

No Appetite

Means loss of vitality, vigor or tone, and is often a precursor of prostrating sickness. This is why it is serious. The best thing you can do is to take the great, alterative and tonic Hood's Sarsaparilla Which has cured thousands.

Commencing a Sentence.
Judge Gary, at a recent meeting of Steel Trust stockholders in Hoboken, said in the course of an argument: "Your objection reminds me of the objection a lawyer once made to a judge's sentence. This judge had given a prisoner, convicted of second degree murder, thirty years' solitary confinement, whereupon the lawyer cried out: "But, your honor, my client is old. He won't live thirty years." "Well, then," said the judge, "I'll shorten his sentence to life imprisonment, if you prefer it."—New York Tribune.

Another Crank.
"What did that new arrival want?" asked the Recording Angel.
"He asked me if I knew where he could get hold of four old halos," said St. Peter. "He says he wants to try to build an automobile."—Philadelphia Press.

Mrs. Haskell, Worthy Vice-Templar, Independent Order Good Templars, of Silver Lake, Mass., tells of her cure by the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

"DEAR MRS. PINKHAM:—Four years ago I was nearly dead with inflammation and ulceration. I endured daily untold agony, and life was a burden to me. I had used medicines and washes internally and externally until I made up my mind that there was no relief for me. Calling at the home of a friend, I noticed a bottle of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. My friend endorsed it highly, and I decided to give it a trial to see if it would help me. It took patience and perseverance for I was in bad condition, and I used Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound for nearly five months before I was cured, but what a change, from despair to happiness, from misery to the delightful exhilarating feeling health always brings. I would not change back for a thousand dollars, and your Vegetable Compound is a grand medicine.
"I wish every sick woman would try it and be convinced."—Mrs. IDA HASKELL, Silver Lake, Mass. Worthy Vice-Templar, Independent Order of Good Templars.—$5000 forfeit. If original of above letter proving genuineness cannot be proved.

MALARIA AN INVISIBLE ENEMY TO HEALTH

Malaria is a slow poison, but the most stubborn and deeply rooted when it takes possession of the system. We breathe into the lungs the polluted, germtainted air; the little microbes then enter into the system, and feeding upon the red corpuscles of the blood, soon reduce this vital, life-sustaining fluid to such a weak, watery state that the patient becomes listless, pale and anemic, and mentally and physically depressed. Malaria may begin with slight rigors or chilly sensations, followed by fever and thirst; but gradually all parts of the system are affected; the liver becomes torpid, and dark or yellow splotches appear upon the skin; the stomach fails to properly digest the food, and there are frequent headaches, dizziness, bad taste in the mouth, constipation and a general worn-out, tired feeling that only a sufferer from Malaria can describe. Other and more dangerous symptoms are apt to follow where this disease is neglected, such as nervous prostration, palpitation, sleeplessness, enlarged liver, weak kidneys, boils and risings and dangerous-looking sores and abscesses. Malaria is all the more dangerous because of its insidious and stealthy nature. It is an invisible atmospheric poison, and the germs and microbes that are lodged in the blood are propagating and increasing in number all the while, clogging the circulation and gradually wrecking the health.

What is needed in Malarial troubles is a blood purifier and tonic. S. S. S. purifies the germ-infected blood, tones up the stomach, improves the appetite and invigorates the entire system. It stimulates the torpid, sluggish organs of the body, enabling them to properly perform their functions and carry off the poisonous secretions and health-destroying matter that have been polluting the blood and clogging the circulation. S. S. S. contains no strong minerals, but is strictly a vegetable remedy, a blood purifier without an equal, and the greatest of all tonics. If you have any symptoms of Malaria, write us, and medical advice will be furnished without cost. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

Why Ned Rescued the Boy.
"That was a brave act!" ejaculated a Boston man, as he stood on the wharf in a little southern town and saw an old negro plunge unhesitatingly into the deepest water to save a very small boy who had stumbled and fallen from some piling. "A brave act and he is a hero, no matter how black the skin he wears!"
The Bostonian was foremost in the group that gathered about Uncle Ned when he climbed back on the deck with the rescued lad.
"Your son is it, old man?" he queried. "Or perhaps only your grandson?"
There was very fervent admiration in the down easter's tones as he put the question.
"No, suh; no, suh," gurgled Uncle Ned. "Dat 'll rascal ain't no kinnery er mine."
"Then it was all the braver," exclaimed the interrogator, positively baring his head out of respect for the old man's high-born courage.
"Huh," sputtered the hero, "you sho' don't think I see durn fool 'nough to let dat boy drown when he's got every speck er my fish bait in his pocket?"—Washington Post.

