LIVER TROUBLES

"I used Theford's Black-Draught a good medicine for liver disease. It cured my son after he had spent $100 with doctors. It is all the medicine I take."—MRS. CAROLINE MARTIN, Parkersburg, W. Va.

If your liver does not act regularly go to your druggist and secure a package of Theford's Black-Draught and take a dose tonight. This great family medicine frees the constipated bowels, stirs up the torpid liver and causes a healthy secretion of bile.

Theford's Black-Draught will cleanse the bowels of impurities and strengthen the kidneys. A torpid liver invites colds, biliousness, chills and fever and all manner of sickness and contagion. Weak kidneys result in Bright's disease which claims as many victims as consumption. A 25-cent package of Theford's Black-Draught should always be kept in the house.

"I used Theford's Black-Draught for liver and kidney complaints and found nothing to equal it."—WILLIAM COFFMAN, Marblehead, Ill.

THEFORD'S BLACK-DRAUGHT

ONE OF LONDON'S BRIDGES.

When the Southwark Span Was Constructed There Was Something of a Turmoil.

At first sight there appears nothing romantic about the Southwark bridge, whose reconstruction is now being debated. But there is a wonderful little story behind it, after all, says St. James' Gazette. There was the inevitable fight over its construction. Street traffic and the necessities of pedestrianism might go hang so long as the traffic of the river was not interfered with; and it was to get over the opposition of the corporation and conservators that the Rennies had to make such enormous spans—the largest ever attempted in the history of engineering up to that period. This necessitated the use of blocks of granite greater in extent than had ever been quarried since the days of the ancients. It could not be done, masons declared. 'Sir John Bennie on his part swore that it could and should. He went to Aberdeen, and at Peterhead found a block of granite weighing 25 tons. That he would have whole, he said.

By excessive wages and unprecedented largesse of the native wine, men were got to cut and detach the mass from its moorings. But then it had to be taken four miles along the road to port. Such a thing had never been heard of. Sir John managed to fake up a carriage, and after a journey of a day and a half, part of which was spent in digging the monster out of collapsed roadways, 12 or 14 horses got it to the vessel which, after extraordinary difficulties, the engineer had succeeded in chartering. There were no cranes to lift such a weight. They had to build a scaffolding in the bed of the harbor to get the block aboard. Eventually the thing was accomplished, and although every mariner save the one who had undertaken the commission believed that the enterprise would send the vessel to the bottom, the granite was safely brought to London, and a new era in engineering inaugurated. One curious feature in the history of Southwark bridge is that it was opened at dead of night. As the clock of St. Paul's chimed midnight it was declared free to the public.

LONDON'S SOCIETY SPIES.

They Are Employed to Keep Tab on the Wealthy and Post the Tradesmen.

The out-of-work man in the smart set, who formerly lent himself, for a consideration, as a "guinea pig" director, "toted" for tradesmen on commission, or sold furniture, country houses, or motor cars, has found a new profession. It is that of "society spy."

According to a correspondent of London Truth (who signs himself "A Shopkeeper and a Gentleman"), the "society spy" is invaluable. If a West end man is in difficulties, or his wife has overtaxed his patience, the "society spy" informs the trade at once.

If a West end man who has been for years on the brink of bankruptcy wins a large sum at the card table there are intimate friends who profit by making the good fortune known. At a time when there are so many who are rich, or appear to be rich, whose names are unfamiliar the shopkeeper might make serious mistakes were it not for the information which is so given.

The tradesman is only too happy to pay for information which enables him to avoid a severe loss.

Tradesmen in former days seldom ventured to ask such questions; and their customers, as a rule, supported each other. Now, says Truth's informant, the difficulty shopkeepers have to contend against is that most of their customers, especially if they are intimate friends, have not a good word to say for each other. Modern English society is to-day an "association of enemies who profess to be friends."

Kite-Flying Animals. Animal locomotion sometimes shows itself in forms not unlike kite-flying and parachuting. The "parachuting animals" are mammals—flying squirrels of various kinds—birds (the pigeon), reptiles, flying fishes. Among the "kite-flyers" are spiders and flies.—Natural History of Animals.

Lives It Over.

