WANTS TO ERECT FACTORY.

Corvallis People Invited to Lend Assistance.

Last Monday evening I. B. Owens and son arrived in this city from their home in Central, Kansas. They came to Oregon at their leisure, stopping at various points to investigate and inspect certain parts of the country traversed and the conditions thereof.

Shortly after their arrival in this city it became known that Mr. Owens was the inventor of what he terms the "20th Century Washing Machine." He had with him a couple of machines and Tuesday he had them on exhibition at the Occidental corner. Wednesday morning the father and son did out a couple of washings. One of the washings was for the family of Mark Fruit and it was done in such a way that Mr. Fruit is lavish in his praise of the washer. He claims that the washing was not only well done, but was executed with great expedition.

Mr. Owens declares his machine will wash any kind of a garment from the finest lace creation to a horse blanket and do all work equally well. A child 8 or 9 years of age can operate the machine and the weekly wash of an average family can be done in from an hour to an hour and a quarter.

In construction it is most simple. There is nothing about it that can tear the clothes, as the water is simply forced through the garment by pressure and suction. In operating one has but to turn a crank.

It is the desire of the inventor to start a factory in this city. He is determined to start a factory somewhere on the coast and has decided first of all to investigate affairs in Corvallis. He says he is greatly pleased with our city and everything he has observed hereabout so far. As regards a factory on the coast he declares there is money in the proposition for several reasons. Machines can be constructed cheaper here on account of our great wealth of wood; other material can be secured almost as cheaply here as anywhere and it is an easy matter for our foundry to manufacture the necessary castings.

When asked what capital would be required to start and operate a factory, Mr. Owens said it could be done easily on $3,000. He said that he intended to interview the business men and determine their ideas of the feasibility of the scheme. Let ten men put in $250 each and the thing will be a sure go. The inventor himself will take stock.

He has established factories in New York, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri, Kansas and other states, he says, and they are all mighty good paying investments.

He declares that, on account of the great field offered on the coast, there is unusual opportunity for a factory were it located in Corvallis. In reality, there may be something worth while about Mr. Owens' proposition. At any rate it is well worth the time spent in looking into this matter. What this place needs is a few factories, something to create a pay roll and bring money into this part of the world. Think it over.

The Corvallis Communication.

In order that our readers may judge for themselves as regards the authority on which the Telegram "scorched" us a few days ago, we reprint the article sent from this city, as follows:

Corvallis, Or., Aug 12.—Intending excursionists from this county to Newport tomorrow are wondering if the troubles regularly experienced on the home coming Sunday night trains from the beach will be repeated tomorrow evening.

Last Sunday two drunks got into an altercation with the conductor on the rear coach and a fight ensued, which lasted until the latter, aided by the brakeman, dragged them the whole length of the train and threw them into the baggage car. Every few steps the train officials would slap or pummel the drunks, and they, in turn, filled the air with curses and vile epithets. The whole affair was considered disgraceful in the extreme and an outrage upon the respectable people present. Two of the glass doors in the coaches were shattered during the fracas. The drunks, when finally landed in the baggage car, kept up their fighting and uproar until some of the passengers on the train went forward and put an end to it.

At Wren station a couple of young toughs jumped off of the train and rocked the coaches, missing a couple of windows by a few inches, then jumped on again without hindrance. Ladies were sitting at both windows and would have been seriously injured had the missiles hit their mark. Such occurrences are becoming common.

Every Sunday at this season of the year an excursion train is run from the Valley to Newport and return, and usually carries a crowd of from 300 to 400 people. One conductor and two brakemen are the only trainmen provided to handle the crowd, and as a consequence the crowd handles itself. Newport, the terminus, is wide open on Sunday, and everybody so inclined is drunk by the time the train is ready to return.

Public is Aroused.

The public is aroused to a knowledge of the curative merits of that great medicinal tonic, Electric Bitters, for sick stomach, liver and kidneys. Mary H. Walters, of 540 St. Clair Ave., Columbia, O., writes: "For several months I was given up to die. I had fever and ague, my nerves were a wreck. I could not sleep and my stomach was so weak from useless doctors' drugs that I could not eat. Soon after beginning to take Electric Bitters, I obtained relief and in a short time I was entirely cured." Guaranteed at Allen & Woodward's drug store; price 50c.

