

COLLEGE JOTTINGS

Items of Interest In and Around the O. A. C.

The Chapel was opened from 9 until 11:50 Tuesday evening and election returns were announced to accommodate the students.

There was a practice dance in the Armory last night.

In football practice Tuesday evening, three boys of the first team were hurt. They were Cooper, Walker and Pilkington.

The College walk was lined with girls watching the boys drill Tuesday afternoon. This hour is to make up the six hours drill a week that they are required to have under the new regulations. It is needless to say that the girls enjoyed it more than the boys.

A number of the football boys are going to Eugene to witness the Seattle-Eugene game on Saturday.

The Cauthorn Hall boys are to give a reception to their friends this evening. All who are to attend are anticipating a very pleasant time, as the Cauthorn Hall boys are noted as being royal entertainers.

An excursion train is to bring a crowd of Eugene people to the game a week from Saturday. There will probably be a large number from that place as sixty tickets have already been sold, and great interest is taken in the outcome of the game Nov. 19. There will also be excursions from Independence, Monmouth, and other West Side points.

Floyd Williams and Otto Simpson spent Sunday at Airlie.

Miss Edna Buster, a former OAC student, was the guest of Corvallis friends the first of the week. Miss Buster is staying in Albany this winter.

Miss Pearl Persinger, a student at OAC last year, is intending to teach this winter. She passed a successful examination in Corvallis last week.

Concerning Multnomah.

The GAZETTE is in receipt of a personal communication from Manager Watkins of the Multnomah A. A. Club Football team in reply to an article in the GAZETTE of November 4, in which it was stated that the members of the M. A. A. C. team were professionals and played ball for pay and that for this reason the Board of Regents of the Oregon Agricultural College at their last session passed a resolution denying the College football team the privilege of further contests with Multnomah.

We are pleased to acknowledge the receipt of this letter in which Mr. Watkins tells how the members of his team are employed when not playing football and states that we have been misinformed regarding the team, that none of the players are professionals and that none receive pay. New as the letter was sent simultaneously to the Evening Telegram and published three days before we go to press, it is not any longer a matter of news to the public. We might have published it in full had the proper course been pursued but at the present time we have not the space for it even if we thought it worth while to print it.

In regard to the assertions in the article that appeared in the GAZETTE of November 4, to which Mr. Watkins takes exception we desire to state that the writer of that article was present in person at the last session of the Board of Regents of OAC and heard the matter discussed. If he was misinformed in regard to the facts he receives Mr. Watkins communication as a favor and considers himself corrected. Outside of the information received as above stated we had very good reasons for supposing the statements made to be true for it is not denied that only men of experience and recognized ability are accepted as members of this team and that the one thing and the main thing in their being selected is that they shall play ball and sacrifice all things else.

It matters little what each of the players does as a side line, but lawyers, physicians, and artisans who are building up a business or maintaining one, can hardly afford to play football, without pay which of all things incapacitates a man for interest along other serious lines.

Mr. Watkins admits having received a letter from Manager Stimpson stating that "owing to a resolution passed by the OAC Board of Regents, forbidding the college to arrange games with other than college teams, he did not think a game would be possible this season, although the players themselves would be glad to meet Multnomah."

In view of the fact that Mr. Watkins has this letter in his possession and has known that a game could not be arranged, it is difficult to understand why Portland papers will persist in abusing the OAC boys for not playing Multnomah, when to do so would mean expulsion from College.

Meeting of Fire Department.

At the meeting of the Corvallis Fire Department, Monday night, the officers elected at a previous meeting were duly installed. They are President, J. F. Allen; secretary, Harold Woodcock; treasurer, J. A. Harper; chief, J. K. Berry; asst. chief, E. R. Lake.

The most important business laid before the Department was a proposition by W. D. De Varney of the Independent telephone company to install a system of Fire Alarms for the city. His plan contemplates the adoption of a code of signals to be given in case of alarm, by the central office on the fire bell over the City Hall. A person having an Independent phone would simply need to ring up central and cry "fire." Central would immediately cause the big bell to ring out the signal which located the fire. Mr. De Varney proffered to institute such a system and keep the lines in perfect order for all time at actual cost of now establishing the system, which he believes will not exceed $150 and probably reach but $100. The members of the company are greatly in favor of the plan, and will ask the Council to authorize and adopt it. Should Council refuse to do so it is probable the Fire department will take hold of the matter.

Mr. De Varney gave the fire company free telephone service and placed a phone in their hall.

In commenting on football matters in our last issue, the statement was made that the OAC management had written Albany offering her a football game for today. We received our information from a well-known business man of the city who stated that Manager Stimpson had so informed him. Mr. Stimpson states, however, that he has sent no communication to Albany in regard to the matter.

The Prohibition Vote.

The vote on prohibition Tuesday in Benton county shows that the four precincts in Corvallis polled 395 votes for, and 238 against the measure, a majority of 157 in favor of it. The eleven precincts outside of Corvallis cast 536 votes for and 426 against the measure, a majority of 110 in its favor, thus carrying the county for prohibition by a majority of 267. But five of the outside precincts voted for prohibition, Moore, Alsea, Philomath, Soap Creek and Bellfountain. Since the prohibitionists polled but 123 votes in the county it appears that of the 267 votes cast for county prohibition, 144 were from other parties. A further analysis of the vote shows that 137 men voted who either did not care to express their choice or are wholly indifferent to a question of great moment.

Warning to the Public.

Where do you get your laundry work done? Do you know that improperly washed clothing is one of the most fruitful fields for the breeding of all kinds of diseases and germs? Do you know also that the Corvallis Steam Laundry has a scientific process for washing clothes that renders them absolutely clean and free from all contamination? The laundry, which is home industry has every modern convenience for doing only strictly first-class work. Go down to the laundry building and see for yourself, the proprietor. Mr. Johnson will be pleased to show you every detail of the work, the building is open to the public and any one may go who desires.

Mr. Johnson makes all his own soap, bluing, bleaching, starching, etc., and oversees the entire plant with personal care. Most of the work is done by machinery and in such a way that the most delicate fabrics are handled with great care. There is no tearing or stretching, or breaking of buttons.

The work of finishing and wrapping is done by a group of neatly dressed and handsome young ladies. Mr. Johnson's pay roll averages $250 a month, which is a fair indication of the amount of work done for the public, and the popularity of his plant.

Laundry arrives daily from all points on the C. & E. and from points on the S. P. as far distant as Dallas, Monmouth and Independence. There was a time when people were probably justified in sending their laundry to Albany and other points but Corvallis now has one that can not be excelled anywhere in the Willamette Valley.
