Editorial Comment.

In one sense of the word there are no political issues this year. The stupid result of the effort of Judge Parker to give national significance to the Democratic platform by surreptitiously issuing a bogus and misleading telegram to the St. Louis convention, has sent what might have been a promising boom, into permanent retirement. The gold standard has been settled, it is no longer an issue. Yet no one has come forward with anything better. The Democrats are trying to leave off favoring free silver and attacking the supreme court. Theoretically they want the tariff revised; practically they are satisfied with things as they are. They can hardly ask us to give up building the Panama canal or to repeal the measure that gave Cuba reciprocal trade relations with us, or to go back to an antiquated and ineffective military system and a navy of wooden tubs, or to stop trying to give the country an honest and progressive administration. What then are the issues for the campaign of 1904? There are none. The policy of the government is fixed and experience has told us to leave it alone. What then is the presidential election of 1904 to be about? It is to be about Theodore Roosevelt and nothing else. The voting population has but one question to answer this year, and that question is, Do you want Theodore Roosevelt as president for four years more? No matter who the Democratic candidate may be or what he may talk about, this one question states the issue. The result as the recent election in this state indicates will be "a prairie fire for Roosevelt."

The New Switch-board.

The Independent Telephone Company will be ready for business in a few days. Three of the rural lines are already connected, Philomath, Mountain View and Monroe, while the others will be on in a few days. The operator's switch-board, the finest on the Pacific coast, arrived last week and is now in place.

It looks very much like a valuable piece of furniture, richly bed-studded with copper and ivory fixtures and miniature lights of pure pearl.

There are five different divisions used in systematizing the public service; four colors, green, white, blue and black, with one general division for county service. These little pearl lights guide the operators in their work changing color with each successive call. While the phones are being used, the lights continue to shine only ceasing to do so when the receiver is put on the hook. There are now 42 telephones up on the rural lines and all farmers are requested to avail themselves of the opportunity, and attach themselves at once. When once the phone is used, its numerous advantages will be apparent. There are 175 city instruments ordered with many more to follow.

Shot For a Deer.

Surrounded by the choking smoke of a raging forest fire, excited from the fact that he had just shot his first deer, lost from the trail and wandering about in the blinding smoke in a vain attempt to regain it, Wesley Pyle, a 19-year-old youth recently from Iowa, was shot down in the mountains near Cow Creek, Or., Friday afternoon by a gun in the hands of the Rev. S. E. Meminger, pastor of the Mount Tabor M. E. Church, Portland. Pyle was brought to Portland yesterday morning and was taken to the Good Samaritan Hospital, where he is resting easily with good chances of complete recovery. The shooting is said to have been accidental and occurred while the Rev. Mr. Meminger and the three other men in his party were hunting deer. The weapon was a rifle of 30-30 bore.

"Chick" Shannon, of Forest Grove, a former O. A. C. student and football player, passed through this city, Friday enroute to the Siletz country.

Fort Clatsop--"The Plymouth Rock of the Pacific."

In his article in the August Pacific Monthly descriptive of the expedition which fixed the site of Fort Clatsop, P. W. Gillette, the well-known pioneer refers to this historic spot:

Lewis and Clark reached and selected this point on the 7th day of December, 1805, and on the 8th began to cut down trees, clear land and build their cabins. They erected seven cabins in all; the smoke house was built first, in order to have a place to smoke and dry their meat. A storehouse was built for their ammunition, stores, etc.; a small cabin for Tonsant Chabonan, the interpreter, and his wife, "Sa-a-ja-wea," and the remainder of the cabins were used as quarters for officers and men. As soon as the houses were completed, they constructed a strong blockade around the clearing, for a protection against the Indians.

The stockade enclosed something over a half acre of land, and stood on the high land about two hundred yards back of the river; within and on the north side of the inclosure was a beautiful spring which supplied the garrison with an abundance of pure water. After the fort was completed, a number of men were set to work to survey and open a trail through the forest to the ocean, three miles west.

ALCOHOLIC SOMNAMBULISM.

Peculiar Effect on Some People of Intoxication in Intoxicating Liquors.

Dr. Francotte, of Liege, has published a carefully prepared paper, having special reference to the medico-legal relations of the somnambulism which is met with as a result of alcoholism. Somnambulism, regarded as the condition in which, during loss of consciousness, coordinated actions are carried out, of which there is no recollection afterward, is met with not only in hysteria, epilepsy, and the hypnotic state, but also as a result of alcoholic indulgence. The author relates the following case of a man who was arrested for disorderly conduct in a public place. He could not be induced to answer questions or even to speak, and appeared to be quite demented. There was no sign of intoxication, but next morning at the medical examination, he confessed that at a place far distant from that at which he had been arrested, he had imbibed a large quantity of alcohol. He had completely lost recollection of what had occurred during the next 48 hours. He confessed to other excesses in alcohol, and there was marked tremor of the hands and of the tongue. A sister had been the subject of mental disease. The author, after citing several examples, concludes that there is a species of alcoholic somnambulism in which the patient behaves to all appearance in a normal way, but without consciousness, or at least without having any recollection of what he has done. In reality, however, during such a time certain slight peculiarities of conduct are present which may easily escape the observer. The condition manifests itself only in degenerate individuals, or at least in those who have inherited some psychic weakness, and as it is one which implies the absence of responsibility, unless it is intentionally induced, it is of great medico-legal importance.—Neurologisches Centralblatt.

THE ADVOCATE'S EPIGRAMS.

Never drink, never drunk.
Swim in sin, sink in sorrow.
Duties are ours, events are God's.
There is no evil without a remedy.
Two glasses of beer are two too many.
Look before you leap, the ditch may be deep.
Beer is never as flat as those who drink it.
A drunken night makes a cloudy morning.
Saloons are toll-gates on the way to perdition.
What soberness conceals drunkenness reveals.
Wine smiles in the cup, but stings in the conscience.
Often drunk, never sober, falls like leaves in October.
Drunkenness is midnight, moderation is twilight, abstinence is daylight.

New Law in Germany.

The sixth paragraph of the new code, which will come into operation in Germany in 1900, enacts compulsory treatment of habitual drunkards, involving their being placed under a curator, who will be empowered to put the invalid anywhere for treatment until discharged from curatorship by the court. The exact description is: "He who, in consequence of inebriety, cannot provide for his affairs, or brings himself or his family into the danger of need or endangers the safety of others." This measure was first advocated in 1863 at a meeting at Hanover.
