Lonesome All Round.
The ark had been about ten days on its journey, and the occupants were by this time well acquainted.
"It's a dreary time," said one of the two fleas. "Here we are compelled to satisfy ourselves with but two dogs to live upon."
"I'm getting lonesome," said one dog to the other. "There are not enough fleas to lend zest to life, and the microbes are all camped on the two cats." —Baltimore American.

A Sure Sign.
A physician driving past a place where stonemasons were at work on some monuments, called out:
"Hard at work, I see. You finish your gravestones as far as 'In memory' and then you wait, I suppose to see who wants a monument next."
"Why, yes," was the answer, "unless somebody is ill and you are treating him, and then I know just how to go on."—N. Y. Times.

Poor Girl.
She dresses up in mannish clothes and yet she isn't happy.
Because the styles she has to wear come to her only after they're discarded by the chappies.
—Chicago Record-Herald.

THE PLEASURES OF HOME.

"My mamma makes Fido sit up and beg for his breakfast."
"Oh, my mamma makes my papa do that every day."—Chicago Tribune.

Lenten Sacrifice.
The dear girl sought some way of keeping Lent.
And chose her special sacrifice with care; She thought and thought, and then in good intent Gave up the chappie whom she couldn't bear.
—Louisville Times.

Why She Was Provoked.
"He stole a kiss when I wasn't in the least expecting it."
"And you were provoked, of course."
"Provoked doesn't half express it.
I was downright angry. Why, half of the enjoyment of a pleasure lies in the anticipation of it."—Chicago Post.

Just What She Needed.
"What's this thing?" asked a man who was inspecting a music emporium.
"That? Oh, that's used on violins.
We call it a chin rest."
"Gimme one!" exclaimed the visitor.
"S'pose it would work on my wife?"
—Tit-Bits.

For His Wife's Benefit.
"She says she's going to marry me when we grow up," said the boy, proudly, referring to a little playmate.
"Pay no attention to her threats, my son," returned his father, with a covert glance in his wife's direction.—Chicago Post.

A Test Desirable.
The Flance—George and I never had a quarrel.
Her Friend—Oh, I think you ought to have one before you are married.
Otherwise you can't be quite sure whether you are going to have your own way or not.—Judge.

Possibly She Did.
"How do you like my new waist?" she coyly asked.
"Very pretty, indeed," he answered; "but I see a wrinkle in it that I will press out if you will let me."—Somerville Journal.

Two Points of View.
Poeticus—There isn't much atmosphere, music or poetry in business, is there?
Practicus—Naw. An' there ain't much business in music, poetry and atmosphere.—N. Y. Times.

He Forgot Himself.
Mr. Crimsonbeak—That man is the worst hen-pecked husband in the country!
Mrs. Crimsonbeak—Don't speak that way of your neighbors; you're forgetting yourself.—Yonkers Statesman.

Two Kinds of Enjoyment.
Father—What is the use of my earning money, if you spend it as fast as I make it?
Son—That's all right, father. I enjoy spending it just as much as you do making it.—Brooklyn Life.

Mad Her Suspicions.
Mrs. Church—They say your husband squeezes his employees.
Mrs. Gotham—Well, do you know, I've had my suspicions of those two blond typewriters of his!—Yonkers Statesman.

The Financed Phase.
Man (in theater, to woman in front)—Madam, I paid one dollar and a half for this seat, and your hat—Woman (calmly)—That hat cost $40.—N. Y. Weekly.

A Distraction.
"So your wife is a great admirer of imaginative stories?"
"Yes, she likes fiction in novels; but —she says there is nothing novel about my fiction!"—Baltimore News.

The Older the Better.
Miss—That fellow is a soft mark.
Stella—Yes, men are like shoes; the older they get the easier they are.—N.
Y. Herald.

Try for Health

222 South Peoria St., CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 7, 1902.
Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie or sit down nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption.
It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui.
I told her I had not, and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value.

Sergius Dunbar

Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make one more effort to be well. You need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today?

The Youth's Companion as a Gift.

What other Christmas present can you choose that will give so much pleasure for so little money as a year's subscription for The Youth's Companion? The Holiday Numbers and the Calendar, joyously welcomed on Christmas morning, making a good gift in themselves are but the forerunners of a whole year's feast to come. The mind is entertained with the numbers in hand, and the imagination revels in the pleasure that each new week will bring until Christmas comes again.

