EMPLOYER, LOOK PLEASANT

Show Yourself Master of Situation Instead of Slave by Wearing "Smile That Won't Come Off."

If you are an employer do not go about your place of business as though you thought life were a wretched, miserable grind, says O. S. Marden, in Success.

To say nothing of its being your duty to make the lives of those who are helping you to carry on your business as pleasant as possible and as full of sunshine as possible, it is the best policy for you to pursue.

Many a man who could have been a success sleeps in a failure's grave to-day because of his gloomy, mean, contemptible disposition and manner.

FOLEY'S KIDNEY CURE

THE STRONG POINTS.

President Talks on Monroe Doctrine and Corporations.

Last Friday, before the Chautauqua Assembly of Chautauqua, N. Y., President Roosevelt delivered a very able address.

No just and orderly government on this continent has anything to fear from us.

Under no circumstance will the United States use the Monroe Doctrine as a cloak for territorial aggression.

If a republic to the south of us commits a tort against a foreign nation, the Monroe Doctrine does not force us to interfere to prevent punishment.

This country would not certainly be willing to go to war to prevent a foreign government from collecting a just debt.

I do not want to see any foreign power take possession of the custom-houses of an American republic and the alternative may be that we shall be forced to do so ourselves.

The ethical element is by degrees entering into the dealings of one nation with another.

If it meets the views of the senate, we shall ourselves thoroughly examine all claims (against Santo Domingo) and see that none that are paid are improper.

Some of the creditors who do not dare expose their claims to honest scrutiny are endeavoring to stir up opposition to the treaty both in Santo Domingo and here, trusting that it may be possible to secure either the rejection of the treaty or the amendment in such fashion as to be tantamount to rejection.

If the arrangement is terminated, chaos will follow, and if chaos follows this Government may be involved in serious difficulties with foreign governments over the island, or may be forced to intervene in the island.

Some corporations, and very wealthy ones at that, exhaust every effort which can be suggested by the highest ability, or secured by the most lavish expenditure of money, to defeat the purposes of the laws on the statute books.

Many of these combinations by secret methods and protracted litigation are still unwisely seeking to avoid the consequences of their illegal action.

It has become our conviction that in some cases, such as that of at least certain of the beef packers recently indicted in Chicago, it is impossible longer to show leniency.

Further legislation may be more drastic than I would prefer. Also, it must be distinctly understood that it will be because of the stubborn determination of some of the great combinations in striving to prevent the enforcement of the law as it stands, by every device, legal and illegal.

Either they will have to submit to reasonable supervision and regulation by the National authorities, or else they will ultimately have to submit to governmental action of a far more drastic type.

I believe that all corporations engaged in interstate commerce should be under the supervision of the National Government.

The only way effectively to meet this attitude on their part is to give to the executive department of the Government a more direct and therefore a more efficient supervision and control of their management. Our ideal must be the effort to combine all proper freedom for individual effort with some guarantee that the effort is not exercised in contravention of the eternal and immutable principles of justice.

An Irrigation Movement.

The matter of redeeming arid lands is one of greatest importance and is receiving unusual attention from the government.

Stephen A. Lowell, of Pendleton, Or., who is acting president of the Oregon Irrigation Association, recently appointed many well-known citizens from various parts of the state to act as a reception committee on the convention of this august body.

Dear Sir: The State of Oregon is especially honored by the assemblage within her borders of the National Irrigation Congress at a time when the subject of irrigation is receiving continental-wide attention.

is likely to hold.

The State Irrigation Association will hold no distinctive meeting, but will co-operate with the Lewis and Clark Exposition management and the city of Portland in welcoming the National organization, and furthering its work.

Married in Spokane.

A very pretty home wedding occurred Tuesday evening August 1st, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Simpson, 824 West 3rd Avenue, Spokane, Wash., when their daughter, Miss Pearl, became the bride of Claud E. Emory.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. L. Nagle Foster, of Seattle, before the relatives and close friends of the contracting parties. The rooms were prettily decorated for the occasion with vines and flowers.

The bride wore a gown of pale green over pink silk. Miss Maud Emory, the bridesmaid, wore a gown of white lace over silk. Roy Emory, brother of the groom, was best man.

Mr. and Mrs. Emory will be at home to their friends at 824, 3rd Ave., after Aug. 15. They were the recipients of many valuable presents at the time of their marriage, among the presents being a fine upright piano which was the gift of the bride's parents.

The above account reached us a couple of days ago. Mr. Seymour Simpson and family resided in Corvallis for several years leaving here not long ago for Spokane. Many friends in this city will remember them.

Hope Not Dead.

In times passed many of our citizens cherished the hope that the West Side railway might be extended south from Corvallis. Indeed, this hope has not wholly died.

Some men thought that ultimately it would be run on to Junction City, there to make connection with the main line from Portland to San Francisco.

Others held to the belief that eventually it would run on down through a rich and untouched section of country to Coos Bay. It is now assured that Coos Bay is to have a road, but not at present from this part of the world.

EDITOR GAZETTE:

I wish Uncle Jesse Applegate was alive and could see the railroad about to build to Coos Bay from Drain.

The survey of final location from Drain to Coos is down Elk Creek some five miles and inside of 30 days it is expected grading will begin.

Yours truly, Jas. A. Sterling.

From Waterville

Under date of August 11, Johnny Irwin, who is now in the employ of the Columbia Grain Co., with head offices at Seattle, Wash., wrote the following letter from Waterville, Wash., to J. D. Wells of this city:

Dear Friend: You will be surprised to hear that I am located at this place, when I left there for Krupp. It was all through a mistake that I come to be at this place, too.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought Bears the Signature of Dr. J. C. Fletcher. In Use For Over Thirty Years CASTORIA. THE CENTAUR COMPANY, NEW YORK CITY.

Krupp and not come here at all. I can't tell you how thankful I am that the mistake occurred.

Waterville is the headquarters of the company out in this part of the country and Mr. Thompson, the manager here, has always run it alone but he wants to be out a great deal so decided to keep me in the office here.

Most of the water is good and plenty of it. Ira Hunter's well is about 40 feet deep and seems to be inexhaustible and I don't think I ever drank better water outside of a mountain stream.

Crops are good and prices fair and I think there will be all kinds of money here this fall, but all I can get is what I am able to earn.

If I stay here and you or Telt ever want to change your location nothing would give me more pleasure than to have you come up and stay awhile and look at the country.

With best regards to all the boys, I remain, Sincerely yours, J. F. IRWIN.

Meaning of Terms.

"Terms Used in Forestry and Logging" just published as Bulletin No. 61 of the Bureau of Forestry, affords the lay reader an insight into a strange vocabulary.

The first half of the pamphlet is devoted to forestry. There we may read all the technical terms in good use, from "absolute forest land" to "yield table."

On turning to the logging terms which are listed in the last half of the bulletin, we come across some truly remarkable expressions—terms which, though evidently derived from slang, are now in good use among woodmen either throughout the country or in the region denoted in each case. There the uninitiated may learn the distinction between a "ball hooter" and a "boom ra" between a "bull cock" and a "cattyman" and find that none of them refers to any lesser animal than the logger himself.

HEALTH is the Most Important
