Presidential Election Will Make No Difference.

No matter what candidate is elected, Foley's Honey and Tar will remain the people's favorite remedy for coughs, colds, and incipient consumption. It cures colds quickly and prevents pneumonia. A. J. Nusbaum, Batesville, Ind., writes: "I suffered for three months with a severe cold. A druggist prepared me some medicine and a physician prescribed for me, yet I did not improve. I then tried Foley's Honey and Tar and eight doses cured me." Graham & Wortham.

WAS HONEST IN POLITICS.

Mark Twain, Stumping for Hawley, Told Exactly What He Knew of the Famous General.

This is the way in which Mark Twain once introduced Gen. Joseph R. Hawley at a public meeting, according to the Hartford Times: "I see I am advertised to introduce the speaker of the evening, Gen. Hawley, of Connecticut, and I see it is the report that I am to make a political speech. Now, I must say this is an error. I wasn't constructed to make stump speeches, and on that head (political) I have only this to say: First, see that you vote. Second, see that your neighbor votes. Lastly, see that yourself or neighbor don't scratch the ticket. Gen. Hawley was president of the Continental commission. Was a gallant soldier in the war. He has been governor of Connecticut, member of congress, and was president of the convention that nominated Abraham Lincoln."

Gen. Hawley—that nominated Grant. Twain—He says it was Grant, but I know better. He is a member of my church at Hartford, and the author of 'Beautiful Snow.' Maybe he will deny that. But I am only here to give him a character from his last place. As a pure citizen, I respect him, as a personal friend of years I have the warmest regard for him; as a neighbor whose vegetable garden joins mine, why—why, I watch him. That's nothing; we all do that with any neighbor. Gen. Hawley keeps his promises, not only in private but in public. He is an editor who believes in what he writes in his own paper. As the author of 'Beautiful Snow' he added a new pang to winter. He is broad-souled, generous, noble, liberal, alive to his moral and religious responsibilities. Whenever the contribution box was passed I never knew him to take out a cent. He is a square, true, honest man in politics, and I must say he occupies a mighty lonesome position.

POINTS OUT MISTAKES.

Government Specialist Shows Error in Wheat Growing.

S. L. Kline is ever observant of things that touch on the welfare of our section and takes great interest in the matter of wheat raising. Some weeks ago he sent us a clipping from a San Francisco paper that treated of wheat. We are now in receipt of another clipping from Mr. Kline. It will be noticed that the government expert and Dr. Withycombe are very much in sympathy on certain vital points. The article in question is as follows: "Professor Carlton, cerealist of the United States Department of Agriculture, addressed a body of 200 men at the Merchant's Exchange Hall yesterday afternoon on the subject of cereal culture, with special reference to the growing of wheat."

"The particular problem that we have on hand now," said he, "is the improvement of wheat, and keeping it improved, which is the more difficult problem of the two. The great trouble with the California soil is a lack of nitrogen content, the most essential element to the growth of wheat. We propose to overcome this by inducing the farmers to alternate their wheat crop with Canadian field peas or Dakota vetch, which will increase the nitrogen element in the soil. Most of the farmers in this State grow wheat on the same soil in and year out, a process that would deteriorate any kind of cereal and more especially wheat."

"I have found also," said the professor, "that the farmers of this State are careless in their methods of harvesting their wheat. They allow it to remain standing in the field long after the time of harvesting has passed, which is another prime cause of deterioration. They also select their seed wheat from that which has been threshed, and naturally they don't know what they are getting. They should select the seed from the plant itself."

The professor then stated that the experiments thus far had shown the Turkey red wheat to be the best, and that the department intended to introduce it in California, where experiments would be carried on under the auspices of the State Experiment Station.

Professor Shaw of the State University was present at the meeting, and had a number of specimens of wheat showing the results of various experiments. The suggestions offered by these specialists seemed to be appreciated by those present, some of whom are among the most extensive wheat-growers in the State.

Professor Carlton announced that the department at Washington was going to co-operate with the Berkeley station in building up the standard of the California wheat, and would render all the help it could in solving the problems that are to be overcome in accomplishing that end.

