

LOCAL AND PERSONAL

Miss Eva Starr returned from a visit in Portland, Tuesday.

George E. Lilly went to Portland Wednesday to form an opinion on the Fair.

Born, Monday, Sept. 4, to the wife of A. P. Harlan, in this city, a daughter.

W. C. Swann and wife went to Portland, Wednesday, to visit at the Fair a few days.

The First Methodist Sunday school will meet in the League rooms at the usual hour next Sabbath.

Regular services in the M. E. church, South, next Sabbath. Preaching by the pastor both morning and evening.

Monday evening there was a dance at the newly built hop dryer of C. E. Ireland's a few miles north of this city. A large number of people were in attendance and a good time is reported.

Theodore Garrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Garrow of this city, will leave Sunday for the East. He intends entering Cornell University. Theodore graduated from OAC last June.

Mrs. Sherman Wade, who has been visiting with her mother, Mrs. John Rickard, in this city for the past week or ten days, will start today for her home in Olex, Eastern Oregon. She will be accompanied by her sister, Miss Belle Ranney.

Taylor Porter and Ed Williams were subpoenaed the first of the week to report for jury service in Portland in connection with the land fraud cases. Wednesday, Mrs. Taylor went to Portland to visit the Fair while her husband was in that city.

H. L. French spent a few days recently in the vicinity of Monroe locating fruit for the Benton county booth at the Fair. Mr. French does the locating and his son, Sidney, does the collecting. During the past few days a great many choice prunes have been sent down for exhibit.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wiley arrived in Corvallis a couple of days ago for a brief visit. It is about four years since John was in our city, in fact, he left Corvallis shortly after his graduation from OAC in 1901. He now holds a good position connected with the post office in Portland.

Sherman Chappell, Fred Darby and others departed, Wednesday, for an outing in the vicinity of Fisher. They will be in the mountains for a week or so and during Mr. Chappell's absence his farm will be in charge of his brother, Herman, who arrived from near Los Angeles, California, a few days ago.

J. M. Nolan came near being the victim of a serious accident while letting down the awning in front of his place of business, Tuesday morning. In some manner the windlass used in raising and lowering the awning by chain got away from him and he seized the chain. As a result his left hand was drawn into the pulley and was quite badly pinched and bruised.

Wilbur Garrow arrived in this city, Monday, after an absence of several years. He came up for a brief visit with relatives. Yesterday in company with his father, E. J. Garrow, it was the intention to start for Humboldt county, California, where they are expecting to superintend the construction of a very large reservoir dam on Eel river.

On his arrival home a few days ago from Portland and Astoria, Thomas Whitehorn reported that he had seen R. E. Gibson while away and the latter was preparing to take a crew of Chinamen to Rogue river to operate a salmon cannery. Mr. Gibson now resides in Portland, but during the period of his residence in this city parties connected with the cannery on Rogue got in his debt and he is now attempting to get his money back.

A couple of days ago a party from the country was in town with a horse afflicted with distemper. This fact started some gentlemen who noticed the condition of the animal to talking. They agreed that it was a menace to other horses for an animal suffering with distemper to be fastened to a hitching post, as the horse might rub his nose against the post and the next animal doing likewise stood a good chance to catch the disease. One gentleman of the crowd said that he had given orders on his farm that a professional horse-trader should not be allowed to water a beast at his trough. In explanation of this order, he said there was no telling what kind of an old and diseased animal a trader might have and he did not wish his stock subject to any ailment.

County Clerk Moses is having the west end of his residence lot filled in. It is to be filled up about 18 inches.

United Evangelical Church—Sunday next, subject in the morning, "The Eleventh Commandment;" subject in evening, "Why do men not go to church?" C. T. Hurd, pastor.

Hoppickers in wagons, on horseback and afoot have been passing through town this week in all directions for the various fields. One fellow was seen pedaling through town on a "bike" with a hop barrel and a blanket lashed to his back.

Mrs. C. G. Copeland passed through Corvallis, Wednesday, from Portland to her home at Siletz. Her mother, Mrs. S. Kisor, was to take the train at Philomath and accompany her home for a couple of months' visit.

The annual meeting of the Oregon Press Association is scheduled for Portland today and tomorrow. We acknowledge courtesies at the hands of Secretary Albert Tozier, also the kindness of the Southern Pacific in the way of transportation.

W. G. Emery, of this city, was elected secretary and treasurer of the Photographers' Association of the Pacific Northwest in Portland a few days ago during one of the meetings of that body. Mr. Emery is energetic and capable and will make a good officer.

Presiding Elder C. L. McCausland, of the M. E. church, South, returned home Tuesday from a visit to Coos and Curry counties. He speaks well of conditions there and declares that on account of natural resources and railroad prospects the county is developing rapidly. He was in that section several weeks.

Congregational Church—Sunday school at 10:00; Worship and sermon at 11:00; Christian Endeavor at 7:00; Vesper service and sermon 3:00. Morning sermon, "The Atonement; What it is; The Problem; How Brought About?" Evening sermon, "Manhood; What is it? What are your views of it?"