THE DEER LAW

Points on Which Every Hunter Should be Posted.

Just at present the forests are alive with hunters after deer and beyond doubt, many hunters are not well informed regarding the law according to which they are granted the privilege of killing game. The following was written by A. E. Gebhart, secretary of the Oregon Fish and Game Association, and so far as deer hunting goes is a safe guide to go by:

There seems to be some misunderstanding as to the law now in force regarding the issuing of tags and licenses, and as to the time of the open season for deer. The following is the present law, briefly stated:

The sale of deer, elk, moose, mountain sheep or spotted fawn, is absolutely prohibited.

Licenses—It is unlawful for any person to hunt in this state without first having procured from the County Clerk of one of the counties of this state a license therefor, which license the hunter must have with him, and in his possession at the time of hunting. A license procured in any county is good for the entire state. All licenses expire on December 31 of each year. Fees: For residents, $1; for non-residents $10. The law says, "No license shall be required of a man or members of his own family for permission to hunt upon his own lands." Therefore beware of hunting beyond the boundaries of your own land without having procured a license.

Seasons—Spotted Fawn—Closed at all times. Elk—Closed until September 15, 1907. Buck Deer—Closed between November 1 of each year and August 15 of the following year. Female Deer—Closed between November 1 of each year and September 1 of the following year.

Night hunting and use of dogs prohibited.

Limit—Five deer in any one open season.

Tags—Any person lawfully killing deer during the open season, not to exceed five deer, must make an affidavit before any Justice of the Peace, setting forth the date of the killing of each deer and that the same were killed by the affiant. The Justice of the Peace thereupon issues to the affiant one leather tag for each deer. These tags must be securely fastened with wire, one tag to each deer skin. The tags are issued to the County Clerks by the State Game Warden, and are by them distributed to the Justice of the Peace.

It is evident from the foregoing, as the law now stands, that tags cannot be issued before the deer have been killed, and it is useless to apply for them before that time.

No tags can be issued after the expiration of five days from the close of the open season.

The making of false affidavits is severely punished.

The possession of the tags, regularly and lawfully issued, entitles the owner thereof to have the game transported anywhere within the state, but not beyond the boundaries of the state.

Sounds Practical

While talking about railroad we again call the attention of the people to the proposition of an electric line from the Willamette river to the Yaquina Bay. There is a commercial demand for such a road. This is the natural outlet for the products of the valley. This would be an economic route for the incoming freight. Such a road could be constructed cheaply as there are no grades to interfere with an electrical line. It could be operated cheaply, as the power could be obtained from the Marys and Big Elk rivers. When our present railroad carried freight to the Bay and shipped it on its own steamers more than one million bushels of wheat was carried out in one year; making an additional gain to the farmers in that one staple of $50,000. The freight to make such a line a paying investment is a guaranteed fact. And in addition to that, the passenger traffic at the cheap rates of electric roads would be immense. While talking about new lines why not build a road where one is needed?—Toledo Reporter.

FELL THIRTY FEET

Henry Oleman Sinking—C & E Improvements.

The following interesting items appeared in the Albany Herald of Wednesday:

Tony Armstrong, a member of the force of bridge carpenters employed by the Corvallis & Eastern railroad west of this city, met with a serious accident yesterday forenoon, the result of which will keep him laid up for some months at the least, and may result in his permanent disability. He with his companions was at work on a bridge this side of Granger across a slough, when in some way he stepped off the bridge and fell to the ground some 30 feet below, where he struck on the rocks below. Fortunately for the man he shot straight down and struck standing. His ankles gave way and he found them severely bruised and lacerated, but the rest of his body was in excellent condition, with the exception of a soreness through the body.

