Are You Engaged?

Engaged people should remember, that after marriage many quarrels can be avoided, by keeping their digestions in good condition with Electric Bitters. S. A. Brown, of Bennettsville, S. C., says: "For years my wife suffered intensely from Dyspepsia, complicated with a torpid liver, until she lost her strength and vigor, and became a mere wreck of her former self. Then she tried Electric Bitters, which helped her at once, and finally made her entirely well. She is now strong and healthy." Allen & Woodward druggists, sells and guarantees them, at 50c a bottle.

So far we have not been gaur (Bos gaurus) is the largest and fiercest of all wild cattle, with tanciers and breeders have made hoofs small in proportion to its any entries of birds or stock, but height, and of deerlike, rather hope they have. Concerning the than oxlike, character, says Out- show the Telegram of a couple ing. Its sense of smell is as acute as that of the elephant and its vision much keener. When you seek one of these cattle you need all your hunter's skill and your nerve, for, next to the elephant and bracketed with the Cape buffalo of Africa, I believe its natural temperament and the character of the country in which it is found make the seladang in the Malay peninsula the most formidable quarry on earth. In India, where the range of the gaur is the hilly, ber 5 to October 11. It has wooded districts, they are more been well announced, having apt to be found in herds of some size, and, because of the more dangerous sections, less difficult of approach, and less dangerous to the hunter than in the Malay peninsula, where the jungle is the densest that grows, and almost invariably the quarry has the man at a disadvantage. In Malay it is snap shooting, where the game, on being wounded, turns hunter, and, concealed, awaits the sportsman, ings as the stock show September who must approach with infinite caution, with senses always alert and hand ever ready if he would stop or turn aside the vicious charge. You may never in this jungle survey the field of operations from some vantage point; but in the close growing angle of vines, and canes, and thorn bushes, and heavy coarse weed of grass-like mass-through which you can never get even dim sight for over 20 yards and most of the time can scarcely see that many feet ahead-you must follow the tracks of the seladang you have wounded, never knowing at what instant the maddened beast may burst from the jungle practically right on top of you. One seladang I was fortunate enough to finally get was only just at the other side of a bamboo clump when he started his charge full at me. This is the dangerous and the unavoidable feature of hunting the beast in Malay. Luckily for the hunter, the seladang, if unsuccessful in its charge, passes on to await him at another point. Never have I heard of one turning instantly to a second charge after missing the hunter on the first rush. But, on the other hand, if the seladang

Potala, or the sacred place of the dalai lama, the high priest of the Thibetans, was photographed for the first time when the members of the British Thibetan expedition reached Lhasa, the sacred forbidden city in the center of Thibet, says the Metropolitan Magazine. Col. Younghusband. who was in charge of the expedi tion, would permit no attempt by the correspondents to violate the sanctity of the various sacred buildings, but splendid views of the exterior were obtained, and the world is richer by authentic descriptions of this wonderful palace, which is described in the dispatch of the London Times correspondent. Over a city set as a jewel, amid green gardens, through which crystal streams flowed, towered the giant Potala, rising almost from the ground in gigantic stretches of white masonry, pierced with intermingable rows of windows, and scaled by great, red-edged, zig-zag stairways, 20 feet wide. Above these a white mass ascended at either end in the shape of a heavily terraced palace, inclosing a maroon mass, the main building. Above this again were golden roofs of a Chinese pattern, the whole structure, 430 feet high and between 800 and 900 feet long, completely dominating the city of Lhasa, which was separated from the palace by wide stretches of turf and a beautiful plantation full of forest trees.

The show is dated from Octobeen a topic of interest in all the poultry journals of the West since it was first mooted, two years ago. As a result, those interested in the thoroughbred chickens and poultry of all sorts have been looking forward for a long time to an exhibition which should bring together the best that is in the West. The show will be held in the same build-19 to 29. The partition walls will probably be cleared out from some of the larger stables and the grounds cleaned for this purpose.
