Roy Rober, who is interested in making a good exhibit for Benton county, came up from Portland, Sunday. He will remain here a day or two yet gathering fruit and other material for the exhibit. He says that at present our display is not what it should be, but he is hopeful that in the course of a couple of weeks it will be a credit to the county.

Mrs. Murray, of this city, has just received a letter from her son, Leslie, who is now in charge of the construction work on a large building to be used for a parochial school at Ashley, Pa. Her son writes that he has just been awarded a scholarship in the University of Pennsylvania for the year 1905-6. His attainments made it possible for him to enter the Junior year at this great university. He will study architecture, designing and kindred arts. Leslie has certainly made a name for himself.

On the way home, Sunday evening, while just the other side of Summit, the engine drawing the excursion train from the coast broke down and delayed matters so that it was between 12 and 1 o'clock at night before the train arrived in this city.

John Meeker, who resides near Corvallis, left yesterday for San Francisco, whither he goes to take treatment for cancer of the eyes. Mr. Meeker's right eye became effected at a previous time, but he obtained relief for a period of fifteen years. For several months past both eyes have troubled him. His many friends here join him in the hope that he may soon obtain relief from the inroads of the disease.

Prof. G. Taillandier and wife arrived home last week from a two weeks' trip to various places in the northern part of the state. They visited the Exposition and have only words of praise for what they beheld. They went up the Columbia by boat through the Cascades. This beyond a doubt is one of the finest trips of its kind in the world.

Next they attempted the ascent of Mt. Hood. Mrs. Taillandier only got as far up as Cloud Cap Inn, but the professor and five others made the summit. The professor was much pleased with this climbing business. They paid a visit to Long Beach, Wash. Altogether they enjoyed a very busy two weeks.

Last Friday night David Huggins, who was in town from the southern part of the county had the misfortune to have a horse die. The animal was at Abbott's feed stable when death occurred and there it remained a considerable portion of Saturday. The reason for this is that the city has no place to bury animals that die within its limits. Mr. Huggins had quite a lot of trouble to find a place to bury the carcass. In the past Chief Lane has made several attempts to find a place suitable for the purpose named, but without avail. Two or three people entered into a sort of contract, but at the very last they would go back on the proposition. This is a bad state of affairs. However, the authorities are doing what they can to reach a satisfactory termination of this problem.

S. C. Holmes, an uncle of Prof. Holmes of this city, arrived in Corvallis last Saturday for a few days' visit with the family of his nephew. He is from Washington, D. C., and for nearly eighteen years was connected with the United States treasury department. Some seven years ago he resigned his position. Ten years ago he made a tour of the Pacific coast from Mexico to British Columbia. He is now visiting the Exposition, to which place he will return within a few days. When through with sight-seeing at the Fair he intends going to Southern California, where he will pass the winter. Mr. Holmes says that were he a young man he should chance his fortune on the Pacific coast.

A matter that is being discussed to some extent and bids fair to become of considerable interest is power of some sort to propel the ferry across the Willamette river at this city. No fault is found with the ferryman, nor anyone else, for the condition, but it is claimed that when one depends upon the elements in a case of this kind they are not insured good service. For instance if the wind is from the north it is almost impossible to cross the stream. According to present conditions, the ferry is claimed to be a slow coach at best. Another item in the way of improvements that is discussed is the possibility of getting illuminated dials for the court house clock and placing electric lights in the tower so that no one will stay out after hours. While these are simple matters of more or less discussion we believe they are matters worthy of serious consideration at the hands of our authorities.

Several Attachments.

At the Greffoz store everything in the main is yet unchanged. Many call for watches and other articles of jewelry left there for repairs and in some instances there is trouble due to the impossibility of identification. It is certainly a bad mess.

Three attachments of property in the store received service last Thursday. The first service was on account of Thos. Whitehorn, the second was brought by John Rickard. Both of these parties are of Corvallis. The third paper placed in the hands of Justice Holgate was in behalf of Tutill, a Portland house.

We are informed that these claims aggregate $500 or more. As to the value of the stock in the store it is a matter of conjecture in a large measure as we know of no invoice having been taken. The estimates of several people who have been more or less about the store places the value of the stock remaining at from $500 to $1000. The prevailing opinion favors the lesser sum. From any way one looks at this matter it is deplorable.

Crew Reported.

When last heard from Capt. Kemp and crew were sailing merrily down the Willamette for Portland in their new launch, recently constructed in this city. The following report came from Independence by Westside "wireless."

The three Kemps, Al, William, and Adrian, of Corvallis, have demonstrated that a gasoline boat may be operated on the upper Willamette river. They passed Independence Wednesday in a little 30-foot boat that skimmed over the water like a duck. A 6-horse power Superior engine was used and the boat was sent along by a stern propeller. The boat had 28 feet seating capacity and before leaving Corvallis. Mr. Kemp stated he had pulled 22 passengers up stream with greater speed than the boat could make empty. It has a canvas cover and presents a neat appearance. The craft was taken to Portland to learn if there is a demand for it on the river or Guild's Lake during the Fair. If not, it will be brought back up the river and put on the run between Salem and Independence.

Corvallis 7, Siletz 6.

When amateur baseball boys held down a nine inning game to the score of 7 to 6, spectators generally get the worth of their money. Our Corvallis ball-tossers went over to Newport yesterday and played a match game with a picked nine from Siletz, Toledo and Alesa, and the result proved that our boys can put up a good article of baseball.

One week ago last Sunday the Siletz team won from Corvallis in a game at Toledo by a score of 9 to 8. The third and deciding game will be pulled off in Corvallis, provided enough 25 cent tickets can be sold around town to pay the expenses of the visiting team.

Simpson, of Elk City, was on the box for Siletz and Stanton, of Alesa, played second. Jim Rieb, our Corvallis southpaw, officiated for us with young Chambers at the receiving end. Both pitchers were unusually steady at critical points in the game. Rieb only passed one man to first during the game and Simpson but two.

The line up was:

I had given up hope of living when a friend recommended Foley's Kidney Cure.
