

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Dr. Pernot went to Portland yesterday to attend the medical congress.

Walter Wilson, wife and daughter, went to Portland, Tuesday, to visit the Fair.

L. D. Knighten, of Peoria, was a Corvallis visitor last Monday and was attending business.

Dr. G. R. Farra went to Portland, Tuesday, to attend the congress of the medical association.

Jack Arnold and his mother went over to the coast a few days ago to try the ozone of that locality.

E. W. S. Pratt has been remodeling and improving his jewelry store during the past few days.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Martin arrived home, Monday, from a week at the Exposition. They report it to be very fine.

Once again the song of the mow-er can be heard on all sides. From various parts of the country comes the report of abundant crops.

Miss Mary Winn, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. F. A. Heneye, of this city, for the past month, returned, Wednesday, to her home in Portland.

D. C. Rose went to McMinnville, Tuesday, to attend the quarterly meeting of the directors of the Oregon Fire Relief Association. Mr. Rose is one of the directors.

Tuesday, Mrs. Geo. Dickey went to Portland to attend a married daughter, who is ill with the measles. Tomorrow, two daughters, Myrtle and Rose will go to Portland, the former to secure treatment for her heart.

W. E. Paul went to Portland Wednesday, to meet his son-in-law, Frank Conover, formerly of this city. Mr. Conover is now living in Butte, Montana, and is doing exceedingly well. He was down this way on business and Mr. Paul embraced the opportunity to see him. Mr. Paul will see the Exposition before he returns.

Prof. J. B. Horner arrived home last Tuesday evening from a trip through Central and Eastern Oregon. He has good reports of crop prospects in that section, and, as good crops make it possible for farmers to send their children abroad to school, it naturally follows that the professor is counting on a good attendance at OAC from Eastern Oregon this fall.

Subjects for brief sermons at the Christian Church for the next few Sunday evenings are as follows: July 16, "Ruth and Orpha;" July 23, "John, the Beloved Disciple;" July 30, "Jonah, the Runaway Preacher." Next Sunday morning the subject will be, "Part Second of a Sermon on 'The Greater Work Than Miracles.'" Other services will be held as usual.

During the past few days, workmen have been engaged at the task of laying out and preparing for a new walk on OAC's campus. The new walk starts from a point in front of the administration building, and, diverging from the other walks, takes a north-easterly course across the campus to the street near the Denman property. When graded, graveled and rolled thoroughly it is thought that it will be treated to a coating of granite sand as have the other walks. Really this new walk is much needed.

Brookside, the pretty home of Hon. and Mrs. E. H. Belknap, was the scene of a pleasant gathering of relatives and friends, Tuesday evening, July 10th. Mrs. I. B. Anderson, of Spokane, Wash., sister of Mr. Belknap, and Mrs. Emil Wommelsdorf, formerly of Helena, Mont., and sister of Mrs. Craven P. Persinger, were the guests of honor. It was the eve of the departure of the ladies, Mrs. Anderson returning to her home and Mrs. Wommelsdorf going to her new home at Salem, Ore. Mrs. Belknap, the charming hostess, had arranged an interesting program; the refreshments were delicious and the enjoyable evening will be long remembered by those who were present.

H. E. Spencer, who is farming the Joseph Yates place across in Linn county, reports an experiment that he made in the manner of putting in grain last February and March. It seems that during this period he plowed 55 acres, half with a common plow and the remainder with a double disc plow. The grain is now well advanced and Mr. Spencer declares that the grain put in with a disc plow is far superior to that on the ground prepared with an ordinary plow. The same kind of seed was used and all conditions were the same with the exception of the difference in plows. Mr. Spencer says that the disc plow does better work than the ordinary plow—pulverizes more. Here may be something worthy the consideration of our farmers.

O-to Her-e is home again from his trip to Eastern Oregon.

Ray Cady departed yesterday for Heppner, Eastern Oregon, where we are informed he has a good position in a laundry awaiting him.

Sunday services at the United Evangelical church. C. T. Hurd, pastor, will preach. Morning subject, "Christian Activity;" evening subject, "The Rod of Moses."

Last Sunday a party of ten or fifteen people had a hayrack ride from this city to Sulphur Springs. A little dust, but enough fun to make up for it, is the verdict.

Wm. Baker and family, accompanied by Mrs. Daisy Overlander, went to Alsea, Wednesday, to camp out for a couple of weeks, during which time they will fish and pick berries.

Wednesday, a party consisting of William Bogue, wife and son, Misses Cecil and Louise Erwin, Mr. and Mrs. M. Bauer and others started for Cascadia, where they are to camp indefinitely.

P. M. Zierolf, who for a week or longer has been in Portland taking treatment for his rheumatism, writes that he is improving a little now. Immediately after going down his condition got worse.

Presbyterian Church, M. S. Bush, pastor. Bible School, 10 a. m. Worship, 11 a. m., subject, "The Deceitful Way." C. E. meeting, 7 p. m. Evening service at 8, subject, "Christ's Call and its Meaning."

We are in receipt of the annual catalogue of the State Normal School at Weston, Eastern Oregon. The catalogue is replete with fine and attractive illustrations and there is much data of value to prospective students.

Prof. A. L. Knisely, of OAC, has been in Portland during the week in attendance at the Pure Food and Dairy Association, before which body he read a paper. A very nice half-tone of the professor was produced in the Oregonian of Wednesday.

Help the school children in their endeavor to raise funds for a school library. They are to produce "Blue Beard" in the Opera House at 2 o'clock this afternoon. Go and be one of the crowd. Applaud and whoop them up—you are certain to enjoy yourself.

