SILETZ FIRST.

New Jury Drawn for Land Fraud Cases.

Benton county again had a couple her citizens drafted for service as jurors during the land fraud trials in Portland, and these gentlemen are W. A. Jolly, county commissioner, and Walter K. Taylor, who provides many of our citizens with milk.

It was expected that Siletz operations would be the first to be investigated. Rumor also has it that certain Albany men will have to "explain."

Regarding all this talk and conjecture the Portland Telegram of Tuesday evening had the following: It is believed that the jury is investigating today the Siletz Reservation frauds, with a view to renewing the indictment against Jones, Potter and others, which was dismissed because of the faulty wording of the document. A number of Siletz witnesses are in Portland who are somewhat familiar with the methods employed by Jones and others in securing countrymen to file upon Siletz lands, and will tell what they know to the grand jury.

MAKING MONEY.

Machine Counts one Million Pennies a Day.

A million pennies a day—that is the capacity of a strange machine which Uncle Sam used in the Philadelphia mint to count the coin of the smallest value made by the government.

The counting board is about as large as a big kneading board such as housewives use. The surface of it is wide enough to hold a row of forty pennies.

When the pennies are to be counted, several thousand are heaped onto the board, which is placed above a hopper.

Then an operator tips the board backward and forward and sideways, so that the pennies slide about, and finally settle in the grooves made by the brass partition strips.

When the board is full, there are 1,000 pennies on it. It is then dumped into a receptacle just outside the hopper, and the pennies which have slipped off the board into the hopper are caught by a box underneath.

Pennies are coined only at the Philadelphia mint, and the Government finds the coining of them profitable, because the value of the metal they contain is only about three-fourths of a cent.

The upsetting machine is another interesting mechanical contrivance. It is used for turning the edges of coins. The coin discs, of the proper size and thickness, but with their edges still rough, are put into tubes to fit them.

These tubes are placed upright beside a round-topped, revolving table. At each revolution of the table, one of the discs drops into a groove between the table and an outer shell, and the pressure on the edges of the disc makes them smooth.

Stamping the coins is the last process, and this is done by means of a great machine which weighs 15 tons and costs $15,000. There are twenty-four such machines in the Philadelphia mint.

The discs which are to be coins are placed in a tube, as is the case of the upsetting machine. The steel fingers take hold of the bottom disc, and move it over to the die.

Then the die above presses down on the disc, so that the impression is made on both sides. At the same time, the edges of the disc are milled, and when the upper die raises, the steel fingers push the finished coin out of the way and bring a disc into position.

The machine at the Portland Exposition, which is used in stamping twenty-dollar gold pieces, has a capacity of 90 a minute. A pressure of 180 tons is necessary to stamp a silver dollar, but 130 tons pressure will stamp a double eagle.

Smaller coins require less pressure. In connection with the exhibit at the Western World's Fair, coins of this year's make in all denominations except the silver dollar are displayed.

None of the mints are now coining dollars, because the Government has on hand 600,000,000 which are being held for the purpose of redeeming silver certificates.

There is also an exhibition at Portland the first coining press ever used by the United States Government, a crude machine which was operated by hand, and was used in 1793 for making copper pennies.

Good Health to the Children

Children especially are fond of dainties, and the housekeeper must look carefully to their food. As good cake can be made only with good eggs, so also a cake that is healthful as well as dainty must be raised with a pure and perfect baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder is indispensable in the preparation of the highest quality of food. It imparts that peculiar lightness, sweetness and flavor noticed in the finest cake, biscuit, doughnuts, crusts, etc., and what is more important, renders the food wholesome and agreeable to young and old.
