system. It was guaranteed to restore the rosette bloom of youth, fill out all hollow places, impart a feeling of energy to brain and body, induce refreshing sleep and a fine appetite."
"I arose at 6 in the morning, as per instructions—from the waist up. That is, by means of the dorsal muscles I elevated myself to a sitting posture in bed. Then I lowered myself in the same way, without any assistance from the hands, you understand. I did that eight or ten times. Then I got up entirely, opened the window a little wider and took in long drafts of pure, fresh morning air."
"Then I proceeded to the bathroom and took a cold plunge and rubbed myself briskly with a harsh towel. That done, I bent over and touched my toes without bending my knees a few times, then stood upright, and, with my heels close together, twisted my body to the right until I had a clear and uninterrupted view of my left side and then reversed the process. This was repeated until I could nearly make the circuit of myself on my own axis. Still erect, I next raised my hands above my head, brought them down extended with a backward tendency to a level with my shoulders, closed my fists and tightened my muscles until they vibrated. I did this a few times and then got down on all fours and raised and lowered my trunk—I don't mean the receptacle for my clothes, but the upper part of my body. I did this for three or four minutes. The final performance was to approach a sitting posture without actually touching the floor and then straighten up. I did that eight or ten times. Then I dressed and went down to breakfast.

"For breakfast I had tablets of uncooked wheat and a cup of cereal coffee."
"At noon I had some more uncooked wheat and muscular vibrations, and I took muscular vibrations, uncooked wheat and fresh air at night."
"Well, it didn't work, that's all. The exercises didn't make me feel energetic. They made me feel as if I needed rest. The drafts of fresh air were too drafty, and I got pleurisy mixed up with the oxygen in my lungs. I couldn't notice any bloom of youth on my cheek. I got blue all over after the cold bath, and as for sleep—well, I was too-blamed tired to sleep. My appetite also was poor."
"How long did you keep it up?" inquired his confidant.
"Three days," replied the physical exerciser. "That was a-plenty for me."

HIS NAME IS FORGOTTEN.

Man Who Started Apple Culture in the West Was Something of a Vagabond.
The history of the apple in the United States is almost contemporaneous with the settlement of the country. It is definitely known that the first apple trees planted in America were imported by the Dutch settlement at New York in 1614. Apple trees were also known to have been growing at Jamestown, Va., as early as 1622. Until within the last half century apples were grown almost solely for cider-making, as is the case to-day in France. As hard cider will produce drunkenness and a horrible katzenjammer, William Penn advised his colonists in Pennsylvania to cultivate indigenous fruits alone, as apples were then used almost exclusively for making cider or applejack.
Many of the orchards of the pioneers of the middle west were grown from seeds obtained in a peculiar way. Some man whose name has been forgotten, and who is remembered only by the appellation of "Apple-Seed Johnny," traveled through the west and scattered among the settlers untold quantities of apple seeds. He gave them away free of charge and he was given a hearty welcome at every cabin door.
The last decade or two has shown wonderful development of the large commercial apple orchards in the west and the industry has now assumed vast proportions. Apples, for instance, are exported to England and many foreign countries. Apple cores from the big drying establishments are purchased by eastern buyers and shipped to France to be used in the adulteration of wines and champagne. A large part of this champagne and wine is shipped back to America in wine casks made at Poplar Bluff, Mo., in the largest barrel factory in the world.

Developing an Old Land.
In the Holy Land the Sublime Porte has purchased all the railway concessions of foreigners except the French concession of the Beirut-Damascus lines, which is under negotiation.
His majesty has method in his progress. He will gridiron all the Holy Land with railways for his defenses, but he will make the foreigners, the tourists, pay the cost by inducing travel in his domain.
So, too, American agricultural machines, steam plows and threshers, motor mills, etc., are allowed to enter and crush out the last vestige of the methods of Father Abraham, in order that immense crops may enrich the royal revenues. Tourists who do not hasten will see mighty little of the Holy Land as described in the books. A Turkish sultan is in power who believes in great guns, great railways, great labor-saving machines, vast crops and grand revenues for the royal treasury.—Four-Track News.

Jennie's mother was expecting company, but just before train time a telegram arrived which read: "Missed train. Will start at same time tomorrow." Jennie rushed home from school expecting to see the guest, but instead was shown the message. After reading it laboriously and carefully through, she exclaimed: "Why, mamma, if she starts at the same time to-morrow, she will miss the train again."

Stage Fright and Self-Consciousness
Stage fright is an intense form of self-consciousness, but the man who is incapable of stage fright lacks the sensitive temperament to achieve great power as an artist. The man who overcomes stage fright by getting out of his own way, and by letting the character he is playing, or the music he is interpreting work through him as a clear, unselfish channel, receives new power for his work in the proportion that he shuns his own interfering selfishness.—Leslie's Monthly.