Following is what the editor of the Capital Journal had to say on reading "Stories of old Oregon," by Geo. A. Waggoner—he said much more, but lack of space keeps us from reprinting it, greatly as we should like to:

In reading the book, one feels the very heart pulse of the early pioneer must go with him into the situations that try men's souls, sorrow with him in his failures and rejoice with him in his successes. When he crosses the Missouri river with an ox team and starts across the great desert, we are with him. Silent, but conscious of being helpful when rivers cross his path, we assist in converting the wagon bed into a boat, and in swimming the cattle across; cheerfully we stand guard with him at night, while his wife and children sleep, confident of his ready hand and watchful eye when the painted savages, "wild Arabs of the plains," attack him. Our soul, however, timid it may be, is aroused to stand with him in defense. We are thirsty with him on the great desert, hungry when his food gives out, and we rejoice when he reaches a land of plenty. Even yet, we can not leave him. He holds us still. His grand personality enthalls us. We love him for what he has endured, and rejoice with him when he sees his efforts crowned, and the desert and wilderness land transformed into the very garden spot of the world, teeming with wealth and beauty and pulsing high with hope for the future. Every man, woman and child will be pleased, interested and made better by reading Mr. Waggoner's book.

Rare Woods Wanted.

Henry L. French is very, very anxious for people to contribute samples of wood large enough to give at least an 8-inch surface in order that they may be made into panels for use in the Benton county exhibit at the Lewis and Clark Fair. These woods will form a part of our exhibit and it is necessary that they be brought in soon, as the time is short until the fair opens. While these woods will form a part of our exhibit, they will be so manufactured that they will be useful in the exhibition of grains, grasses and other things.

F. P. Sheasgreen, of the Central Planing Mills, has already started on the task of manufacturing these panels and all parties who will contribute woods for this purpose are requested to leave said samples of wood with Mr. Sheasgreen. It is not necessary that the woods be seasoned, for, if green, they will be steam treated. Now, bring along your chunks of wood. Don't hesitate in the matter, for affairs are in such a state that delays are apt to be costly. Here is a list of a few of the woods desired:

Elder, chinquapin, curly maple, pear, apple, peach, or any other choice woods, and in as large pieces as it is possible to secure. Now, don't forget this but hustle your samples along. Don't mind about your reward for this—it is sure to come. It will be looked after later. Now act.

BURGLARS PREFER FRAME.

Picture Presented to Rodin, the Paris Sculptor, Is Disposed Of in Unique Manner.

An American has brought from Paris a story of Rodin, the sculptor, which the Boston Transcript relates.

"Rodin," he says, "was presented with a raw daub of a painting a month or two ago by a conceited young student. He accepted the painting gracefully, but he was much annoyed a week later to hear that the student was going about declaring:

"Rodin says the painting I gave him is better than the Degas over his chimney."

"Rodin decided to take down this conceited young liar. So meeting him one day at the Cafe de la Paix, he said, in the hearing of a good many mutual acquaintances:

"My house was robbed on Sunday night. Did you hear about it?"

"No," said the youth. "Was much taken?"

"A half dozen suits of clothes, some silver, and—you know that painting of yours? Well, they cut it out of the frame and—"

"Hurray!" the youth interrupted, excited and pleased. "Why, my fortune's made. The newspapers—"

"They cut the picture out," Rodin continued, "and went off with the frame."

A Thousand Dollar's Worth of Good.

"I have been afflicted with kidney and bladder trouble for years, passing gravel or stones with excruciating pain," says A. H. Thurns, a well known coal operator of Buffalo, O. "I got no relief from medicine until I began taking Foley's Kidney Cure, then the result was surprising. A few doses started the brick-dust-like substance and now I have no pain across my kidneys and I feel like a new man. It has done me $1000 worth of good." Foley's Kidney Cure will cure every form of kidney or bladder disease. Sold by Graham & Wortham.

Frightful Suffering Relieved.

Suffering frightfully from the virulent poisons of undigested food, C. G. Grayson, of Lulu, Miss., took Dr. King's New Life Pills, "with the result," he writes, "that I was cured." All stomach and bowel disorders give way to their tonic, laxative properties. 25c at Allen & Woodward's, druggists.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, Rock Port, Mo., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 91 years old." Sold by Graham & Wortham.

Good Health to the Children

Children especially are fond of dainties, and the housekeeper must look carefully to their food.

As good cake can be made only with good eggs, so also a cake that is healthful as well as dainty must be raised with a pure and perfect baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable in the preparation of the highest quality of food. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, doughnuts, crusts, etc., and what is more important, renders the food wholesome and agreeable to young and old.
