CHRISTMAS GAME PROBABLE.

Multnomah Again Trying to get a Match with O. A. C.—Board of Regents Consent Necessary.

Again there are negotiations for a football game between OAC and the Multnomah Club eleven. Manager Stimpson is endeavoring to gain the assent of the Board of Regents, and already seven out of the thirteen members have given their consent, and it is thought the others will also acquiesce. A resolution adopted by the regents prohibits the OAC boys from playing with any club teams, but on account of the unusual conditions incident to the present season it is thought the board will suspend the rules for this particular game.

Football men from all over the state would like very much to see a game between these two formidable teams on account of their being so near a match for skill and strength; and it is thought OAC would give Multnomah a closer game than any other college eleven in the Northwest.

OAC has shown a marked superiority over her playing of last year. The record of last season shows that the Farmers were defeated by Seattle, 5 to 0; by Albany 6 to 0; by Eugene 5 to 0; and were held down to a scoreless game by P. U., while they only won two games during the whole season, they being with Nevada by a score of 15 to 0, and with Washington Agricultural College by 6 to 0.

But this season only one game was lost and that by only one point. Her record this season shows that she won over the Alumni by 11 to 0; Portland Medics 22 to 0; Seattle 26 to 5; Utah 45 to 0; and the last game, played with Eugene was lost by OAC, the score being 6 to 5. The total score for the Agries. for last season was only 21 points to the opposing teams 31 points. This season OAC has 97 points to her credit with only 11 points against her, which has placed the Farmers in the front rank of the college teams of the Northwest.

With the exception of Pilkington and Bower, fullback and tackle, and perhaps Rhinehart at quarter, this year's team will be kept intact for next season. It will be a hard matter to fill the places vacated by these redoubtable three, as they are no doubt the best men in the state for their positions. However, the outlook for a more successful season next year is more than flattering, especially if Coach Steckle can be induced to remain as coach for the team. It is believed that the 1905 team will be the equal if not the superior of any team in the Northwest.

Manager Watking of Multnomah has offered the OAC team a cash guarantee, or a liberal percentage of the gate receipts for the Christmas game and the OAC boys are all anxious for the game, so as to recoup as much as possible a treasury that has been heavily drawn upon through the withdrawal of three teams for games that had been scheduled for the season.

If the game with Multnomah is successful arranged, it is likely there will be enough people from Corvallis and other points, who will want to see the struggle to insure reduced rates on the railroads.

COLLEGE JOTTINGS.

Items of Interest In and Around the O. A. C.

Lieutenant and Mrs. Quinlan spent Saturday and Sunday in Portland.

Last Friday afternoon the first Junior rhetoricals occurred. The orations were all good.

The last hour classes did not recite Friday on account of the Junior rhetoricals.

One of the Dallas College faculty was a visitor at chapel Monday morning and led the devotional services.

There was a military parade on the College campus Monday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. All the cadets were in uniform and presented a fine appearance.

Prof. Kent is making a test of the food value of vetch. He has the best cured vetch for his experiment and his object is to find out the actual amount of solids used by different cows.

The basket ball girls leave this week for their game with the Cottage Grove girls, which they play Friday night, and on Saturday night they play the Roseburg girls who were defeated here two years ago. Our girls have a good team and are confident of winning. Prof. and Mrs. Trine are to chaperone the girls.

Prof. Horner announced in chapel Friday that the Farmers' Short course would begin in January. He said that arrangements had been made to make this course both interesting and profitable. Several prominent farmers from Eastern Oregon are expected to be present. This is a good way for farmers to take a short vacation and at the same time receive some very profitable information about their work.

The Junior party which occurred Friday night in Miss Snell's room was a very pleasant affair. The guests of honor were the Seniors. The following literary program was rendered: Piano solo, Grette Harrington; address of welcome, Alice Edwards; response, Karl Steiwer; recitation Luella Van Cleve; mandolin duet, Una Stewart and Marion Stokes; recitation, Miss Minnie Phillips; reading, Ronald Esson; vocal solo, Arthur Boquet. The guests were then set to hunting stamps which were hid in various parts of the room. The one who found the most receiving a stamp album for a prize. Other games were engaged in until a late hour when dainty refreshments of ice cream, cake and punch were served. During this time several amusing stories were told until the warning light brought the evening to a close. Prof. and Mrs. Trine the chaperones.

OREGON AGAIN LEADS.

Annual Report of Land Commissioners Shows Arrival of Many Homeseekers.

The annual report of Commissioner Richards, of the Land Office, just issued, contains a series of elaborate tables showing the extent and character of business transacted at the various local land offices during the last fiscal year. Among other things brought out by these tables is the remarkable decline in the number and extent of timber entries made last year, as compared with the year previous. The falling off in the Pacific coast states is largely attributed to the enforcement of Secretary Hitchcock's order suspending timber and stone entries in Oregon, Washington and California. The order continued in effect up to December last, at which time it was set aside by the President.

It appears from the commissioner's report that the aggregate receipts from the disposal of public lands in Oregon during the 12 months which ended June 30, 1903, amounted to $2,015,526. This was high-water mark, not only for Oregon but all over the states. Never before, and probably never again, will the revenue from public lands in any one state reach this total in a single year. The total receipts from Oregon lands in the year which ended June 30 last amounted to only $1,442,576, a drop of more than $600,000. Yet in spite of this decline, Oregon still retains its place at the head of the list of public land states, and by reason of its excessive receipts is credited with having contributed more than any other state in the reclamation fund. Practically 90 per cent of the total receipts finds its way into this fund.

Accidentally Killed.

B. D. Barnes, whose home is near Granger, was so severely injured about 5 o'clock Friday afternoon that he died at 9 o'clock the same evening.

Mr. Barnes with one of his sons was at work on the Rickard farm, digging a ditch for drainage purposes. The section of the ditch in which he was working was about 9 feet deep, and quite narrow. The ground being soaking wet was very easy to crumble away at the top and in some unaccountable manner, began caving in, and before Mr. Barnes could get out of the dangerous place, he was completely buried alive. His son ran for help, but it was fully a half an hour before the unfortunate man could be removed from the ditch. A physician was hastily summoned, but of no use as the poor fellow was beyond earthly aid.

Deceased was 55 years of age, and a wife, one daughter and four sons are left to mourn his loss. The funeral occurred at the North Palestine church at 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon, and was attended by a large number of friends.