As quickly as possible the bridge crew placed the man on the handcar and brought him to this city, where he was taken to his home on West Fifth street, where he is now being cared for. Dr. M. H. Ellis was called in to attend the injured man, the regular railroad physician D. W. R. Davis, being out of the city. Dr. Ellis made an examination of the injuries, finding that the man's ankles and feet were in extremely bad condition, and so badly swollen as to make it impossible until the swelling was reduced to ascertain whether or not any bones were broken. The man was made as comfortable as possible and today a further examination will be had, when the extent of the injuries will be known definitely. It is thought that fully three months will elapse before the injured man will be able to walk, even if no bones are broken.

Mr. Armstrong's companions, who brought the man to this city, were at a loss to say as to what caused the accident all they knew being that the man stepped off the bridge and fell to the ground 30 feet down to the slough.

Henry Oleman, of Summit, who was recently desperately wounded while driving a mower on his father's farm, and who was taken to the Salem hospital for treatment, suffered blood poisoning since going to Salem and is in a precarious condition with small hopes for his recovery. Young Oleman, it will be remembered, carried a shot gun on the mower, and when the horses took fright and started down the field at a fast pace the gun fell from his hands, was discharged and the load entered his left arm and breast. He was treated by Dr. Cathey and when he had recovered sufficiently so he could be moved, was taken to the hospital in Salem.

It seems that the young man did not do so well after reaching the hospital and blood poisoning set in, so that it is feared he cannot long survive. Henry Oleman is the son of H. A. Oleman, a prominent farmer of the Summit neighborhood, and the parents of the young man who were notified of his condition, passed through here a day or two ago, hurrying to the wounded boy's bedside.

A telephone message from the hospital at 2 o'clock this morning brought the news that the injured man is slowly but surely sinking and it is feared he will not survive more than a few days at the best.

Extensive repairs are being made to the roadbed all along the line of the Corvallis & Eastern, and the road is being placed in better condition than it has been since the days of the early history of the Webfoot route. In many places the bridges are being rebuilt. Especially is this work going on between this city and the Summit of the Coast range. The track is being ballasted in many places and new ties are everywhere made use of, the older ones being removed. A large force of construction men are at work in bettering the track and the road will soon have a better roadbed than any in the state.

Trouble Over Horse.

Monday a man by the name of J. E. Schenck came over to this city from Linn county and while here bargained for one of Walter Taylor's horses. In payment for the animal he gave Mr. Taylor a check on an Albany bank for $140.

He seemed well pleased with his bargain and took the animal home with him. The following day he brought the horse back and desired Mr. Taylor to accept it and return the check. This, Mr. Taylor declined to do, as he declared that the animal was as he had represented. Mr. Schenck agreed that the horse was all right so far as that was concerned, but he had concluded that he did not want it.

On Mr. Taylor declining to accept the horse, Mr. Schenck asked permission to put it in the stable and feed it. This was granted, but when Mr. Schenck departed he left the horse in Mr. Taylor's stable. He then went to Albany and stopped payment on the check he had given Mr. Taylor. The latter went to Albany, Wednesday, and garnished the bank for the $140. More than this, he brought suit in the circuit court for Linn county against M. Schenck. The matter will come up for hearing in October.

Mr. Taylor, considering that the horse left in his stable was the property of J. E. Schenck, and desiring to make himself safe in the matter, had the animal attached by Sheriff Burnett yesterday. While in Albany Walter ascertained that he was not the first man Mr. Schenck had dealt with in the same manner.

Was In Poor Health For Years.

Ira W. Kelley, of Mansfield, Pa., writes: "I was in poor health for two years, suffering from kidney and bladder trouble, and spent considerable money consulting physicians without obtaining any marked benefit, but was cured by Foley's Kidney Cure, and I desire to add my testimony that it may be the cause of restoring the health of others." Refuse substitutes. Sold by Graham & Wortham.

Notice of Final Settlement.

Notice is hereby given that the executor of the last will of Seymour Chipman, deceased, has filed his final account with county court, Benton county, Oregon, and said county court has set Tuesday, September 5, 1905, at 10 o'clock a. m. at county court room, Corvallis, to hear any objections to said report.
