A HINDU LETTER.

G. Mukerji, O. A. C. Student, Writes on Conditions in India.

When the christian missionaries first came to India they were so astonished to find the singular coincidences in the lives and teachings of Sree Krishna, Buddha and Christ, that they satisfied their questioning minds by assuming, as Sir William Jones said, "That the devil, foreseeing the advent of Christ, originated a system of religion in advance of His and just like it."

Readers of history of symbolism know that the cross as a religious symbol existed in India ages before Christ was born. Prof. Wilson, in his celebrated essay on Swastika, or Cross, which was read before the Smithsonian Institute, not only supports the theory of migration of the symbol of Cross from East to West, but believes that it migrated earlier than the 6th century B. C. I can prove from the historical researches conducted by eminent scientists, with facts and figures, that the Word and Cross both came from the Indo-Aryan religion.

The main purpose is to show that Hindus don't find anything new either in religion or morality from the deep fundamental principles of the ordinary idea of religion. They are almost all similar to our own, and as we are an older people we feel justified that all that has come later, being as yet nothing new and better, we will have nothing to do with at present. If anything new comes off and is denied by our native people, surely we ought to be called just what we are represented today.

It is not my intention here to make a propaganda in these questions unless anyone wants to find it, but the point is, I am driven to inform the good people here what we really are, simply because these people are often told such erroneous and queer stories by the ignorant and uneducated folk who visit our country.

And, as American people are spending millions of dollars for carrying on this sort of work, against which the very people for whose good it is professed, protest. Even of those who have been converted, how many have come to you and asked you to do this way? On the contrary, sincere well-wishers of India have been receiving due help from the people themselves. Now look to Mrs. Annie Besant (an English lady), Col. Olcott (an American); they have been working for the last 30 years, yet they have not appealed to foreigners for money nor sympathy. Yet their philanthropic work is daily gaining ground. We, young men are coming to you for education in arts and industries that we may improve our backward state of material prosperity and have permanent effect upon our people.

It is therefore, that when seasons of good crops come most of the so-called baptised young and old folk return to their own homes and live as they used to live.

When a man is in a helpless condition it is against the principles of any chivalrous nation—not to speak of chivalrous christian knights—to attack him. Now, when a man whose mind and intellect is yet undeveloped and not free from ignorance, to ask him to, and try to make him, believe in anything, however good, blindly, is inconsistent with American freedom and the American flag. In view of immense sums of money you spend and are trying to spend annually, without appreciation and with protest, the matter merits close examination.

Some ignorant people talk to you about our caste, but this will remain misunderstood unless you try to be unprejudiced—and then look at it. They say the Hindu boys do not go to foreign countries for fear of losing caste. Now I wish you to ask the people of Corvallis and Portland, How many letters do we receive? Then come and examine what they contain. All their authors are anxious to come to your educational institutions and sit at the feet of the teachers—the uncanonized saints of America—and build up their deficiencies and wants. It is this liberal American education, practical and scientific, that we need.

You may hear of the school started by missionaries; I again ask you to examine what they teach—all, without exception, the old English literature and scriptures, purely literary and theoretical. What can they do with this? The age is industrial. But, alas! we cannot get it from England, for our industrial development means the stoppage of the markets for English goods. We looked for assistance in industrial development to the missionaries, but they say they do not mean christianity for industry, but for the gospels of Bible and Scriptures.

Now, dear friend, you cannot spend your money better than by spending it in our country. But if you want to help us, and bring true christianity unto us, bring and educate those youths right in your midst. They will learn more by your personal and actual life than by a thousand years of preaching and missionary work. Therefore, it is my purpose to tell you again and again that if there be any who are feeling so much for our people let them assist in educating our people in your midst. You cannot do better than this.

Furthermore, it will be highly appreciated and will do good for the people. The money which you spend will not go out of your country—it will be spent under your personal direction. Believe me.

Yours sincerely,
G. MUKERJI.

Their Gratitude Expressed.

We, your committee to whom was referred the matter of drafting resolutions to express the thanks of Ellsworth Post, No. 19, G. A. R., to those that participated in Memorial Day exercises, submit this as our report:

Whereas, the 39 anniversary of Memorial Day has passed to the rear and the march of the 40th has commenced, not only by the G. A. R., but by every one through the length and breadth of the land who has a relative or friend resting beneath the little mound in the church yard; therefore be it Resolved, First, that the thanks of Ellsworth Post G. A. R., are hereby tendered to the M. E. Church for use of their building wherein to worship on Memorial Day, Sunday, and to hold our services on Memorial Day evening. Second, that we extend the thanks of the Post to Rev. Geo. H. Feese for the strong and beautiful sermon delivered for the benefit of the Post on Sunday morning. Third, to Lieut. Quinlan, the College cadets, for their participation in the parade to the cemetery, and to the College band for their inspiring music on the parade and at the church in the evening. Fourth, to Prof. Holmes and the children who took part in the exercises and parade, to the merchants for closing their places of business, and to the public in general, that took part in the services, we thank you. Fifth, we thank Rev. M. S. Bush, for his thoughtful and eloquent address in the M. E. church on Memorial Day evening on the "Cost of Freedom," and to the choirs for their beautiful songs, and to all others that took part in any way to make this last memorial the grandest and best that has ever been held in Corvallis by the Post.

Ninth Grade Exercises.

Considering counter attractions the entertainment by the ninth grade pupils of the Corvallis public school, at the Opera House Thursday evening, was well attended. Our people are always interested in matters pertaining to the public school.

In all ways those participating acquitted themselves with honors. The invocation was by Rev. Hurd; the salutation was Sadie Bell and Nora Thomson was valedictorian. The class prophecy was read by Bertha Cramer, and there were recitations, instrumental and vocal solos and duets, and essays, and other features—all interesting.

The presentation of diplomas was made by F. L. Miller. He caused considerable amusement by the statement that since his election as a school director, three years ago, he had been engaged at odd times on the speech that he calculated to deliver on this occasion. But as the time drew near he found himself unprepared—not alone this, but there were those on the board who would steal the honor from him. Between coping with those on the board who would take from him the glory of presenting the diplomas to the graduates and giving due attention to Buff Orpington chickens, his speech on being written out seemed so full of chicken that his wife cooked it, therefore on the present occasion he was speechless, but he was determined to present the diplomas just the same—and he did.

During the evening Miss Mabelle Bee Keady sang a very nice solo and was well received. Mrs. Edwin Green played her accompaniment. Additional music was furnished by Overlander's orchestra.

This closed the schools for this year. There was, in the work of the pupils in the two entertainments given by them last week, evidence of good instruction in every detail. In consideration of this fact Prof. Holmes and all of his assistants should be pleased with the showing made by their pupils.