If you desire to make a Christmas present of The Youth's Companion, send the publishers the name and address of the person to whom you wish to give the companion, with $1.75, the annual subscription price, stating that it is to be a gift. The publishers will send to the address named, in a parcel to be opened Christmas morning, all the remaining issues for the year 1904 published after the subscription is received, including the double holiday calendar for 1905, lithographed in twelve colors and gold, and subscription certificate for the fifty-two issues of 1905.

Full Illustrated Announcement, fully describing the principal features of The Companion's new volume for 1905, will be sent to any address free. Address, The Youth's Companion, 144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Mass.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate gland. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease.
Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port, Mo., "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years although I am now 91 years old."

with a very bad cough on her lungs which Dr. J. H. Mason and I cured completely."

CRUELTY TO HORSES.

Faithful Animals Are Subjected to Blinders, Check Reins, Curb Bits and Docking.

The horse, the most useful of all animals, is the one marked for the most of men's ill-treatment. For the most part housed in ill-lighted, ill-ventilated and ill-smelling quarters, worked to his full capacity, cased for only to the degree that selfish interest prompts, the animal is delivered over as the unprotected object of the unrestrained passions of man. The average man fails apparently to understand that animals have a nervous system, among them to a marked degree the horse, and that were he to govern his own temper he could, with a little patience, get control of the horse's nervous system, and make out of it a servant vastly more efficient than it is under the system in which he beats and jerks and drives it to distraction.

A short walk in any city will discover many blind horses. Why? There are no blind cows, comparatively. And yet the sight of the one naturally is as good as that of the other. The difference is simply that the horse from the beginning has been abused, ill-housed, overworked and worked under conditions that have driven him blind. His eyes are shut in by blinkers at each side, for which there is no use but to satisfy the caprice or fashion of man.
So, his vision interfered with and deprived of air, the wonder is that with the other treatment he gets as is not blind oftener. Besides this, in other cases, his neck is almost pulled out of joint by overhead check reins that raise his face to the air and turn his eyeballs to the glare of the sun unprotected.
Or, on the other hand, deprived of check rein, he is bitten with a curb that pulls his jaws to his breast and tortures him in this fashion. And, then, according to the spreading fashion of the day, he is subjected to the most cruel of all practices, docking, which not merely tortures in the practice, but leaves him to the torment of flies for the rest of his life. It is the merciful man that is merciful to his beast, and if it is the merciful that obtain mercy, we have, as a people, some way to come before we get that blessing.—Indianapolis News.

THE FAITHFUL MULE.

He Will Be Accorded Unusual Honors and Prominence at the St.
Louis Exposition.

In case the plans of the chief of the live stock department of the world's fair meet the approval of the management, the mule and his kin will be accorded unusual honors at St. Louis next year. A lack of knowledge exists as to the varied utilities of the mule, but this display at the fair will be an eye-opener in this respect.

The mule has invaded the north to stay, and we confidently expect quite a demand from the northern farm. Never were the three great mule-raising states, Kentucky, Missouri and Tennessee, so raked and scraped for mules of all classes and ages as at the present time.
Not only are the farmers who raise and those who feed sure of handsome profits, but the dealer counts on a wide and sure margin. These latter come from every part of the country to buy anything of the long-eared type, from the smallest colt to the fancy teams and high-priced jacks. Choice colts are selling at $50 to $100, while fancy teams bring $250 to $600.

Good-sized two-year-old mules are put to work and do good service until 25 years old, and are not subject to disease.
Mules are more easily broken to work than horses, and who ever heard of a team of mules running away and tearing things up? If they run, it is a very short and wild run.

Who ever heard of a balky mule? No team will carry a buggy along smoother and nicer than a span of small, well-broken mules. In fact, a $300 span of mules will do more work than a $600 pair of horses.

The mule is easily raised, easily broken to work, docile, trusty, hardy, and the best friend the farmer or teamster has in the way of work animals.— Journal of Agriculture.

HOG-RINGING DEVICE.

How a Sixty-Five-Year-Old Farmer Manages to Handle Animals Without Help.

I am 65 years old, and can ring a 200-pound hog easily without any help.
I take a twist, which is simply a stick

TRICK FOR HOLDING.

With a hole bored in one end and through which is tied a loop made of small rope, as the cut shows. I watch my chance and while the hogs are eating in the trough slip the noose around upper jaw and twist the stick tight enough so the hog will stand quiet.
When twisted tight enough I can hold stick between my knees while I reach in pocket and get the ring and pinchers.—N. Hen, in Farm and Home.