The Ladies' Aid Society of the United Evangelical Church will give a Lawn Social next Tuesday evening on the lawn of their church to which the public is most cordially invited. There will be music through the entire evening and ice cream and cake will be served.

J. J. Cady, of the firm of Hollenberg & Cady, arrived home, Wednesday, from a business trip to the bay. W. C. Swann, who for the past ten days has been engaged in placing furniture in a large hotel over there for the above-mentioned firm, came home yesterday.

Mrs. F. A. Heneye expects to leave in a few days for Portland from where, after being joined by her mother and sister, Mrs. J. W. Winn and Miss Mary Winn, of that city, she will proceed to Long Beach, Wash., there to remain through the rest of the summer season.

Cal Thrasher, who was a month in Eastern Oregon in the interest of the Oregon Fire Relief Association, arrived home for business last Wednesday. He has good reports for that section. Pendleton, he says is a very lively and wide-awake city. Crop prospects are fine. Altogether he had a profitable trip.

The following dispatch was sent the Telegram from Albany a few days ago: During the races of the Albany Driving Association last week, Mrs. Clarence Ireland, of Corvallis, was seriously injured and a valuable horse killed, as the result of a runaway. Mrs. Ireland was standing upright in the buggy watching a race, when her horse became frightened and began plunging, throwing her out. The horse then dashed forward against a dray team, the buggy shaft striking one of the horses hitched to the dray, piercing its side. The animal died as a result of its injuries.

Next Wednesday, President L. B. Baldwin, of the college of Philomath, accompanied by his family, will depart for Albion, Wash., where he has accepted the presidency of Edwards College. President Baldwin has been in charge of the college at Philomath for several years and under his management the school has prospered. Prior to coming here, he was President of the college at Albion, to which position he is now returning. He was president of that college for four years before coming to Philomath. Since coming here he has made many friends who are loath to see him depart. W. T. Wyatt has been elected to the presidency of the College of Philomath and has the matter of acceptance under advisement.

Council Notes.

Council met last Monday evening in regular session and attended such matters as came before it. But few warrants were ordered drawn. When it came to the matter of funds Mayor Johnson called Councilman Rennie to the chair and made quite a speech on the financial condition of the city and stated emphatically that he would not sign any warrants that were not required by strict necessity.

J. F. Yates having resigned as city attorney, E. R. Bryson was appointed to fill the vacancy.

The resignation of E. P. Greffoz as police judge, was considered and J. F. Yates was appointed to the position. This office in all likelihood would have been declared vacant anyway as Mr. Greffoz had been absent without leave beyond the ten days allowed by charter.

In tendering his resignation, Mr. Greffoz intimated that probably some errors would be found in his accounts, as he had been suffering ill health for some time and his books he feared were muddled. In consideration of this statement, together with the fact that he had vacated the office, it was deemed wise to expert his books. For this purpose Geo. E. Lilly, W. G. Emery and P. Avery, all councilmen, were appointed a committee to examine Mr. Greffoz books. It is reported that these gentlemen will find some shortage.

Mary A. Eggleston.

At the Good Samaritan hospital, Portland, Oregon, on July 2, Mrs. Mary A. Eggleston departed this life. Her death was caused by cerebral apoplexy.

Deceased was born in Iowa, March 27, 1859, and was aged 46 years, 3 months and 5 days at the time of her death. The year that she was born her parents crossed the plains to Oregon, arriving here on the 20 of November and settling near Turner. In October 1861 her parents moved to Benton county and settled a couple of miles south of Philomath.

In 1871 her parents moved to Corvallis, where she resided until her marriage with Wm. N. Eggleston on March 17, 1876. Since her marriage she has resided in Corvallis, Eugene, Independence, McMinnville, Oregon City, Lebanon and Portland.

She leaves two sons, William H. Eggleston and Claud J. Eggleston. She is also survived by four sisters, Mrs. F. J. Hendrickson, Mrs. Jacob Turner, Mrs. J. N. Crider and Mrs. H. D. Car-nine, all of Portland, Oregon; also three brothers, William Emrick, of Merlin, Oregon; George W. Emrick, of Corvallis, and Joseph H. Emrick, of Portland.

Benefits to Follow.

Last Tuesday George A. Waggoner arrived home from Portland where he had passed the previous two weeks in the interest of his book, "Stories of Old Oregon."

Mr. Waggoner speaks most favorably of the Fair and says success is stamped everywhere. The attractions are all high-class and the attendance is good. The mass of the people are from the border states and the great middle west.

Many of the people he declares are looking for homes. They are generally most favorably impressed with what they have seen, not alone of the Exposition and Portland, but of the surrounding country. A large percent of the people go into the country and sum things up.

The climate is another feature that appeals strongly to those from other sections. As Mr. Waggoner sums things up, the Fair is certain to prove a good thing for the state.

J. L. Underwood has given to Adams Bros. the contract for building for him a very fine 10-room house on the lots he recently purchased in the B. W. Wilson block. This is an excellent location. Work, we are told, is to begin at once.

A special train, bearing A. B. Hammond and an official of the Chicago Northwestern R. R. passed through this city yesterday morning for the bay. It is understood that these gentlemen are to pass over the entire system of the C. & E. and rumor has it that their trip has a bearing on the proposed extension of this road.

The C. K. Spaulding log drive is passing this city. The greater part of the drive is just above the city a short distance. The logs in the main river "jammed" on one of the riffles and the water was forced through the new channel. It was forced through in such volumes that many of the logs were carried through this channel and came out into the main river again just above the Fischer mills. These logs were mostly from the McKenzie river and are balm and ash. The balm we are told is to be taken to the paper mills at Oregon City while the other logs will find their way to the Spaulding mill at Newberg.