Resolutions.

Whereas, At the last election held in this county the vote was taken upon the question of local option; and,

Whereas, This county voted overwhelmingly in favor of the prohibition of the sale and usage of intoxicants as a beverage; and that such vote was the declared will of the legal voters of this county, and thereby became a law which went into effect on the 1st of January last; and, at which time all saloon men doing business in this county closed their houses of business, and thereby placed themselves on record as law-abiding citizens; and,

Whereas, Since this law became operative there has been organized a so-called Social and Athletic Club to defeat the better interest and purpose of the local option law, traffic in this county in an indirect and underhanded manner; and,

Whereas, The organization and continuation of such club is in effect an effort to cause willful disregard for law and order, and make null and void the object and power of our democratic franchise and liberty; and,

Whereas, The local option law has won great favor in this county through its excellent results thus far, with not a few thus far who at first opposed it on the ground of injuring the business interests of the county; and,

Whereas, That the local sentiment is stronger than ever in favor of local option; be it

Resolved, First, that the Ministerial Association of Corvallis condemns the communications sent to the public press elsewhere that are misleading to the facts in the case; therefore, be it

Resolved, Second, that we most heartily endorse the attitude of to Corvallis Times with reference to this question; that we commend the fairness of Judge Holgate; that we urge our appreciation of the able, careful and persevering efforts of our prosecuting attorney, Mr. Bryson, and Sheriff Burnett and his assistants to uphold and enforce the law.

Society invitations and wedding announcements are constantly changing in styles of type faces and form. Have them printed neatly and up-to-date at the Gazette office.

If the quality of the bill paper that a show puts up is any indication of the quality of the show, then "On the Bridge at Midnight" will be a superior attraction. Now, any show company can get good paper, but they don't, because good paper costs money, and bum attractions cannot afford it. It is an absolute fact that the paper now posted and seen in the windows is a higher grade than has been in Corvallis for a long time. Mighty few companies show up as well.

GOOD QUALITIES OF SAGE.

Savory and Salutary All the Year Round and Liked by All, Says a Londoner.

Nearly all our vegetables and herbs appear originally to have passed through some preliminary stage in the laboratory of the medical herbalist before being admitted to the full honors of the kitchen, writes a Londoner. The fact is not so strange as it might at first sight appear, and its results have certainly been to the general advantage of mankind, for, though for the most part the old herbalist's prescriptions were of a kind neither to kill nor cure, his investigations of the specific qualities of plants were often useful. The ancients seem to have regarded sage as a herb of first importance to the physician, and the many traditions concerning it refer almost entirely to this aspect of the plant. "Why should a man die who has his sage in his garden?" was one of the maxims of the famous school of health at Salerno. The belief in its virtues survived through the middle ages and was handed down with unimpaired vitality to quite modern writers. The writers of the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries were full of its praises, and there was hardly an ailment of mind or body for which sage was not pronounced a cure or an alleviation. Hence sprang the idea that, as it was thus generally wholesome and recommended by the faculty, the housewife might prudently admit a dried winter supply to her storeroom. And so this "sovereign herb" gradually found its way into the kitchen, of which it has ever since remained an indispensable adjunct. Not that it at once lost all its medical attributes. "He that would live for aye must eat sage in May," runs the proverb. But the cooks soon began to take broader views. They pronounced sage to be equally savory and salutary all the year round, and of special and peculiar value at the season of Michaelmas.

But this is advancing matters. Even the best of things eatable have had to overcome prejudice and slowly make their way; and in the case of more concomitants some help from the encouraging hand of fashion has generally been necessary. The rather nauseous brew known as sage tea was so common a domestic medicine to our forefathers that they could not at once accept the herb in the character of a savory adjunct. But we live and learn, and the merits of sage as a modifier of certain rich viands began to be acknowledged. It seemed to have a certain sort of natural affinity with roast pork, goose and duck, and presently became the constant attendant of these dishes. Early in the eighteenth century an acknowledged authority laid it down that "as to geese and ducks, cooks should stuff them with sage-shred fine, and a little pepper and salt; and the same with a suckling pig."
