Notice of Final Settlement.

Notice is hereby given that the undersigned, administrator of the estate of James M. Wilkinson, deceased, has filed in the County Court of Benton County, State of Oregon, her Final Account as such administrator, and that Monday, the 5th day of June, 1905, at the hour of two o'clock P. M., has been fixed by said Court as a time for hearing of said account and for the settlement thereof. Dated April 21, 1905.

Sarah A. Wilkinson, Administratrix of the Estate of James M. Wilkinson, deceased.

Try for Health. 222 South Peoria St., CHICAGO, ILL., Oct. 7, 1902. Eight months ago I was so ill that I was compelled to lie or sit down nearly all the time. My stomach was so weak and upset that I could keep nothing on it and I vomited frequently. I could not urinate without great pain and I coughed so much that my throat and lungs were raw and sore. The doctors pronounced it Bright's disease and others said it was consumption. It mattered little to me what they called it and I had no desire to live. A sister visited me from St. Louis and asked me if I had ever tried Wine of Cardui. I told her I had not and she bought a bottle. I believe that it saved my life. I believe many women could save much suffering if they but knew of its value. Surgeon Dunder. Don't you want freedom from pain? Take Wine of Cardui and make no effort to be well. You need to be a weak, helpless sufferer. You can have a woman's health and do a woman's work in life. Why not secure a bottle of Wine of Cardui from your druggist today? WINE OF CARDUI

WATER NEAR, YET MANY DIE

Countless Travelers Perish in Sight of Springs on Great Southwest Deserts.

Countless men and women have perished in the deserts of the southwest for lack of rain. Yet had they known how to find it the water was there, often so close that a shallow well would have brought it, says the author of "The Land of Little Rain." There were numberless living things all about them, night-traveling creatures, whose well-worn trails would have led them to it.

It is the opinion of many wise and busy people that these little creatures of the desert pass the ten-month interval between the end and the renewal of winter rains with no drink. Your true idler, however, with days and nights to spend beside the water trails, will not subscribe to such a theory. The trails begin far back in the scattering sands and hills, and converge in a one-span-broad, white, hard-trodden way in the gully of the spring; and why trails if there are no travelers in that direction?

The land is scarred by these thin, far roadways of rabbits and what-not of furry-folk that run in them. Venture to look for some seldom-touched water-hole, and so long as the trails run with your general direction, you can be sure you are right. But if they begin to cross your path at never so slight an angle, to converge toward a point to left or right of your objective, no matter what the map says or your memory tells you, trust to the trails. Their makers know.

FOUR INCHES IN AN HOUR.

Recent Downpour at Santiago de Cuba Is Violent—Storm Statistics from Other Points.

The violence of tropical rainstorms is proverbial; yet never before has one been scientifically registered in which so much water fell in so short a time as at Santiago de Cuba recently. An English engineer, who gauged the rainfall, found that it was at the rate of over four inches an hour and that between seven and ten o'clock in the evening more than a foot of water reached the ground.

The storm covered nearly 300 square miles, and in places was heavier than at Santiago. The Guaninicum and the Platinillo rivers each rose 33 feet. The flow over the waterworks dam, three miles from Santiago, showed that at least two and four-tenths cubic feet of water were coming from each acre of the watershed each second. It is such sudden deluges as this which created some of the most difficult problems for the engineers of the isthmian canal to solve, especially on the gulf side of the Nicaraguan survey and in the Chagres valley. Among longer rains of greater severity one is recorded in the Khasi hills, in India, in which 30 inches of rain fell each day for five successive days. Genoa, Italy, has a record of 30 inches in 24 hours, and Gibraltar of 33 inches in 23 hours.

HIS KIN NEED NO LICENSE.

Soldier of Napoleonic Wars Could Enter Any Trade Without Special Permit.

