AMAZING.

Judge Parker exhibits a degree of ignorance concerning almost every subject on which he speaks which is simply amazing. We say ignorance, because we do not believe him to be essentially dishonest. But his ignorance renders him pliant in the hands of those managers of his campaign who have his confidence but whose political methods are unmistakably dishonest.

The Judge has led a comparatively quiet life. It is quite within the range of probability that his place in the New York judiciary satisfied his ambition. There he had a quiet and restful position where, without any rugged effort he might win a satisfying measure of fame. He simply need give attention to the laws of New York and their proper administration. He had no occasion to burden mind and body with the study of political principles and party policies, and yet less occasion to go out into the wider field of statesmanship to seek a solution of any of the problems confronting the American statesman.

It is fairly presumptive that the Hills, Belmonts and Sheehans of the Democratic party saw that Alton B. Parker's environment had molded him to their ideal candidate for the presidency. He would know as they professed to know, believe as they pretended to believe, and do as they suggested should be done. On what other probable grounds may we explain his statements concerning the course of the government in the Philippines? In a recent speech Judge Parker said we paid Spain $20,000,000 for the Philippines, and then "have wasted $650,000,000 of the people's money and sacrificed 200,000 lives. The records show that the total expenditures there have not exceeded $200,000,000. This sum is not paid out of the United States treasury but from the treasury of the islands.

If every soldier and officer we have sent to the Philippines had died there the number would have fallen quite 75,000 below Parker's figures. The casualties, from every cause, up to the 30th of last June were but 40,354.

He made such positive charges of terrible misrule in the Philippines that the secretary of war called for a specific report concerning the allegations from Governor Wright, governor of the islands. Governor Wright is a life-long Democrat, a trained and experienced lawyer, and for four years a resident in the Philippines. He was a member of the Philippine commission, and is now the head of it. He refutes every statement made by Parker. He knows whereof he speaks. Judge Parker does not, and since we would not charge him with the immorality of lying, it is plain he has just been repeating the piece composed for him by some unscrupulous liar for partisan purposes.

Archbishop Harty has just completed a visit to all the important islands and returned to Manila. After reviewing the beneficent work of the government, he says: "This work that Governor Taft so auspiciously began and that Governor Wright continues must be carried to a triumphant conclusion." But then the Archbishop is a churchman and has been in the Philippines little more than a year. The Democratic candidate is a judge, and has never been in the islands at all,—so of course he must know. Truly it is amazing.

THE OUTLOOK.

If it were possible for Theodore Roosevelt to be a stronger candidate than he was when nominated, he has gained strength. There is no factional divisions anywhere, which involves the electoral ticket. In New York and Indiana the Democrats are making strenuous efforts to win, so that the storm center of the campaign is in those two states. In the states which, at the opening of the campaign, were classed as doubtful the Republicans have been steadily gaining strength, until it would not be surprising if they carried away every one of the group save Montana.

Dispassionately viewed it looks as if Judge Parker will be defeated as badly as Horace Greely was in 1873.

The mass of the people are prosperous. Everybody is well satisfied with the condition of things in general. General prosperity has marked the Republican administration of public affairs, and this, in large measure, is justly attributed to the policies of that party. The disasters which marked the last Democratic lease of power have not been forgotten. The Democratic party stands discredited before the people. It has no well-defined, positive policy, and its purposes are obscured by divided counsels among its leaders, to so great an extent that it may be truthfully said to be without clear determined purpose on any subject. It stands for nothing the people want, and because of this the people turn deaf ears to its appeals for restoration to power.

The whole outlook presages Republican victory.

Several valley papers are referring in a friendly way to a possible candidacy for the governorship of Dr. James Withycombe, of Washington county. Dr. Withycombe, as director of its experiment station, has done more than any other man to make the Oregon Agricultural College a success and to cause that great institution to minister toward the end for which it was founded. The institutes held all over Oregon, have brought him closely in touch with the agricultural life of the state. Dr. Withycombe is a man whose friends stay, in character and ability of high order, and a practical man of affairs, accustomed to great administrative functions. It has been his privilege to address in his work practically every community of the state. A man of ideas and lacking not in words Dr. Withycombe is a pleasing speaker and possessed of an all around faculty to accomplish things. His republicanism has been loyal to the great traditions of the party. Geographically, his position is correct. If he is successful in gaining the nomination for this most important office, his election is assured. It should be recognized that Oregon, to take the place Nature intended for her, must do so on her agricultural possibilities. No mere politician is fit to be governor of this great state. In the possibilities suggested in this immediate connection, this candidacy appears most appropriate. It is early. There will be others. But Oregon will do well to select as fit and clean a man as this to be the responsible head of her state government.—Albany Herald.