Prepared for Emergencies.
The proprietor of a large office building, who had a room for his own use in one of the upper stories, was surprised one morning by the entrance of a man with a valise. "Don't you want something, sir," began the caller. "In the way of a new and improved outfit for marking handkerchiefs, undergarments and—"
"No, I don't," interrupted the proprietor. "How did you get up here? We don't allow peddlers or canvassers in this building."
"You don't?"
"That's what I said."
"I saw no sign to that effect."
"Well, you'll see one the next time you come. I shall have one put up."
"In that case," rejoined the man, opening his valise with alacrity, "you will need one of these."
Here he displayed a neatly painted card over a foot long and nearly as wide, with this inscription, in large letters:
"No Peddlers or Canvassers Allowed in This Building on Any Pretext Whatever."
In recognition of his caller's cleverness, genial humor and business like forethought, the owner of the building not only bought the card, but invested in one of the marking outfits.

There Was One Who Did Not Laugh.
"Mark Twain" once expressed the following sentiments to a young woman who had not smiled at a thing that he had said during an impromptu reception in his honor at Bryn Mawr College, to which his daughter had invited him. All the young ladies but one were in a state of great glee during the humorist's address—all but one had laughed heartily at every witty remark. Just as "Twain" finished, he turned to the young woman who had not laughed, and said, in an undertone: "You are the only sensible one here. I have not said a single amusing thing. If it were not for the conspicuousness of it I would like to press your hand."—Success.

Amory, Miss., Jan. 28, 1908.
About fifteen years ago I suffered with boils, and took a course of S. S. S., which built me up and entirely cured me of the boils. Three years ago I suffered with Malaria, and remembering how much good S. S. S. had done me, I determined to try it again. I am glad to say that the results were all I could have desired. Since then I take S. S. S. every spring, and have no attack of Malaria. Last summer I spent most of the time on Tombligbee bottom having timber cut.

LIFE UNDER WATER.

Night in a Submarine—Distinctness of Supersurface Sounds.
Jules Verne has been vindicated. His dream ship, which for generations has been voyaging under 20,000 leagues of imaginary water, has at last become a reality—a submarine fact. It has been demonstrated to the satisfaction of the United States navy that Captain Nemo and his fabled Nautilus have been eclipsed, or, in nautical phrase, submerged by a modern submarine torpedo devil, the Fulton, which recently spent a comfortable night on the bottom of Narragansett Bay.
On the night following the speed and firing tests, it was decided that the habitability test should be made by submerging the Fulton at the bottom of the bay. This was the first test ever made under naval supervision to determine whether men can live aboard a submarine boat under water as safely as they could in a Newport villa. Cooking utensils as well as reading matter and other articles of comfort and necessity were installed on the Fulton during the afternoon, and at 10:43 that evening the boat was sunk, with nine men aboard. One of the first impressive features of the experience was the distinctness with which sound was conveyed to the party under water. In the small hours of the morning the crew were awakened by hearing what was afterward explained to have been the Fall River liner Plymouth touching at Newport en route from Fall River to New York.

Although the Plymouth did not pass within a mile of the submerged Fulton, several of the submerged party were awakened by hearing her plunging through the water. Prior to retiring for the night the water-impregnated company had an excellent meal, which was prepared on board, and after the boat was submerged. All the cooking as well as lighting was by electricity, and had it been necessary the boat could have been heated by the same means.
The air reservoirs were filled to their full capacity of forty cubic feet; and when the Fulton rose to the surface at 11:06 a. m., after being under water for twelve hours and twenty-three minutes, there was hardly a perceptible difference between the air of the submerged boat and that of the surface world.

As a result of these tests the naval board of inspection and survey will recommend the expenditure of the $850,000 recently appropriated by Congress for submarine destroyers of the Fulton type. This means that the United States soon will have a flotilla of a dozen submarine devils for defensive and offensive purposes during war.—New York Times.

ON THE FIELD OF WATERLOO.

Monument Erected by France to Her Soldiers Who Fell There.
The field of Waterloo, where the star of Napoleon I. forever set in a night of gloom, has been variously marked with monuments by the nations whose soldiers took part in that titanic struggle. No more attractive memorial has been erected, however, than the new one just dedicated by France to her soldiers who fell in that conflict. The French lost about 30,000 men, while the allies—English, Dutch and Germans—lost 23,000. These frightful casualties throw into insignificance the combats thus far waged in the East and which Japanese admirers would have the world believe as transcending anything preceding them. The monument is crowned by a wounded eagle, typical of the defeat France sustained in the downfall of Napoleon.

English Axes at Hastings.
At the battle of Hastings the corps d'elite of the English army were accoutred with sword and shield, and in addition to this they had hung "great hatchets on their necks, with which they could strike doughy blows." Whenever a special deed of valor is credited to an Englishman in that battle, with one exception, it is due to the ax he bears. And now what were these axes that dealt such deadly destruction on the Norman knight? As to this we are left in no doubt. Time after time does Wace call them "great axes." The head alone in one instance was a foot in length. And the Bayeux tapestry out of about twenty axes represents all except some three as having long handles. Hardly ever do we find in tapestry the short ax for one hand.

What She Said.
"George, dear," she said, with a blush, "do you know that Mr. Simpson asked me last night to be his wife?"
"Well, I like his impudence. The idea of proposing to an engaged young lady! What did you say to him?"
"I told him that I was very sorry indeed, but he was too late."—Titbits.