Mrs. C. A. Danneman and daughter, Miss Mary, went to Portland last week. There they were met by Mrs. Danneman's other daughters, Misses Carrie and Bessie, who have passed the summer at Clem, Eastern Oregon. Together they spent several days visiting the Fair. Wednesday they all returned to their home in this city.

Tuesday, William Gellatly housed his threshing outfit, having had a run of a few hours more than 24 days. The most threshing was done in Blodgett and Kings Valleys, where Mr. Gellatly thinks the grain was a trifle better than average this year. However, he made nothing—just about held even. He says he put through enough stray to have cleared $1,000 or $1,200.

C. E. Hill, of Hastings, Nebraska, visited Gene Simpson's pheasant farm a few days ago, and while there advanced a novel idea. He said he intended to try and secure an appropriation of $5,000 from the Nebraska legislature to be expended in stocking that state with China pheasants. His pet idea is that the pheasants will in time eat all the grasshoppers the state can raise.

John W. Ingle, plaintiff, and John Albers, defendant, is the title of a case in Justice Holgate's court to be tried tomorrow, Saturday. The complaint alleges that said defendant withheld wheat due Ingle as rent on his farm during the season of 1904, and the demand is made for judgment covering the same with interest at 6 per cent, from September 1, 1904, and costs of suit. Mr. Ingle appears as plaintiff, and attorney for plaintiff, and Fred Yates appears as attorney for defendant, Albers.

Mrs. S. Parkerson, of Pomona, Kansas, and Mrs. Amos Parkerson, daughter-in-law of the above, of Wagner, Indian Territory, departed Wednesday en route to their separate homes, although they are to visit friends and relatives along the route. Mrs. S. Parkerson is the oldest sister of Mrs. S. Kisor, of Philomath, and is aged 75 years. This is the seventh time she has visited relatives in Oregon. For a few days previous to their departure the ladies were guests of Mrs. J. Mason and Mrs. Alex. Campbell, this city.

It has been remarked heretofore that the force of habit is strong. Here is something to the point: At intervals in the past Joseph Yates has sold J. C. Hammel fresh eggs. Mr. Yates always carried the eggs to Mr. Hammel in a certain little basket, the latter receiving the basket and counting out the eggs. A few days ago Mr. Yates showed up at Mr. Hammel's place of business and handed that gentleman the basket as usual. "Mine host" counted, six at a time, several dozen of what he took for eggs before he discovered that the basket was "full of prunes."

IN HIS GRAVE.

Funeral of Late Clyde Tharp—Further Details of the Accident.

An immense throng of people attended the funeral of the late Clyde Tharp which occurred at 3 o'clock Saturday afternoon, the services being conducted at the Bellfountain cemetery, where the remains were interred. There was no sermon, but short, impressive addresses were made by Rev. and Mrs. E. H. Belknap and Rev. M. M. Waltz. A choir composed of Mrs. M. M. Waltz, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Edwards, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Belknap, Mrs. Clinton Reese, Wilbur Starr, Mrs. Bane and Miss Alice Edwards rendered several beautiful selections.

There were many choice floral pieces, the grave being completely hidden from view by roses and other cut flowers. The Grange members were present in a body, and by them the grave was lined with white cloth and the casket covered with fir boughs, both colors emblematic of the order.

Mr. Tharp was born 25 years ago within half a mile of the spot where, on last Friday he met his death. Direct information from the neighborhood gives further details of the tragic occurrence. It seems that Mr. Tharp had just left the gravel pit with his wagon loaded, and had started down a steep hill, when the man digging in the pit heard Tharp's horses running away. Following at a run, the man found Tharp nearly buried in gravel, and mashed and blood-stained almost beyond semblance to human being. Gravel was in the eyes, nose and mouth, and the left side of the body was so crushed that the heart and lung were nearly torn away.

The front end-gate to the wagon was found to be out, and by some it is thought that the end-gate broke and that the gravel began falling, taking Mr. Tharp with it and frightening the horses into a run. Just how the terrible affair began will, however, probably remain a mystery.

The parents, the wife and one child, three years old, are the immediate survivors. There is universal sympathy for the bereaved ones.

Mrs. Mary Garlinghouse.

Some time back Mrs. Mary Garlinghouse suffered a stroke of paralysis from which it is thought she never fully recovered. This, together with old age is supposed to have caused her death, Sunday, in the forenoon at her home about a mile from Monroe. She was aged 79 years at the time of death.

Mrs. Garlinghouse is reputed to have been one of the wealthiest people in her section during life—her possessions consisted mainly of large tracts of land. She was one of Benton's early pioneers. She had one daughter, Mrs. Fannie Starr, who survives her, and who was with her when she died.

The funeral was from the residence and the services were conducted by Rev. M. M. Waltz. Interment was made at Monroe cemetery.

To Search for Son.

Mon. C. B. Crosno, of Toledo, collector of customs at Yaquina Bay, passed through Corvallis, Wednesday, enroute to Grants Pass. He recently received word to the effect that his son had been lost in the mountains of that section for some days.

The son had been working there for some time in the capacity of a timber cruiser and is reputed to be a good mountaineer. Mr. Crosno was not alarmed that his son had lost his way, but feared he had met with some serious accident. Immediately after reaching Grants Pass, Mr. Crosno intended to form a searching party and scour the mountains for his son.