O. A. C. SHORT COURSE.

Instruction in Agricultural and Dairying for busy Farmers and Housekeepers.

The faculty of the OAC have arranged to give two special short courses of instruction in agriculture and dairying.

The agricultural course will begin January 9th. and continue ten days. Some of the subjects to be presented are horticulture, plant breeding, bacteriology, chemical elements, how plants work, hints on farming, how to conserve the fertility of the soil, drainage, soil moisture, fertilization, rotation of crops, and how to make the old farm pay.

The course in dairying will begin January 21. and continue six weeks. The mornings will be devoted to practical work in dairy rooms. Two days each will be given to butter and cheese making and work in the dairy laboratories. In the afternoon, except on days devoted to cheese making, two or three hours will be given to recitations and lectures. The lectures will treat of soil chemistry and physics, feed and feeding, dairying, breeds and breeding, bacteriology, and chemistry of dairy products.

There will be no fees charged except a deposit of $3 to cover breakage of glassware in the laboratory and the actual cost of the material used. If there is no breakage a part of this fee will be returned. The cost of the necessary books will be about three dollars. Rooms with board and lodging cost from $3 to $3.50 per week. No educational test is required of those taking either course, for the instruction is plain, practical and simple and adapted to the attainments of all. Those who are familiar with the short system of instruction regard it as a very efficient means of familiarizing men and women with the main points relating to the pursuits of agriculture and dairying. The practical and comprehensive knowledge gained enables the farmer and housekeeper more easily to reach that higher and better industrial life to which every one aspires.

Given Small Amount.

In the circuit court of Linn county, Wednesday, the day was consumed in the trial of the case of Mrs. Sarah Cleland against the Corvallis & Eastern railroad, and at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday evening the jury rendered a verdict for the plaintiff for $500. The case was brought for the collection of $10,000 for damages the plaintiff claimed to have suffered as the result of being thrown to the floor of a passenger coach on the Yaquina train in July 1903, at the Albany station by reason of the alleged neglect of the trainmen in bumping a string of cars against the coach.

The case was argued before the jury in the forenoon, and a portion of the afternoon and was submitted to the jury about 3 o'clock. The evidence in the case was that the plaintiff, a feeble old lady, had boarded the train at the C. & E. depot after arriving from Portland on the Southern Pacific. She was helped across the intervening space by a lady who was attending her and placed in a seat of the coach. Her attendant then left and the old lady arose and stood in the aisle, when the engine with a string of cars backed up to couple on to the coach and baggage car. She had been warned by some one in the coach to be seated and avoid injury. When the train was coupled, the passenger coach started back being moved from 2 to 4 feet. The lady being feeble fell and sustained what was alleged to be a serious injury. She was cared for by the railroad people and provided with every comfort. The case will be appealed.

The beautiful home of Mrs. T. A. Bell was opened Wednesday to the Ladies' Aid Society of the Congregational church for a tea. The day was perfect and the ladies took advantage of it and brought with them a goodly number of strangers. The guests were greeted by Mrs. Berchold and Mrs. Kiger and with Mrs. Bell as hostess the occasion was all that could be desired, and will always be pleasantly remembered by those present.

A REMARKABLE CURE.

Of Deafness by Dr. Darrin at the Hotel Corvallis.

For the past ten years I have gradually grown deaf from the effects of catarrh and abscesses in the ear. One ear was totally deaf when I went under Dr. Darrin's treatment and the other nearly so. I am happy to say I can hear in both ears nearly as well as ever in my life. I was very skeptical about being cured by Dr. Darrin, but he has treated me successfully, and I reside at Eddyville, Oregon, and can be referred to.