The new licensing bill recalls the fact that the right to sell alcoholic liquors without a license was a privilege formerly granted to old soldiers and their children as the state's reward for their services. An act was passed in 1816 authorizing any officer, marine, mariner or soldier who had served in the Napoleonic wars to carry on any trade without let or customary license. The privilege was also extended to their wives and children. Seven years ago a dealer in wine spirits and beer was prosecuted at the Mansion house for pursuing his business without a license. He pleaded that he was the son of a Peninsular veteran, exempt under this old statute, and had carried on his unlicensed business for 40 years without official objection.

Racial Illiteracy.

Illiteracy among negroes is about seven times as common as among whites, and this ratio between the races has not altered materially in the last ten years. Illiteracy among the southern negroes is more than four times that among southern whites.

ORIGIN OF THE MADSTONE.

Potent Power Popularly Believed to Exist in the Mysterious Substance.

Where did the madstone come from? No one seems to know. It does not belong to the mineral kingdom, nor can it be assigned to a place in geological formations. Its composition is not definite and it may possibly be found upon any beach or in any gravel pit, and the supply is always equal to the demand, says the Chicago Chronicle.

There are even now many of these precious talismans in this country, and "the believers in their efficacy always know where the nearest is kept." One of them has been the property of an Ohio negro and was placed after the death of the owner in the state library at Columbus. There it was recently applied to the wound caused by the bite of a supposedly rabid dog. The dog recovered and the woman to whom it was applied died of blood-poisoning, caused by the unclean contact.

Such a stone was kept in the Virginia state penitentiary for years and was open to all comers for application to the bite of a mad dog or other allied wounds. One such (perhaps the same) was at a later date sold for $39.

Still more famous was that brought from Russia in 1887 by a physician of that country who settled in Nevada. It had previously been exploited in that country for at least a century and a half, a fact supported by documentary evidence. The document was written in native Russian and as nobody concerned could read it everybody implicitly believed what they were told of it. The owner offered the stone for sale for $1,000 and a joint stock company was formed for the purchase. A number of shareholders advanced $1 each and the balance was made up by a farmer who became its keeper when the purchase was completed. Its fame still flourishes and it is said that an offer of $3,000 has been refused for it.

LARGE ENOUGH TO COUNT.

Important Bearing of Little Things in the Affairs and Lives of Mankind.

"The longer I live," observed the cashier of a bank downtown, relates the New York Press, "the more I realize the importance of little things. Here is a case in point," he continued, referring to a letter he had just received. "A few weeks ago I had two callers in my office, one an excitable, elderly man, a big depositor, and the other the president of a manufacturing concern and the writer of this letter. This manufacturer left and soon afterward the excitable man discovered that someone had taken his hat. He stormed about the place until one of the clerks suggested that perhaps the manufacturer had taken it by mistake. The excitable man demanded his address and started out to hunt him down and give him 'a piece of his mind.'"

"The other day I read a letter from the manufacturing concern and was astonished to see among the names of its officers that of my excitable caller as vice president. My curiosity was aroused and I made some inquiries. Now I learn that the excitable man was so pleasantly received when he called for his hat that his anger cooled at once. Then he got to talking about the manufacturer's business and the money he was making. A few days later he invested heavily in the concern and was elected its vice president. And all because of that little mistake about a hat."

Japanese Maxims.

Though thou should heap up a thousand pieces of gold they would not be so precious as one day of study.

Human eyes look down from Heaven; commit no wrong, however hidden.

Men Past Sixty in Danger.

More than half of mankind over sixty years of age suffer from kidney and bladder disorders, usually enlargement of prostate glands. This is both painful and dangerous, and Foley's Kidney Cure should be taken at the first sign of danger, as it corrects irregularities and has cured many old men of this disease. Mr. Rodney Burnett, J. C. P. U. M. O., writes: "I suffered with enlarged prostate gland and kidney trouble for years, and after taking two bottles of Foley's Kidney Cure I feel better than I have for twenty years, although I am now 67 years old." Sold by Graham & Wortham.
